ARLINGTON HEIGHTS policemen leave a village board meeting after discussion of alleged problems in the department was postponed until a special meeting called for next Tuesday.

At Feb. 24 session

Trustees to hear police complaints

by BILL HILL

The Arlington Heights Village Board will meet in special session Feb. 24 to discuss recent criticism of the police department by former Police Capt. Jack Aldrich.

Aldrich, former Capt. Irvin McDougall and former Trustee Alice Harms will be asked to attend in order to answer questions from board members.

It was not known if all three will be able to attend the meeting. Aldrich is now chief of police in Barrington Hills. McDougall is chief of police in Mendota.

THE SPECIAL meeting was slated Monday night in the wake of Aldrich's letter and two-page report on alleged problems in the police department, which was delivered to the board's finance committee last week by Mrs. Harms.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan criticized Aldrich for having Mrs. Harms, who resigned from the board Jan. 19, deliver the report.

"The manner this came before the board stinks," he said. "It's extraordinary to me that someone would decide to pass a letter to a third party to carry it to the board, and then not even to the full board. With each step in this, sensationalism was the ultimate thought in mind."

Trustee August Bettman said the delivery of the letter was "cowardly and chicken. The least thing he could have done was buy a 13-cent stamp and mail it to the board. This was the

In most countries when the meeting room of government is packed with police, the government is in trouble. In the United States when they come in numbers, it's because they are on the spot.

Police don't like loose ends or continuing sagas, such as the one being played out in the village hall.

Almost half of Arlington Heights' policemen came to see what the village board was going to do about former Capt. Jack Aldrich's accusations of the department.

They were there in uniforms, jeans and combat jackets or casual clothes. There was at least one tape recorder going while the village president said of their former captain's method of operation "It stinks, it's cheap."

THE WIVES WERE there. Their husbands' jobs matter, because if there's a foul-up on the job they could be a widow by the next shift change.

Only one officer spoke. John Saisi simply asked that the matter be resolved quickly.

Chief L. W. Calderwood sat in the last row, silent for the most part, except an occasional whisper to the last captain left on the force, Maurice English.

Calderwood folded his arms and bowed his head. He did not speak out.

Neither did Aldrich. He wasn't there, nor was Alice Harms, the former trustee who delivered his letter.

TRUSTEE AUGUST C. Bettman lashed out at the letter and the way it was delivered.

"It was cowardly, chicken or what ever you want to call it," Bettman said. "It's the sneaky way out."

The cops sat quietly. Court is held in the board room, and they know that there one treads carefully and only when sure.

Weekend maneuverings went unrevealed. Petitions were circulated and emergency meetings had been called. Positions and results would have to wait for better timing, they said.

FOR YEARS Aldrich was on the force and now this. What's behind it? Police and trustees have been asking for a week.

And now they have another week to wait before the special hearing is called to find out what is going on.

Aldrich has remained quiet on the matter. Yes, he has said, that's his signature on the letter and he will attend a special meeting.

The slow motion commotion continues and the dust from the Barrington Hills bombshell isn't going to settle for some time yet to come.

Heffernan for convention delegate

Wheeling GOP endorses Ford

by WANDALYN RICE

The Wheeling Township Republican organization voted to support President Ford for reelection and endorsed a convention delegate candidate pledged to him.

The organization's precinct captains voted 47 to 19 in a preferential vote to support Ford and cast their support by a 57 to 17 margin to William Heffernan, vice chairman of the organization, who is running as a candidate for the GOP national convention pledged to Ford.

Supporters of Ford's March 16 primary opponent Ronald Reagan opposed Heffernan's selection, saying the township organization should also support Eloise Canfield, a member of the organization who is running for alternate delegate on the Reagan slate.

REAGAN BACKERS said the township group should not have endorsed any delegate candidates if it wasn't going to support candidates pledged to both Ford and Reagan.

Last week, the organization's executive committee voted to recommend an endorsement of Heffernan, who is a member of the slate of four delegates and four alternate delegates pledged to Ford.

The endorsement of Heffernan was supported by Republican State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights.

"I'd like to see somebody from Wheeling Township down there at the convention. Bill Heffernan is the kind of guy I'd like to see there," Schlickman said.

Heffernan also was supported by Wheeling Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus, who said, "We've never had a full-fledged delegate from Wheeling Township. I would support Bill whether he was suporting Reagan or Ford."

EDWARD MURNANE, an aide to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th and a Reagan supporter, said he did not oppose Heffernan as an individual but said, "We feel the executive committee has slighted or overlooked Eloise Canfield."

Murnane added, "What we are saying by endorsing Bill Heffernan is that we are saying we are endorsing the Ford ticket. If that's what we want to do, let's be honest about it."

Wheeling Township Assessor Marshall Thoreaux argued against any endorsement by the organization for any delegate candidates. He said, "It occurs to me that if this endorsement (Heffernan) goes through it will be difficult for a precinct captain to morally do anything but support the endorsed candidate."

"I think that endorsing one delegate candidate or more puts the organization in the position of endorsing either the Ford or Reagan candidacy."

An effort to get a vote on an endorsement of Mrs. Canfield failed because her name had not been nominated at least 48 hours before Monday's meeting, a requirement of the organization bylaws.

Dist. 25 offers college credit work

Community residents are now able to earn college credit through workshops offered by the teachers' center in Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

Education workshops are being offered to teachers and residents for credit through the National College of Education, Evanston, as part of a graduate degree in education.

Students must register for the workshops by Monday by filling out a registration card at the teachers' center, Olive School, 303 E. Olive St., Arlington Heights. Tuition is $74 for 28 hours of workshop, equivalent to two credits, and $37 for 15 hours, equivalent to one credit. Applicants who have not previously registered for courses at the National College of Education must send the college an official transcript.

Workshops are now being offered and will be offered throughout the spring as announced in the center's newsletter.

Persons interested in receiving the newsletter or enrolling for workshop credit should contact Suzanne Jacobs, 398-4287.

1975 safest year in auto history: study

On a mileage basis, 1975 was the safest year for motor vehicle travel in U.S. history, the National Safety Council reported.

The council also reported 45,600 traffic fatalities recorded for 1975 made it the safest year in terms of total deaths since 1963.

Preliminary traffic safety statistics for 1975 show the mileage death rate dropped to 3.5 fatalities per 100 million miles traveled. It is the lowest rate the council recorded in the 52 years it has been keeping motor vehicle statistics.

The 1974 mileage death rate was 3.6 fatalities per 100 million miles.

A total of 46,200 traffic deaths were reported in 1974.

Approximately 1.8 million disabling injuries resulted from traffic accidents in 1975, about the same number as recorded in 1974, the council said.

"REDUCED VEHICLE speeds were the single most important factor involved in saving lives," said Vincent Tofany, president of the National Safety Council headquartered in Chicago.

"Other factors that played a lesser part in the fatality reduction were less travel on high-risk rural roads, less night driving, a reduction in the average number of occupants per vehicle and an increase in safety belt usage," he said.

The drop in the death rate is not due to a reduction in driving, Tofany said. U.S. motorists drove an estimated 1,315 billion miles in 1975, 25 billion miles more than in 1974.

The number of vehicles on U.S. highways also increased, the council said. Motor vehicle registrations totaled 139 million in 1975, compared to 134.9 million in 1974.

The total cost of traffic accidents to the nation's economy in 1975 was an estimated $20.8 billion, the council said.

Jaffe pledges law to aid grade schools

State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, says he will introduce to the Illinois General Assembly legislation to help financially troubled elementary school districts. Working recently with three members of the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education — Peggy Golden, Edward Pugliese and Sylvia Lurie — Jaffe said the following ideas for legislation were formulated: equalizing state aid given to elementary schools so high schools don't get the most funds; earmarking state lottery funds for education; giving school districts in the Chicago metropolitan area additional state funds because of the higher cost of living; and raising the state-aid resource equalizer to allow school districts to raise per pupil taxes. Jaffe said he hopes to introduce the legislation this spring.

Arlington to probe police charges

A special meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board will be held next week to investigate charges made by former village police Capt. Jack Aldrich. Village Pres. James T. Ryan Monday night said the special meeting was necessary to remove "a cloud hanging over this fine police department." Aldrich, police chief of Barrington Hills, sent a letter to the village board's finance committee last week delivered by former trustee Alice Harms in which he said the police department is mismanaged and stifles initiative. Ryan said the method in which the letter was delivered " . . . stinks, it's cheap and it's not the way I expect professional law enforcement people to operate." Trustee David Griffin said the special meetings were needed to maintain public confidence in the police department. Trustee August Bettman echoed Ryan's opinion of the delivery of the letter, calling it "cowardly, chicken." Neither Aldrich nor Mrs. Harms attended the meeting.

Des Plaines to cover up nudes

The Des Plaines City Council Monday night passed an ordinance requiring stores in the city to cover-up adult books, magazines, newspapers or other literature that depict nudity. The ordinance was passed as a result of complaints from residents who said the covers of some adult magazines are offensive and should be kept from the view of children. Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, said the cover-up law is not an attempt to censor publications but a regulation of their display.

GOP to back Dist. 54 hopefuls

The Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township will endorse candidates in the April 10 Schaumburg Dist. 54 school board election. Charles Smith, leader of the screening committee, said dissatisfaction with the strength of the teachers' union in school board elections prompted the GOP's decision to endorse. "Right now the most powerful political party in the state of Illinois, the teachers' union, is the only one backing candidates," Smith said. He said candidates will not have to be members of the township GOP group or registered Republicans to receive an endorsement. Arthur Neil, president of the Dist. 54 teachers' union, said his group has "never publically supported" board candidates, but has only campaigned within the union ranks.

Walker to tell plans today

$59 million set for road building

Gov. Daniel Walker will announce plans for a $59 million highway construction program for Chicago and Cook County today.

The program, which will be funded through bonds originally slated for use by the City of Chicago but not used, will include several area projects. A complete list of the projects has not been released.

The program also calls for a large-scale improvement project for Cicero Avenue in Chicago.

THE CICERO AVENUE project may catch the attention of some Chicago City Hall officials because the project calls for the improvement of a street that parallels the route of the controversial Crosstown Expressway.

Mayor Richard J. Daley repeatedly has tried to skirt state officials in an effort to gain approval and federal funds for the Crosstown Expressway, but Walker repeatedly has blocked any move to start construction.

An aide to the governor insisted the Cicero Avenue project "had no connection with the Crosstown controversy."

The massive $1 billion highway plan would link Interstate 57 on Chicago's south side to the Stevenson Expressway. Some city officials have predicted the project could help rejuvenate Midway Airport because the expressway would allow for high-speed travel between Midway and O'Hare International Airport.

WALKER HAS refused to approve the project because of protests from residents who live in the path of the proposed expressway. Walker and his highway officials contend the project is too costly and would force the relocation of too many people.

An official of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation said the funds for the road work have been available since June 1975, but the state has been working on architectural and engineering plans for the project.

The official denied there was any link between the timing of the announcement of the project and the March 16 primary.

Howletts leave Chicago residence

Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett has moved his family from their N. Michigan Avenue apartment to a secret location at the request of the Chicago Police Dept.

Howlett, a Democratic candidate for governor, canceled several campaign appearances Monday to help his wife and family move.

The move came after reports that two men, one of them believed a suspect in a Chicago murder, attempted to gain entrance to his apartment last week.

Aides to Howlett said he canceled several appearances, including an interview with The Herald, so he could aid in the relocation.

They said no new threats have been received against Howlett since the incident last week. Chicago police reportedly have obtained several leads regarding the identify and whereabouts of the two men.

Chicago police have been providing a 24-hour police guard of Howlett's apartment, and an increased contingent of Secretary of State's police has been assigned to accompany Howlett during his campaign appearances.

Chicago police reported the two men posed as Howlett aides last week and asked to pick up his cleaning from a service counter in the lobby of Howlett's apartment building.

An attendant at the counter and other witnesses furnished police a description of the two men. One of the artist's sketches prepared from the descriptions matched that of a man wanted for questioning in connection with a recent south side murder.

Noise, U.S. funds dominate Mikva talk

Questions about aircraft noise and revenue sharing dominated an hour-long question and answer session Sunday between U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Des Plaines residents.

Mikva told about 50 persons that while he supports continuation of the federal revenue sharing programs, renewal of the program may be in jeopardy.

In response to complaints about aircraft noise, Mikva outlined legislation he has introduced to give residents who live in communities around major airports the power to form local boards to prepare noise abatement regulations.

The public meeting in Des Plaines was the seventh the congressman has held since taking office last year.

Reorganization goes to subcommittee

State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, said public hearings on the reorganization of Illinois government now will shift into subcommittee studies on individual agencies.

Totten, a member of the House Republican Task Force on State Reorganization, said the first phase of the study was completed last week in Springfield.

The task force heard from representatives of the Council of State Government and state officials involved with a similar project in Missouri.

Missouri officials said their project has reduced the growth of state spending four per cent in 1974.

Political briefs

Totten noted there has been no significant reorganization of state agencies since 1917.

Ford backers plan 12th District fete

Supporters of President Ford will hold an open house Sunday at the 12th Congressional District campaign headquarters Sunday.

The event will feature the delegate candidates pledged to Ford in the 12th District.

U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-14th, also will attend the session.

The open house will be from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at 133 W. Prospect Ave., Mount Prospect.

Metropolitan briefs

Walker raps Howlett's funds use

Gov. Daniel Walker Monday charged that Sec. of State Michael Howlett made personal use of $100,000 in campaign contributions he received in 1974.

Although Howlett has said repeatedly the money was used only for campaigns, Walker said he doesn't believe that because Howlett declared the contributions as personal income on his 1974 tax return.

Under federal law, a candidate does not have to declare political contributions as income unless he uses the money for personal items.

Howlett said he paid tax on the $100,000 in contributions anyway because he used it to pay off a personal loan he had taken out in 1972. Although he used the loan proceeds for his campaign, Howlett said, he paid taxes to avoid any controversy.

But Walker said he thinks Howlett's 1974 tax return showing he declared the campaign contributions as income is proof he used it personally.

"Obviously he did because he paid taxes on it," Walker said. "If that is not personal usage I don't know what is."

Walker said Howlett should explain how he used the money, and he said he plans to keep asking the question until the March 16 Democratic gubernatorial primary, in which he and Howlett are competing.

Howlett issued a statement later saying Walker's statement was "another attempt to divert attention from his sorry record as governor."

Independent auditor urged by Larsen

Suburban Cook County Comr. Ronald Larsen has called for the creation of an independent auditor general's office to keep track of Cook County's financial affairs.

Larson, one of six Republicans on the county board, said it is "ridiculous" for the county to audit its own books. The county budget, he said, is prepared by County Board Pres. George Dunne and audited by the county auditor and comptroller, both of whom are appointed by Dunne.

Larsen said the auditor general's office could be patterned after the state office with the same name. The auditor general would be appointed in a bipartisan manner and would work for members of the county board, he said.

Correct forms to aid revenue fund gain

Residents of Wheeling Township can ensure the township will get its fair share of federal revenue-sharing funds by making sure they fill out box "D" on their federal tax returns, Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said recently.

The box asks residents to designate which township they live in and will be used to allocate revenue-sharing funds, Mrs. Kolerus said. In 1975, Wheeling Township received $241,657 from the federal government for revenue sharing.

Wheeling Township includes all the land lying between Wilke Road and the Des Plaines River and Lake-Cook and Central roads.

Plea for lake water by MSD opposed

The Northwest Municipal Conference has gone on record supporting opposition to the Metropolitan Sanitary District's request for additional water from Lake Michigan.

The MSD's request for additional Lake Michigan water is being opposed by DAMP, an organization of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, which has been studying the possibility of getting water from the lake for suburban use.

The MSD wants additional allocations of lake water for use in sewage treatment plants. DAMP officials have argued that use of lake water for domestic consumption should be given priority over the MSD.

Lake water allocation hearings are being held by state officials to determine how to divide up the water the state is allowed to take from the lake.

The Northwest Municipal Conference is made up of Northwest suburban communities.

Strike abandoned at Cook County jail

Union leaders representing some 500 of the 700 correctional officers at the Cook County Jail decided Monday to temporarily abandon plans to strike the institution following a meeting with County Board Chairman George Dunne.

A spokesman for the sheriff's police said Dunne apparently promised leaders of the Combined Counties Police Assn. union members would receive a pay increase next year.

Jaffe pledges law to aid grade schools

State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, says he will introduce to the Illinois General Assembly legislation to help financially troubled elementary school districts. Working recently with three members of the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education — Peggy Golden, Edward Pugliese and Sylvia Lurie — Jaffe said the following ideas for legislation were formulated: equalizing state aid given to elementary schools so high schools don't get the most funds; earmarking state lottery funds for education; giving school districts in the Chicago metropolitan area additional state funds because of the higher cost of living; and raising the state-aid resource equalizer to allow school districts to raise per pupil taxes. Jaffe said he hopes to introduce the legislation this spring.

Arlington to probe police charges

A special meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board will be held next week to investigate charges made by former village police Capt. Jack Aldrich. Village Pres. James T. Ryan Monday night said the special meeting was necessary to remove "a cloud hanging over this fine police department." Aldrich, police chief of Barrington Hills, sent a letter to the village board's finance committee last week delivered by former trustee Alice Harms in which he said the police department is mismanaged and stifles initiative. Ryan said the method in which the letter was delivered " . . . stinks, it's cheap and it's not the way I expect professional law enforcement people to operate." Trustee David Griffin said the special meetings were needed to maintain public confidence in the police department. Trustee August Bettman echoed Ryan's opinion of the delivery of the letter, calling it "cowardly, chicken." Neither Aldrich nor Mrs. Harms attended the meeting.

Des Plaines to cover up nudes

The Des Plaines City Council Monday night passed an ordinance requiring stores in the city to cover-up adult books, magazines, newspapers or other literature that depict nudity. The ordinance was passed as a result of complaints from residents who said the covers of some adult magazines are offensive and should be kept from the view of children. Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, said the cover-up law is not an attempt to censor publications but a regulation of their display.

GOP to back Dist. 54 hopefuls

The Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township will endorse candidates in the April 10 Schaumburg Dist. 54 school board election. Charles Smith, leader of the screening committee, said dissatisfaction with the strength of the teachers' union in school board elections prompted the GOP's decision to endorse. "Right now the most powerful political party in the state of Illinois, the teachers' union, is the only one backing candidates," Smith said. He said candidates will not have to be members of the township GOP group or registered Republicans to receive an endorsement. Arthur Neil, president of the Dist. 54 teachers' union, said his group has "never publically supported" board candidates, but has only campaigned within the union ranks.

Walker to tell plans today

$59 million set for road building

Gov. Daniel Walker will announce plans for a $59 million highway construction program for Chicago and Cook County today.

The program, which will be funded through bonds originally slated for use by the City of Chicago but not used, will include several area projects. A complete list of the projects has not been released.

The program also calls for a large-scale improvement project for Cicero Avenue in Chicago.

THE CICERO AVENUE project may catch the attention of some Chicago City Hall officials because the project calls for the improvement of a street that parallels the route of the controversial Crosstown Expressway.

Mayor Richard J. Daley repeatedly has tried to skirt state officials in an effort to gain approval and federal funds for the Crosstown Expressway, but Walker repeatedly has blocked any move to start construction.

An aide to the governor insisted the Cicero Avenue project "had no connection with the Crosstown controversy."

The massive $1 billion highway plan would link Interstate 57 on Chicago's south side to the Stevenson Expressway. Some city officials have predicted the project could help rejuvenate Midway Airport because the expressway would allow for high-speed travel between Midway and O'Hare International Airport.

WALKER HAS refused to approve the project because of protests from residents who live in the path of the proposed expressway. Walker and his highway officials contend the project is too costly and would force the relocation of too many people.

An official of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation said the funds for the road work have been available since June 1975, but the state has been working on architectural and engineering plans for the project.

The official denied there was any link between the timing of the announcement of the project and the March 16 primary.

Howletts leave Chicago residence

Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett has moved his family from their N. Michigan Avenue apartment to a secret location at the request of the Chicago Police Dept.

Howlett, a Democratic candidate for governor, canceled several campaign appearances Monday to help his wife and family move.

The move came after reports that two men, one of them believed a suspect in a Chicago murder, attempted to gain entrance to his apartment last week.

Aides to Howlett said he canceled several appearances, including an interview with The Herald, so he could aid in the relocation.

They said no new threats have been received against Howlett since the incident last week. Chicago police reportedly have obtained several leads regarding the identify and whereabouts of the two men.

Chicago police have been providing a 24-hour police guard of Howlett's apartment, and an increased contingent of Secretary of State's police has been assigned to accompany Howlett during his campaign appearances.

Chicago police reported the two men posed as Howlett aides last week and asked to pick up his cleaning from a service counter in the lobby of Howlett's apartment building.

An attendant at the counter and other witnesses furnished police a description of the two men. One of the artist's sketches prepared from the descriptions matched that of a man wanted for questioning in connection with a recent south side murder.

Noise, U.S. funds dominate Mikva talk

Questions about aircraft noise and revenue sharing dominated an hour-long question and answer session Sunday between U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Des Plaines residents.

Mikva told about 50 persons that while he supports continuation of the federal revenue sharing programs, renewal of the program may be in jeopardy.

In response to complaints about aircraft noise, Mikva outlined legislation he has introduced to give residents who live in communities around major airports the power to form local boards to prepare noise abatement regulations.

The public meeting in Des Plaines was the seventh the congressman has held since taking office last year.

Reorganization goes to subcommittee

State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, said public hearings on the reorganization of Illinois government now will shift into subcommittee studies on individual agencies.

Totten, a member of the House Republican Task Force on State Reorganization, said the first phase of the study was completed last week in Springfield.

The task force heard from representatives of the Council of State Government and state officials involved with a similar project in Missouri.

Missouri officials said their project has reduced the growth of state spending four per cent in 1974.

Political briefs

Totten noted there has been no significant reorganization of state agencies since 1917.

Ford backers plan 12th District fete

Supporters of President Ford will hold an open house Sunday at the 12th Congressional District campaign headquarters Sunday.

The event will feature the delegate candidates pledged to Ford in the 12th District.

U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-14th, also will attend the session.

The open house will be from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at 133 W. Prospect Ave., Mount Prospect.

Metropolitan briefs

Walker raps Howlett's funds use

Gov. Daniel Walker Monday charged that Sec. of State Michael Howlett made personal use of $100,000 in campaign contributions he received in 1974.

Although Howlett has said repeatedly the money was used only for campaigns, Walker said he doesn't believe that because Howlett declared the contributions as personal income on his 1974 tax return.

Under federal law, a candidate does not have to declare political contributions as income unless he uses the money for personal items.

Howlett said he paid tax on the $100,000 in contributions anyway because he used it to pay off a personal loan he had taken out in 1972. Although he used the loan proceeds for his campaign, Howlett said, he paid taxes to avoid any controversy.

But Walker said he thinks Howlett's 1974 tax return showing he declared the campaign contributions as income is proof he used it personally.

"Obviously he did because he paid taxes on it," Walker said. "If that is not personal usage I don't know what is."

Walker said Howlett should explain how he used the money, and he said he plans to keep asking the question until the March 16 Democratic gubernatorial primary, in which he and Howlett are competing.

Howlett issued a statement later saying Walker's statement was "another attempt to divert attention from his sorry record as governor."

Independent auditor urged by Larsen

Suburban Cook County Comr. Ronald Larsen has called for the creation of an independent auditor general's office to keep track of Cook County's financial affairs.

Larson, one of six Republicans on the county board, said it is "ridiculous" for the county to audit its own books. The county budget, he said, is prepared by County Board Pres. George Dunne and audited by the county auditor and comptroller, both of whom are appointed by Dunne.

Larsen said the auditor general's office could be patterned after the state office with the same name. The auditor general would be appointed in a bipartisan manner and would work for members of the county board, he said.

Correct forms to aid revenue fund gain

Residents of Wheeling Township can ensure the township will get its fair share of federal revenue-sharing funds by making sure they fill out box "D" on their federal tax returns, Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said recently.

The box asks residents to designate which township they live in and will be used to allocate revenue-sharing funds, Mrs. Kolerus said. In 1975, Wheeling Township received $241,657 from the federal government for revenue sharing.

Wheeling Township includes all the land lying between Wilke Road and the Des Plaines River and Lake-Cook and Central roads.

Plea for lake water by MSD opposed

The Northwest Municipal Conference has gone on record supporting opposition to the Metropolitan Sanitary District's request for additional water from Lake Michigan.

The MSD's request for additional Lake Michigan water is being opposed by DAMP, an organization of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, which has been studying the possibility of getting water from the lake for suburban use.

The MSD wants additional allocations of lake water for use in sewage treatment plants. DAMP officials have argued that use of lake water for domestic consumption should be given priority over the MSD.

Lake water allocation hearings are being held by state officials to determine how to divide up the water the state is allowed to take from the lake.

The Northwest Municipal Conference is made up of Northwest suburban communities.

Strike abandoned at Cook County jail

Union leaders representing some 500 of the 700 correctional officers at the Cook County Jail decided Monday to temporarily abandon plans to strike the institution following a meeting with County Board Chairman George Dunne.

A spokesman for the sheriff's police said Dunne apparently promised leaders of the Combined Counties Police Assn. union members would receive a pay increase next year.

TIGHT SECURITY surrounds Patricia Hearst at apartment building where she testified she was held in a closet by her kidnapers. Patty, the jury in her bank robbery trial, attorneys and U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter also toured another home where Patty was held by the SLA.

Jury tours hideouts, Patty near collapse

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, seemingly terrified and near collapse joined the jury in her bank robbery trial Monday for a tour of two hideouts where she had been held captive in closets by Symbionese Liberation Army terrorists.

The newspaper heiress, under heavy guard of about 25 police and U.S. marshals, had to be half carried at one point as she made her first return visit to the two hideaways where she was concealed from authorities by the SLA after her kidnaping two years ago.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter used the Washington's Birthday court holiday for the defense-requested tour of a house and an apartment where she said she had been hidden. Miss Hearst testified Friday that she was held in closets, blindfolded, threatened and sexually molested.

The security was particularly heavy because of bomb threats from the underground New New World Liberation Front which last week claimed responsibility for a bombing at the Hearst San Simeon estate which caused $1 million damage.

Accompanied by the jury, attorneys, the judge and the swarm of guards, she first visited a tiny third-floor apartment about a mile from the courtroom.

As she left the building, which she said had been the second hideout, her face was almost deathly white, her expression was terrified, and she had to be aided to a car by two marshals with their arms on her shoulders and around her waist.

Miss Hearst was scheduled to continue her testimony when the trial resumes Tuesday. Her attorney said she probably would undergo two more days of direct examination, and he said he probably would call about six more witnesses after she finishes telling her story. The defense expects to rest its case in about a week.

The apartment hideout was discovered by the FBI May 2, 1974, less than a week after the SLA left it and two weeks after the bank robbery. The walls of the apartment, now repainted, then were scrawled with revolutionary slogans. SLA propaganda leaflets lay almost everywhere. The bathtub was filled with acid that apparently had been used to destroy papers and documents.

"When she first went into the apartment closet (where she had said she was kept prisoner), she sobbed and cried," defense attorney Albert Johnson said. "She was reluctant to go. At one point I had to hold her up — thought she was going to faint."

Miss Hearst spent about 35 minutes in the four-story apartment building and another 25 minutes in the house in Daly City, immediately south of San Francisco, where she was first taken after her kidnaping.

The seven women and five men on the jury were shown each of the apartments.

"Each of the jurors was asked to go into the closets and inspect their dimensions," Johnson said. However, U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter turned down a request that each juror individually sit inside the closets.

At the Golden Gate apartment building, someone had left printed circulars in advance of the jury's arrival. The circulars had a picture of Miss Hearst carrying a carbine during the bank robbery, a poem criticizing her for turning her back on the SLA, and signed "Zakariyyiah Babeebullah Shabazz." Authorities were unable to say where the circular came from.

Slayings, kidnapings bring armored cars into Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A street slaying and a wave of kidnapings brought security force armored cars rumbling into uptown Beirut Monday in an effort to save a 27-day-old cease-fire from further deterioration.

Police reported between 30 and 50 persons kidnaped from the Wadie Abu Jamil quarter and the adjacent hotel district of Kantari in tension that resulted from the gangland-style street slaying of a Kurdish municipal worker earlier in the day.

Although still known as the Jewish quarter, the Wadie Abu Jamil area is mainly inhabited by Kurds and connects Moslem-controlled uptown Beirut with the Christian-held downtown sector.

Kurdish militants blamed Christian rightists for the slaying and retaliated by kidnaping a number of Christians, police said. They demanded the arrest of the killers.

The abductions touched off counter-kidnapings and scattered gunfire and by evening security forces in armored cars and personnel carriers had cordoned off the area to prevent the incidents from spreading.

The joint Lebanese-Palestinian-Syrian military committee supervising the cease-fire was negotiating with rival factions to secure the release of the prisoners, police sources said.

The dead Kurd was an employe of Beirut's water department who was machinegunned to death by three gunman in khaki militia uniforms from a speeding car, witnesses said.

President Suleiman Franjieh met Premier Rashid Karami and financial experts in a two-hour session devoted to economic, social and reconstruction items.

Karami lunched with former Premier Saeb Salam who was criticized the political reforms announced at the weekend by Franjieh which gave Moslems equal representation with Christians in parliament for the first time since independence 33 years ago.

Salam, a Moslem, criticized the decision to continue the tradition of electing Lebanon's president, prime minister and house speaker on religious lines.

He won support from the right-wing Christian leader Pierre Gemayel, head of the Phalangist Party. Gemayel said the reforms had "consecrated confessionalism and set us back hundreds of years.

Another Christian leader, Raymond Edde of the National Bloc Party, has also decried the distribution of the leading state posts by religion and attacked Franjieh personally for his role in the civil war in which at least 12,000 persons were killed and more than 25,000 wounded.

Syria's Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, chief architect of the peace agreement between warring Lebanese factions, consulted leftist leaders critical of new political reforms because the measures had not met all their demands.

The most influential leftist leader, Kamal Jumblatt of the Progressive Socialist Party, has yet to make his pronouncement on the reforms.

Tourist bus crashes in Sweden; 15 die

A chartered tourist bus carrying 44 persons, most of them elderly, burst into flames and exploded near the central Swedish city of Joenkoeping Monday night, killing 15 passengers. Police said the victims were burned to death in the flaming wreckage and it was hours before rescue workers were able to get inside the smoldering bus to count the bodies. They said another 27 persons were injured, most of them suffering from smoke inhalation and shock. A police officials said it appeared that the rear emergency exit door was blocked either by bodies or by luggage.

Chicago-bound jet aborts Denver takeoff

A flaming engine forced a Continental Airlines pilot to abort a takeoff at Stapleton International Airport in Denver Monday, airport officials said. One person was injured. All 115 passengers and seven crew members aboard the Chicago-bound Boeing 727, flight 88, were evacuated through two inflatable tubes and the fire was extinguished by the Stapleton Fire Department.

Ford challenges principals: end alienation

President Ford Monday, in an address for the National Association of Secondary School Principals in Washington, challenged the group to help end "alarming trends" in alienation among young people by finding new ways to teach students about law and government. Ford also said he will soon send to Congress proposals to consolidate federal aid to education and to give state and local authorities greater flexibility in its use.

Also during the day Ford, at a House briefing, urged Congress to reconstitute and keep alive the Federal Election Commission as "the chief instrument for achieving clean federal elections" and restoring public confidence in the nation's political processes. The FEC, which has certified more than $7.1 million in federal campaign funds for 12 presidential candidates, will expire in two weeks unless Congress passes legislation meeting Supreme Court objections.

School bus hit by truck in Florida; 4 die

LAKE PLACID, Fla. (UPI) — A school bus loaded with children was struck by a tractor-trailer truck in dense fog only a block away from school Monday morning. Four persons were killed and more than 50 youngsters injured.

The bus driver was killed along with three students in the crash, which sheared off the front end of the 57-passenger bus.

The dead were identified as the driver, Charles Irwin, and students Mark Holmes, Robbie Reynolds, and Avery Cox.

Fifty-five persons were taken to hospitals at Sebring, Avon Park and Winter Haven. Some of the more seriously injured were still in surgery late Monday.

Sebring News photographer Leland Sellers said hospital corridors were jammed with parents looking for their children and attempting to identify the dead.

Quick Angola Red recognition seen

LONDON (UPI) — The swift victory of Soviet and Cuban-backed forces in Angola has alarmed Western and African capitals. Responsible leaders say the victors may turn next against neighboring Zaire, Zambia and Rhodesia.

The frightened leaders were talking of a "blood bath" and a "war of liberation" in the remainder of white governed southern Africa-South Africa, South West Africa and Rhodesia.

Quick recognition of the Communist-backed regime of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola by most remaining African countries as well as by Britain, France and most of Western Europe is considered likely.

President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, widely regarded as a moderate in African politics, has expressed the mounting alarm.

This weekend he predicted "a bloodbath" in Rhodesia.

President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, another moderate, said the only alternative to a quick negotiated settlement in Rhodesia will be armed struggle.

"Should peaceful negotiations fail, there will be no alternative but to fight," he said.

Zaire's Foreign Minister Karl Ibond Nguza warned in London last week, "The MPLA may be tempted to invade us. We have reason to believe our own security is deeply involved."

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan said last Friday that Cuban intervention will have repercussions "that will be felt not only throughout Africa but the rest of the world."

David Ennals, British Foreign Office Minister of State, warned Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith he now has "a last chance to avert an armed struggle."

Diplomatic and press reports from South Africa said the government of Prime Minister John Vorster is giving close attention to the possibility of cutting its losses, pulling its forces out of southern Angola and recognizing the MPLA as the legitimate authority in that country.

All this indicates deepening concern but also general agreement in Western Capitals that there is little they can do to stem the Communist-backed tide now sweeping across southern Africa.

A worried British government has been holding a series of consultations with representatives of friendly African countries like Zaire and Zambia.

It is generally accepted in Western Europe that the United States now is unlikely to intervene after Congress refused President Ford authority to ship more aid to the anti-Communist UNITA and National Liberation Front in Angola before their collapse.

The London Daily Mail said gloomily in an editorial Monday, "As the dust begins to clear, we see more harshly etched than ever before the picture of a besieged and ultimately embattled white minority affronting historical destiny in a black continent."

"British and Western diplomacy can have only one objective: to minimize the killing — whether of blacks or whites," it said.

Slayings, kidnapings bring armored cars into Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A street slaying and a wave of kidnapings brought security force armored cars rumbling into uptown Beirut Monday in an effort to save a 27-day-old cease-fire from further deterioration.

Police reported between 30 and 50 persons kidnaped from the Wadie Abu Jamil quarter and the adjacent hotel district of Kantari in tension that resulted from the gangland-style street slaying of a Kurdish municipal worker earlier in the day.

Although still known as the Jewish quarter, the Wadie Abu Jamil area is mainly inhabited by Kurds and connects Moslem-controlled uptown Beirut with the Christian-held downtown sector.

Kurdish militants blamed Christian rightists for the slaying and retaliated by kidnaping a number of Christians, police said. They demanded the arrest of the killers.

The abductions touched off counter-kidnapings and scattered gunfire and by evening security forces in armored cars and personnel carriers had cordoned off the area to prevent the incidents from spreading.

The joint Lebanese-Palestinian-Syrian military committee supervising the cease-fire was negotiating with rival factions to secure the release of the prisoners, police sources said.

The dead Kurd was an employe of Beirut's water department who was machinegunned to death by three gunman in khaki militia uniforms from a speeding car, witnesses said.

President Suleiman Franjieh met Premier Rashid Karami and financial experts in a two-hour session devoted to economic, social and reconstruction items.

Karami lunched with former Premier Saeb Salam who was criticized the political reforms announced at the weekend by Franjieh which gave Moslems equal representation with Christians in parliament for the first time since independence 33 years ago.

Salam, a Moslem, criticized the decision to continue the tradition of electing Lebanon's president, prime minister and house speaker on religious lines.

He won support from the right-wing Christian leader Pierre Gemayel, head of the Phalangist Party. Gemayel said the reforms had "consecrated confessionalism and set us back hundreds of years.

Another Christian leader, Raymond Edde of the National Bloc Party, has also decried the distribution of the leading state posts by religion and attacked Franjieh personally for his role in the civil war in which at least 12,000 persons were killed and more than 25,000 wounded.

Syria's Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, chief architect of the peace agreement between warring Lebanese factions, consulted leftist leaders critical of new political reforms because the measures had not met all their demands.

The most influential leftist leader, Kamal Jumblatt of the Progressive Socialist Party, has yet to make his pronouncement on the reforms.

Tourist bus crashes in Sweden; 15 die

A chartered tourist bus carrying 44 persons, most of them elderly, burst into flames and exploded near the central Swedish city of Joenkoeping Monday night, killing 15 passengers. Police said the victims were burned to death in the flaming wreckage and it was hours before rescue workers were able to get inside the smoldering bus to count the bodies. They said another 27 persons were injured, most of them suffering from smoke inhalation and shock. A police officials said it appeared that the rear emergency exit door was blocked either by bodies or by luggage.

Chicago-bound jet aborts Denver takeoff

A flaming engine forced a Continental Airlines pilot to abort a takeoff at Stapleton International Airport in Denver Monday, airport officials said. One person was injured. All 115 passengers and seven crew members aboard the Chicago-bound Boeing 727, flight 88, were evacuated through two inflatable tubes and the fire was extinguished by the Stapleton Fire Department.

Ford challenges principals: end alienation

President Ford Monday, in an address for the National Association of Secondary School Principals in Washington, challenged the group to help end "alarming trends" in alienation among young people by finding new ways to teach students about law and government. Ford also said he will soon send to Congress proposals to consolidate federal aid to education and to give state and local authorities greater flexibility in its use.

Also during the day Ford, at a House briefing, urged Congress to reconstitute and keep alive the Federal Election Commission as "the chief instrument for achieving clean federal elections" and restoring public confidence in the nation's political processes. The FEC, which has certified more than $7.1 million in federal campaign funds for 12 presidential candidates, will expire in two weeks unless Congress passes legislation meeting Supreme Court objections.

School bus hit by truck in Florida; 4 die

LAKE PLACID, Fla. (UPI) — A school bus loaded with children was struck by a tractor-trailer truck in dense fog only a block away from school Monday morning. Four persons were killed and more than 50 youngsters injured.

The bus driver was killed along with three students in the crash, which sheared off the front end of the 57-passenger bus.

The dead were identified as the driver, Charles Irwin, and students Mark Holmes, Robbie Reynolds, and Avery Cox.

Fifty-five persons were taken to hospitals at Sebring, Avon Park and Winter Haven. Some of the more seriously injured were still in surgery late Monday.

Sebring News photographer Leland Sellers said hospital corridors were jammed with parents looking for their children and attempting to identify the dead.

Quick Angola Red recognition seen

LONDON (UPI) — The swift victory of Soviet and Cuban-backed forces in Angola has alarmed Western and African capitals. Responsible leaders say the victors may turn next against neighboring Zaire, Zambia and Rhodesia.

The frightened leaders were talking of a "blood bath" and a "war of liberation" in the remainder of white governed southern Africa-South Africa, South West Africa and Rhodesia.

Quick recognition of the Communist-backed regime of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola by most remaining African countries as well as by Britain, France and most of Western Europe is considered likely.

President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, widely regarded as a moderate in African politics, has expressed the mounting alarm.

This weekend he predicted "a bloodbath" in Rhodesia.

President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, another moderate, said the only alternative to a quick negotiated settlement in Rhodesia will be armed struggle.

"Should peaceful negotiations fail, there will be no alternative but to fight," he said.

Zaire's Foreign Minister Karl Ibond Nguza warned in London last week, "The MPLA may be tempted to invade us. We have reason to believe our own security is deeply involved."

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan said last Friday that Cuban intervention will have repercussions "that will be felt not only throughout Africa but the rest of the world."

David Ennals, British Foreign Office Minister of State, warned Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith he now has "a last chance to avert an armed struggle."

Diplomatic and press reports from South Africa said the government of Prime Minister John Vorster is giving close attention to the possibility of cutting its losses, pulling its forces out of southern Angola and recognizing the MPLA as the legitimate authority in that country.

All this indicates deepening concern but also general agreement in Western Capitals that there is little they can do to stem the Communist-backed tide now sweeping across southern Africa.

A worried British government has been holding a series of consultations with representatives of friendly African countries like Zaire and Zambia.

It is generally accepted in Western Europe that the United States now is unlikely to intervene after Congress refused President Ford authority to ship more aid to the anti-Communist UNITA and National Liberation Front in Angola before their collapse.

The London Daily Mail said gloomily in an editorial Monday, "As the dust begins to clear, we see more harshly etched than ever before the picture of a besieged and ultimately embattled white minority affronting historical destiny in a black continent."

"British and Western diplomacy can have only one objective: to minimize the killing — whether of blacks or whites," it said.

Bunnies bounce back into profits

The bunny business is flourishing again for Playboy Enterprises Inc.

The company has recorded two consecutive profitable quarters, said Playboy spokesman Lee Gottlieb.

Part of the credit, he said, belongs to another company publication, Oui magazine, which has begun making money after losing more than $1 million in a one-year period ending June 1974.

Gottlieb said Playboy clubs and hotels show good profits because of the big earnings turned in by British clubs, which permit gambling.

THE COMPANY recently removed its "members only" requirement at its clubs in an effort to attract more customers.

Cutbacks in motion picture production and recordings also were cited by Gottlieb. He said there are no films now in production.

Gottlieb said Playboy's production of movies for television have been highly profitable, as has been the Playboy Book Club.

Palyboy's belt-tightening moves 15 months ago, when the firm was losing money, included an announcement that its custom-fitted, all-black DC9 jet, "the Big Bunny," and the Playboy mansion in Chicago were on the block.

A federal narcotics investigation of Playboy magazine publisher Hugh Hefner at a time when the company was reporting operational losses also tarnished the company image.

Hefner overruled his Chicago officers on the mansion and decided to keep the haunt where he frequently entertained visiting dignitaries, friends and the night-life elite. The jet, with a price tag of $6.4 million, remains unsold.

Hefner still stays at the mansion when he visits Chicago, but its staff has been cut to maintenance-only chores. The publisher moved his offices to Los Angeles about two years ago.

Support sought for Alaskan pipeline bill

The Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. is calling for support of a bill, H.R. 11273, to allow construction of a proposed natural gas pipeline from northern Alaska and the Mackenzie Delta area of Canada to U.S. markets.

The Arctic Gas Project spent more than $110 million for environmental and engineering studies for the project, which would supply fuel to Illinois and other states. Among the participants in the gas project is Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, a subsidiary of Peoples Gas Co. in Chicago. The firm is a supplier to Northern Illinois Gas Co.

Known as the Alaskan Natural Gas Pipeline Authorization Act of 1976, H.R. 11273 would approve speedy construction of the proposed pipeline.

Consumers in the U.S. and Canada will benefit from the construction project, the company said. Some 24 trillion cubic feet of proved recoverable reserves of natural gas are in the Prudhoe Bay area on the North Slope of Alaska.

The Illinois Environmental Council and the Illinois Dept. of Conservation are among objectors to the project route through state conservation areas.

New logic, science courses set

Dist. 23 OKs summer classes

A course in thinking skills was one of 29 courses approved recently by Prospect Heights Dist. 23 for this year's summer school program.

The board also is considering the approval of a one-week camping program for fifth, sixth and seventh graders as part of summer school.

Summer school coordinator Phillip Cornwell said two new courses will be offered ths summer. Seeing Is Believing, a science course with student-centered rather than book-centered activities, and Thinking Skills, a logic-building course. Each course will be offered to students presently in Grades 5 to 7.

PHOTOGRAPHY, a course offered last year, will not be offered this year because of the difficulty of finding a teacher and the students' lack of interest.

Home Arts and Woodworking will be open to boys and girls this year. Basketball Clinic will also be offered to both sexes, but the girls' clinic will be separate from the one for boys.

Other courses offered will be Kindergarten Readiness, Art, Arts and Crafts, Body Conditioning, Cadet and Concert Band, Career Awareness, Drama Workshop, First Grade Readiness, Gymnastics, three levels of Language Arts and Mathematics, Little People's Theater, Marching Kadettes, Physical Education and Typeing.

Summer school will begin June 22 and run through July 16. Fees are $5 for books.

The board will decide at its March 10 meeting whether to offer a one-week camp for children in grades five to seven. Tentative plans call for the camp to be held at Augustana or George Williams Camp in Lake Geneva.

ASSISTANT SUPT. Jerry McGovern said costs will have to be checked further, but he estimated the approximate cost of the camp would be $60 per child.

In other action, the board decided to send notes home with Dist. 23 students asking for parent reaction to three proposed calendars for the 1976-77 school year.

Because Labor Day is almost a week later than usual this year, the board is trying to decide whether school should still begin on the traditional day after Labor Day. Supt. Edward Grodsky said he favored the traditional starting point to ensure the maximum number of students entered school on the first day.

The board will approve a calendar at its March 10 meeting.

Solutions sought for area flooding

Solutions to flooding problems in the Ridge Park subdivision caused by Arlington Park Race Track are being developed by Stanley Consultants.

The report will be reviewed Monday by the citizens action committee against flooding.

Water is draining from the northeast section of the race track property and flowing through a culvert to the north side of the Chicago & North Western Rwy. tracks, said Frank Palmatier, chairman of the committee.

"The culvert under the tracks has to be closed off. Another interceptor is needed to keep this water from getting to the Ridge Park area, (east of Wilke and north of Euclid)" Palmatier said.

One alternative suggested at the committee's meeting last week was to construct a storm sewer along Vine Street to carry the water to the main outfall sewer for the proposed Ridge Park-Sherwood project.

"It may be necessary to increase the size of the outfall sewer, and also the downstream sewers in the second Wilke-Kirchoff project, to accommodate the Arlington race track waters," Palmatier said.

Palmatier also suggested the possibility of constructing a detention basin on the vacant property at the west end of Vine Street to reduce the cost of the Vine Street sewer.

Stanley Consultants are expected to submit a revised outline for the combined Ridge Park-Sherwood and second Wilke-Kirchoff flood control projects.

Quincy Pk., homeowners to meet on incorporation

Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. officials tonight will meet with residents of the Quincy Park quadrominiums to discuss the impact of the community's recent incorporation.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Stevenson Elementary School, 1375 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Many Quincy Park residents were opposed to the formation of the City of Prospect Heights, which was approved by a 2-to-1 margin in a referendum Jan. 31.

Residents of Quincy Park and apartment complexes on Willow Road just east of Wolf Road have said they believe they're alienated from the rest of the community, which is comprised of mostly homeowners. They also have complained about not being sufficiently informed of incorporation proceedings.

"The most important thing we are trying to do right now is to unify the new community so that we can all work together toward the formation of a city government that works," said Richard Wolf, PHIA president.

PHIA plans to meet with other residents who also opposed the incorporation "to convince them that they should stay within the city and that we should all work together," Wolf said.

Wolf said a meeting date has not yet been set with George Priester, owner of Pal-Waukee Airport, who says he will seek disannexation of the airport from the city.

New logic, science courses set

Dist. 23 OKs summer classes

A course in thinking skills was one of 29 courses approved recently by Prospect Heights Dist. 23 for this year's summer school program.

The board also is considering the approval of a one-week camping program for fifth, sixth and seventh graders as part of summer school.

Summer school coordinator Phillip Cornwell said two new courses will be offered ths summer. Seeing Is Believing, a science course with student-centered rather than book-centered activities, and Thinking Skills, a logic-building course. Each course will be offered to students presently in Grades 5 to 7.

PHOTOGRAPHY, a course offered last year, will not be offered this year because of the difficulty of finding a teacher and the students' lack of interest.

Home Arts and Woodworking will be open to boys and girls this year. Basketball Clinic will also be offered to both sexes, but the girls' clinic will be separate from the one for boys.

Other courses offered will be Kindergarten Readiness, Art, Arts and Crafts, Body Conditioning, Cadet and Concert Band, Career Awareness, Drama Workshop, First Grade Readiness, Gymnastics, three levels of Language Arts and Mathematics, Little People's Theater, Marching Kadettes, Physical Education and Typeing.

Summer school will begin June 22 and run through July 16. Fees are $5 for books.

The board will decide at its March 10 meeting whether to offer a one-week camp for children in grades five to seven. Tentative plans call for the camp to be held at Augustana or George Williams Camp in Lake Geneva.

ASSISTANT SUPT. Jerry McGovern said costs will have to be checked further, but he estimated the approximate cost of the camp would be $60 per child.

In other action, the board decided to send notes home with Dist. 23 students asking for parent reaction to three proposed calendars for the 1976-77 school year.

Because Labor Day is almost a week later than usual this year, the board is trying to decide whether school should still begin on the traditional day after Labor Day. Supt. Edward Grodsky said he favored the traditional starting point to ensure the maximum number of students entered school on the first day.

The board will approve a calendar at its March 10 meeting.

Solutions sought for area flooding

Solutions to flooding problems in the Ridge Park subdivision caused by Arlington Park Race Track are being developed by Stanley Consultants.

The report will be reviewed Monday by the citizens action committee against flooding.

Water is draining from the northeast section of the race track property and flowing through a culvert to the north side of the Chicago & North Western Rwy. tracks, said Frank Palmatier, chairman of the committee.

"The culvert under the tracks has to be closed off. Another interceptor is needed to keep this water from getting to the Ridge Park area, (east of Wilke and north of Euclid)" Palmatier said.

One alternative suggested at the committee's meeting last week was to construct a storm sewer along Vine Street to carry the water to the main outfall sewer for the proposed Ridge Park-Sherwood project.

"It may be necessary to increase the size of the outfall sewer, and also the downstream sewers in the second Wilke-Kirchoff project, to accommodate the Arlington race track waters," Palmatier said.

Palmatier also suggested the possibility of constructing a detention basin on the vacant property at the west end of Vine Street to reduce the cost of the Vine Street sewer.

Stanley Consultants are expected to submit a revised outline for the combined Ridge Park-Sherwood and second Wilke-Kirchoff flood control projects.

Quincy Pk., homeowners to meet on incorporation

Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. officials tonight will meet with residents of the Quincy Park quadrominiums to discuss the impact of the community's recent incorporation.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Stevenson Elementary School, 1375 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Many Quincy Park residents were opposed to the formation of the City of Prospect Heights, which was approved by a 2-to-1 margin in a referendum Jan. 31.

Residents of Quincy Park and apartment complexes on Willow Road just east of Wolf Road have said they believe they're alienated from the rest of the community, which is comprised of mostly homeowners. They also have complained about not being sufficiently informed of incorporation proceedings.

"The most important thing we are trying to do right now is to unify the new community so that we can all work together toward the formation of a city government that works," said Richard Wolf, PHIA president.

PHIA plans to meet with other residents who also opposed the incorporation "to convince them that they should stay within the city and that we should all work together," Wolf said.

Wolf said a meeting date has not yet been set with George Priester, owner of Pal-Waukee Airport, who says he will seek disannexation of the airport from the city.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Cancer of prostate big killer in men

On a routine examination my doctor found a hardening of my prostate. He sent me to a specialist for a biopsy that turned out to be malignant. He prescribed one gram of diethylstilbesterol for the rest of my life and informed me I may have to have my testicles removed.

I asked him what my life expectancy was and he said 20 years and let him worry about it. I asked my family doctor and he said one to five years.

Any information you would care to give me would be greatly appreciated. I already have enlarged breasts.

Opinions differ on the best treatment for cancer of the prostate so don't be surprised that what I tell you may vary from what you have heard.

There are about 25,000 new cases of cancer of the prostate in American men each year and 17,000 deaths. It is one of the most important cancers in men. About half of these can be identified by a simple rectal examination. That is one of several reasons why such an examination should be part of every physical.

Many men have clinically insignificant forms of cancer of the prostate. A small nest of relatively inactive cancer cells may be found inside the prostate. If a man lives long enough, he will likely have this even though it may never cause him any trouble at all.

What to do about cancer of the prostate depends entirely on how far it has progressed. When the cancer is confined to the prostate as a small nest of cells or even when it is large enough to be felt on rectal examination but is still confined to the gland itself, efforts should be made for a complete cure of the cancer. How is this done? By surgery on the gland or radiation or both. Hormone therapy or chemotherapy has no place in the treatment of these localized cancers. That means no female hormones and no castration, but rather total removal or destruction of the actual localized cancer.

IF THE CANCER has spread outside the gland to involve the pelvic area or to distant boney sites, then you can consider the use of hormones or castration. The idea is to eliminate the influence of the male hormone which is essential for the maintenance of the cancer cells regardless of where they are located. Sometimes such therapy is successful in reducing spots of bone spread, and particularly in relieving pain. There is no real evidence though that the use of female hormones or castration or the combination actually prolong life.

The United States Veterans Administration Co-operative Urological Research Group reported that deaths from heart and vascular disease actually increased 75 per cent in men taking estrogen for cancer of the prostate, which makes this therapy even more questionable in the minds of many authorities. This being the case, there seems little justification for using either estrogen or performing castration except to provide symptomatic relief.

Obviously, I can't say anything about what your life expectancy is without knowing if your disease had already spread beyond the prostate. Those who want more information on the prostate, including prostate infections and enlargement, can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Enclose a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Several alternatives if food is scorched

Dear Dorothy: That was a good piece on how to help dishes that are oversalted. Now maybe you can help those of us who are unlucky enough to scorch food. Thanks. — Nancy Marion

Often being forgetful, I'm one of you. The instant you realize food has become scorched, you must turn out the unscorched portion into another pan, adding more liquid, if necessary, then finish cooking. People get innovative in situations like this. One reader passed on a hint — use a pinch of mustard. Another saved scorched Stroganoff by adding half a cup of sherry. One hint that has come repeatedly is to put a wooden clothespin (the type without any metal on it) into the portion you are seeking to save. But remember that when a dish is more than just scorched, forget the whole thing and start fresh.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way to get a stain out of a bathroom sink that has come from a long-dripping faucet? I've tried many cleaners with no luck whatever. — Jack Inwood

The only thing I've found that might work is to make a paste of water and the cleanser that contains a little oxalic acid — leave it on the stain for a couple of hours.

Dear Dorothy: I tried the recommended way of getting a candle wax stain off the tablecloth, but the stain didn't come off. I then tried one of the spray laundry cleaners, followed by laundering. It did work. — Jean Barbu

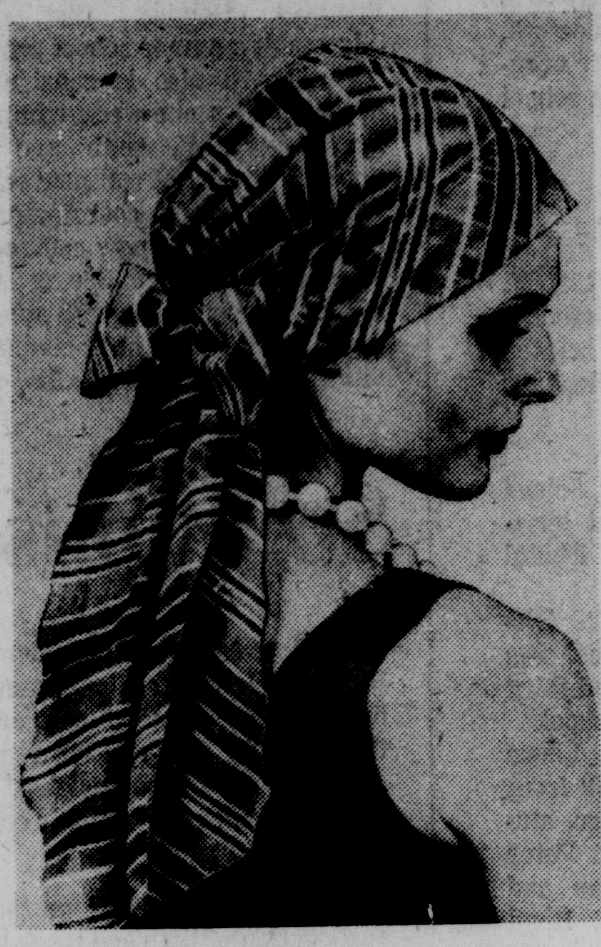
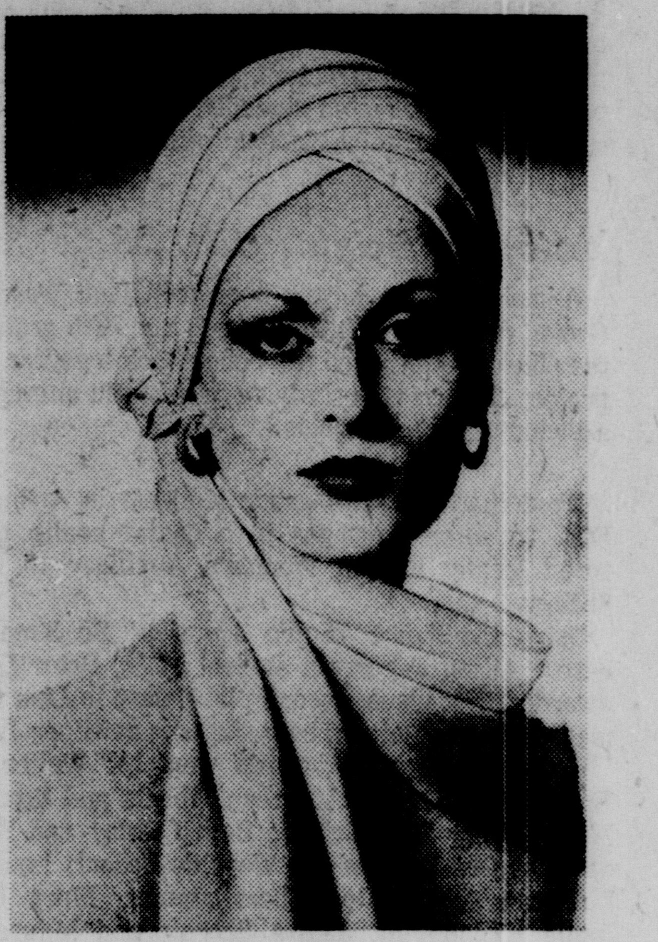
The turban: anyone can wear it

by ELLIE GROSSMAN



TURBANS ARE back to flatter women of all ages and differing facial shapes. Flowing dual scarf in summer print designed by Jacki.



HEAD-HUGGING draped turban with chignon knot at side is more sophisticated. Designed by Bob Greene for Irene of New York.

Rhoda Morgenstern would call it a schmatte — a piece of cloth she ties around her head to hide the hair she didn't have time to wash.

The Persians called it a "dullband," or sash. And the rest of us call it a turban, the traditional Moslem male headdress that the fashion world has adopted with the enthusiasm of an 8-year-old spotting a Daniel Boone cap.

For example, last fall a milliner named Ernie Pommer brought out a polyester scarf turban called the "Rhoda." Pommer sells to mail order houses and department stores. And in a short time, he says, "one chain sold a couple of thousand dozen," at $3 to $4 per turban.

IN THE NEAR EAST, the turban indicates status, occupation, locale and race according to its shape, color and folds. At least 66 variations of it exist.

Here, where it's simply a hat, there are no folds barred. Anything from a narrow strip of fabric tied around the head just above the forehead and fastened with a clip to an elaborately draped headpiece with flowing streamer is a turban.

A firm called Irene of New York claims to be the only milliner in the country still making hand-draped turbans, which retail at $65 and up in department and specialty stores nationally.

Bob Greene, the designer and owner of the company, produces the original turban, which six copyists then reproduce.

"A GIRL CAN make two a day, sometimes three," says Claire Hahn, Greene's associate. "When you start out it's just a strip of fabric which they fit and shape around a 'doll.' You have to know how to drape, which is quite a skill."

The more draping, the more expensive the turban which, Miss Hahn says, is an all-year hat differing only in fabric and color according to season. And every woman can wear one.

"There is a frame for every face and as long as you deal with proportion and get a hat that fits, anyone can wear it."

A round face can wear just about any style, but a full face requires a turban that has bulk on the sides to draw the cheeks outward, and height on top to elongate the face.

ON THE OTHER hand, height and bulk are to be discouraged on a square or long face. Here, a close fitting cap turban to cut the length of the face, and a smooth, tied-back scarf succeed.

Or an asymmetrical turban whose center part lies off-center and whose draping convenes in a large knot over one ear to break the line of the face.

For day or casual winter wear, turbans in wool and angora are appropriate; for evening, satin and velvet. Summer will see a great number of stripes and solids in polyester or cotton gauze, in lighter colors, of course.

There is one caution. If you're planning a trip to a remote region of Afghanistan or Turkey, keep in mind that at one time at least, the wearing of a turban by a non-Moslem was considered a crime.

Several alternatives if food is scorched

Dear Dorothy: That was a good piece on how to help dishes that are oversalted. Now maybe you can help those of us who are unlucky enough to scorch food. Thanks. — Nancy Marion

Often being forgetful, I'm one of you. The instant you realize food has become scorched, you must turn out the unscorched portion into another pan, adding more liquid, if necessary, then finish cooking. People get innovative in situations like this. One reader passed on a hint — use a pinch of mustard. Another saved scorched Stroganoff by adding half a cup of sherry. One hint that has come repeatedly is to put a wooden clothespin (the type without any metal on it) into the portion you are seeking to save. But remember that when a dish is more than just scorched, forget the whole thing and start fresh.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way to get a stain out of a bathroom sink that has come from a long-dripping faucet? I've tried many cleaners with no luck whatever. — Jack Inwood

The only thing I've found that might work is to make a paste of water and the cleanser that contains a little oxalic acid — leave it on the stain for a couple of hours.

Dear Dorothy: I tried the recommended way of getting a candle wax stain off the tablecloth, but the stain didn't come off. I then tried one of the spray laundry cleaners, followed by laundering. It did work. — Jean Barbu

Dear Dorothy: When I'm roasting a chicken and don't want the legs to get too brown, I cover them at the end with foil. — Hester Amey

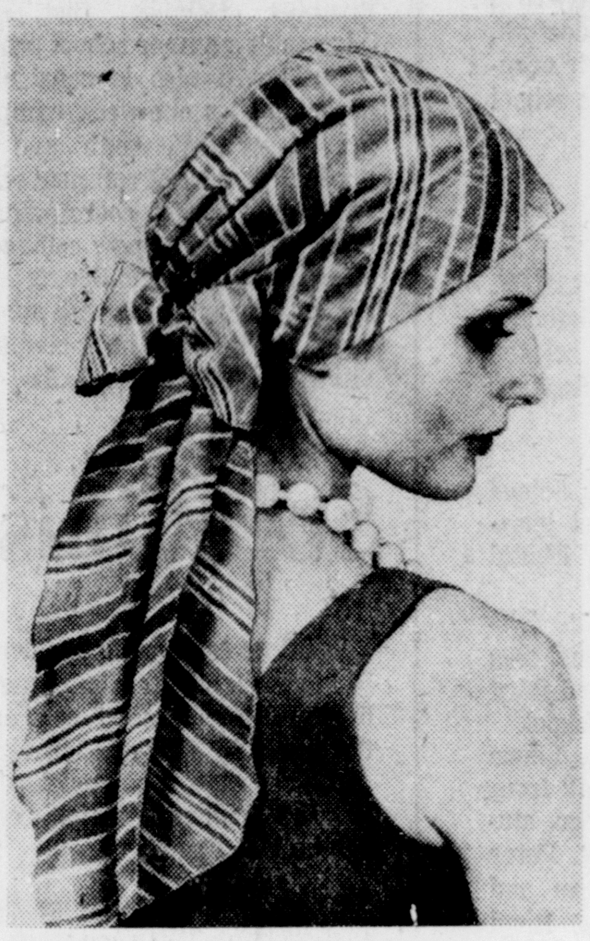
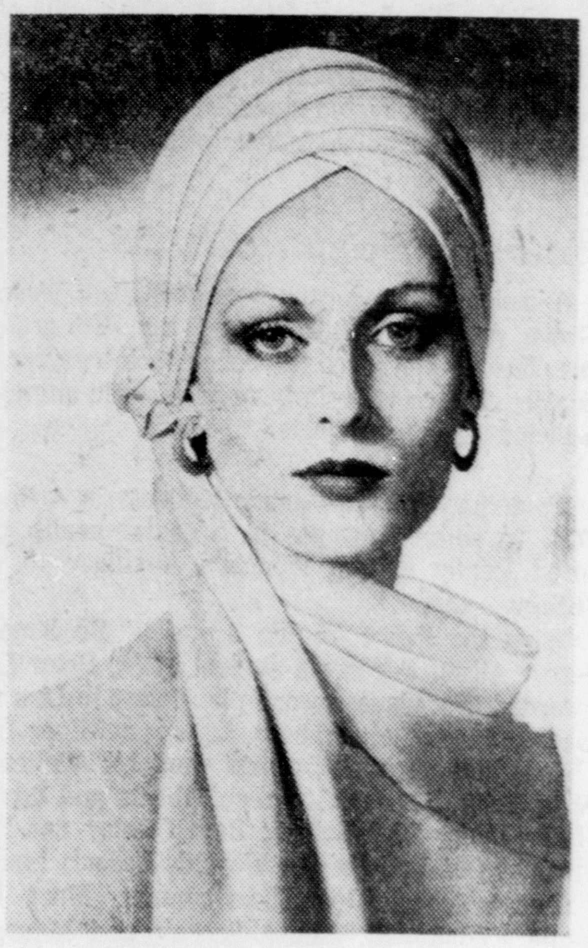
by ELLIE GROSSMAN



TURBANS ARE back to flatter women of all ages and differing facial shapes. Flowing dual scarf in summer print designed by Jacki.



HEAD-HUGGING draped turban with chignon knot at side is more sophisticated. Designed by Bob Greene for Irene of New York.

Rhoda Morgenstern would call it a schmatte — a piece of cloth she ties around her head to hide the hair she didn't have time to wash.

The Persians called it a "dullband," or sash. And the rest of us call it a turban, the traditional Moslem male headdress that the fashion world has adopted with the enthusiasm of an 8-year-old spotting a Daniel Boone cap.

For example, last fall a milliner named Ernie Pommer brought out a polyester scarf turban called the "Rhoda." Pommer sells to mail order houses and department stores. And in a short time, he says, "one chain sold a couple of thousand dozen," at $3 to $4 per turban.

IN THE NEAR EAST, the turban indicates status, occupation, locale and race according to its shape, color and folds. At least 66 variations of it exist.

Here, where it's simply a hat, there are no folds barred. Anything from a narrow strip of fabric tied around the head just above the forehead and fastened with a clip to an elaborately draped headpiece with flowing streamer is a turban.

A firm called Irene of New York claims to be the only milliner in the country still making hand-draped turbans, which retail at $65 and up in department and specialty stores nationally.

Bob Greene, the designer and owner of the company, produces the original turban, which six copyists then reproduce.

"A GIRL CAN make two a day, sometimes three," says Claire Hahn, Greene's associate. "When you start out it's just a strip of fabric which they fit and shape around a 'doll.' You have to know how to drape, which is quite a skill."

The more draping, the more expensive the turban which, Miss Hahn says, is an all-year hat differing only in fabric and color according to season. And every woman can wear one.

"There is a frame for every face and as long as you deal with proportion and get a hat that fits, anyone can wear it."

A round face can wear just about any style, but a full face requires a turban that has bulk on the sides to draw the cheeks outward, and height on top to elongate the face.

ON THE OTHER hand, height and bulk are to be discouraged on a square or long face. Here, a close fitting cap turban to cut the length of the face, and a smooth, tied-back scarf succeed.

Or an asymmetrical turban whose center part lies off-center and whose draping convenes in a large knot over one ear to break the line of the face.

For day or casual winter wear, turbans in wool and angora are appropriate; for evening, satin and velvet. Summer will see a great number of stripes and solids in polyester or cotton gauze, in lighter colors, of course.

There is one caution. If you're planning a trip to a remote region of Afghanistan or Turkey, keep in mind that at one time at least, the wearing of a turban by a non-Moslem was considered a crime.

The way we see it

Oakton delay is inexcusable

Oakton Community College has been waiting more than five years for a campus, and now it appears the Illinois Capital Development Board is going to create one more delay.

The latest delay at this point is unwarranted and will only serve to further deny the residents of Maine and Niles townships the comprehensive community college they need and deserve.

The delay is likely to result because the Capital Development Board has told college officials to cut $1.7 million from their $12.7 million construction budget. The cut may mean construction will be delayed through the summer on the college's permanent campus in Des Plaines.

The budget cut has been ordered even though the college received approval from the Illinois Community College Board and the Illinois Board of Higher Education for the $12.7 million budget a year ago. The funds were appropriated by the General Assembly and approved by Gov. Daniel Walker.

All the college's planning has been based on the $12.7 million budget. The Capital Development Board's sudden action throws months of planning off the track.

Oakton officials said the ICDB apparently based its action on several recent community college construction projects which cost less per square foot than Oakton's building. However, they say none of the projects are as extensive or contain the kinds of specialized facilities Oakton has.

While we support thrift in government, the ICDB's action toward Oakton seems arbitrary and ill-timed. The college has been operating out of warehouses in Morton Grove for years. The permanent campus is long overdue and should not be delayed further.

The ICDB should stand by the approvals that were given Oakton by the community college and higher boards last year. This is not the time to penalize the students and taxpayers of the district with additional delays.

ICC should reconsider rate hike for Ma Bell

The rate increases recently granted Illinois Bell by the Illinois Commerce Commission, in some cases, deserve a second look.

The ICC announced recently it was granting Illinois Bell a $70 million rate hike, the third in recent years for the phone company.

Persons who use pay phones are affected first, for pay phone calls will now cost 20 cents. But it also will cost more in some instances to call directory assistance and to make long distance calls.

Gov. Walker, State's Attorney Bernard Carey and others have called for a rehearing. It's a sensible step, for the simple reason that an increase of such size deserves the closest possible scrutiny.

Bell officials complained bitterly that the hike was only half of what they requested. But that's a matter that the ICC, which is supposed to represent the consumer as well as Bell, should carefully review.

Prospect Heights: it needs role in TV show

Palatine's loss may be Prospect Heights' gain.

Village officials in Palatine last week thought of a great way to promote their town . . . go on national television. One trustee thought the ABC show, "Almost Anything Goes," would be great publicity since it is on Saturday night in prime time and involves the whole town.

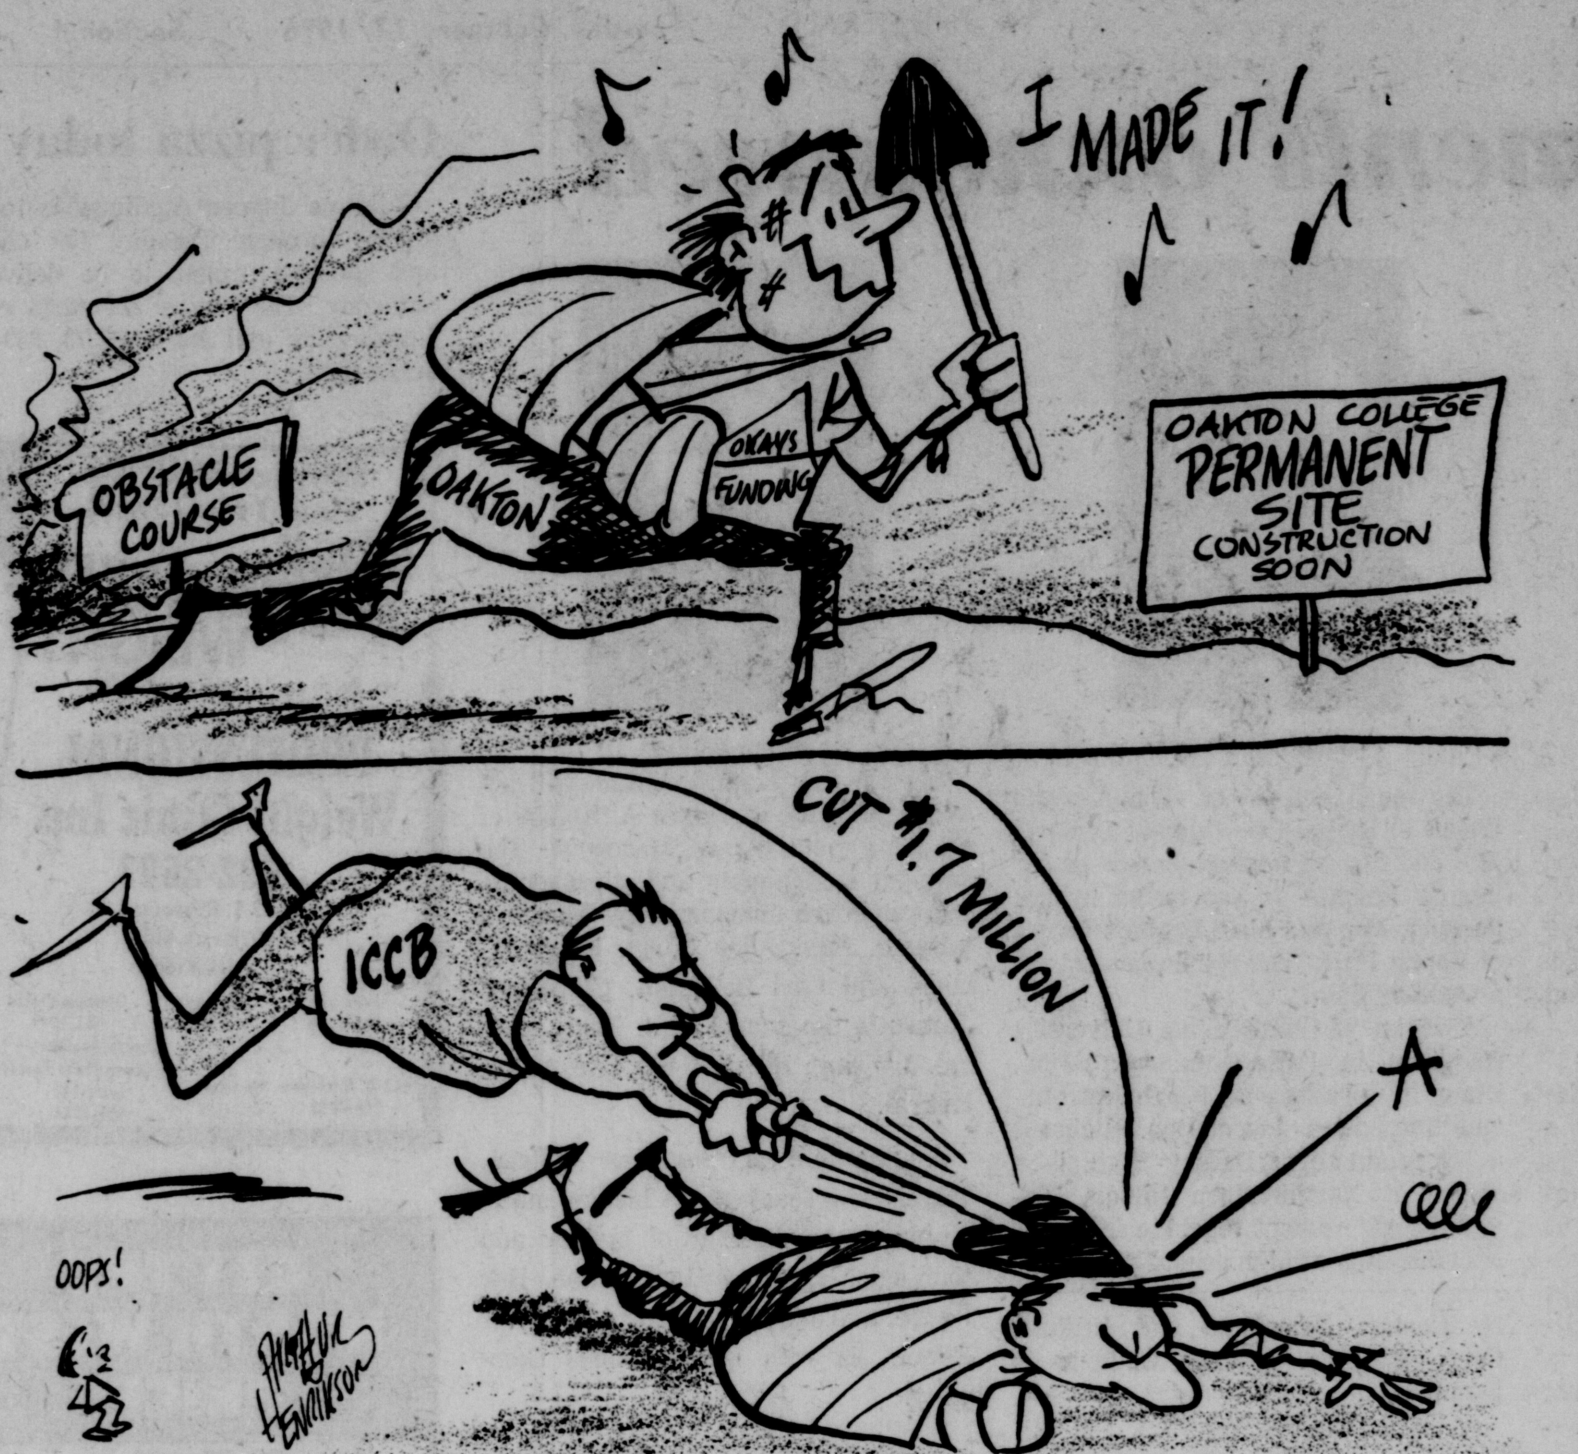
There's only one thing blocking Palatine's attempt at stardom. It has too many people living in the village.

But before village officials start disannexing subdivisions so they can get under the 20,000 population figure established for towns to appear on the show, we think we have a better idea.

The Northwest suburbs should get behind its newest member — Prospect Heights — and help promote the newly incorporated city by getting its 13,000 residents a television spot.

The guest shots on the show are booked through the end of the season, but think of the team Prospect Heights could put together by next year. And if the other suburbs would be willing, there could be a test run right here in our own backyard pitting each suburb against the other as they do the towns on the TV show.

Why, maybe we could even get Regis Philbin, the host of the show, to come out and have our local officials and residents role in the mud, get hit with pies, slide down a banister into a pool of water . . .



Rips 'baloney' about police chief

I have been a resident of Arlington Heights for about five years, I like this city and the people who live and work in it. What is all of this baloney I have been reading in your fine paper about lack of initiative or ability on the part of the Arlington Heights Police Department?

I have spent most of my professional life in police or allied work as a state and federal prosecutor and was raised in a police family, my father having been sheriff and chief of police of Wichita, Kansas, some years ago. I therefore consider that I have some experience which qualifies me to judge the capability of our police department here. I base that opinion on the fact that I have been a state's attorney, and an assistant attorney' and chief of the Justice Departments Organized Crime Section in Ohio and Kentuckey, much of my time in the latter position was spent in investigating police and official corruption.

I personally believe we are very fortunate here in Arlington Heights on several counts, the first and foremost being that for over 20 years Chief Calderwood and his officers have run an honest department. This city doesn't have to worry about clout and fix and I believe we should be pleased about that.

I would like to say that as a private citizen I have had conversation and meetings with various police officers from trainees to higher officials including Captain English and Chief Calderwood. On each occasion I was treated fairly and courteously. If I got a ticket here I deserved it. If it was a request for assistance it was efficiently and courteously handled.

I have made many friends on the Arlington Heights department and my personal observations of their degree of intelligence and training lead me to the conclusion that they are well trained and receive continued schooling in police science.

On the whole I believe that compared to similar-sized departments throughout the United States with which I have worked, I believe Arlington Heights has a superior department. I seem to remember a recent federal study which indicated the city of Arlington Heights was one of the country's safest cities.

I believe too much attention is being paid to a disgruntled ex-employe who apparently got tired of waiting for a still very effective and capable chief to step down.

The fact that Jack Aldrich went to Barrington shouldn't be taken as an imminent sign that our police department is headed for a total collapse. I certainly have nothing against him but I would say that he was mighty quiet about this situation for around 20 years.

L.W. Calderwood

I say to the readers, let's give our vote of confidence to the men on the street who are doing the job, protecting our lives and property.

This is not New York, Paris or Los Angeles. We have exactly the type of department suited to a city of this size. I for one cast my vote for the continued good service of the Arlington Heights Police Dept. under the capable leadership of those who stayed here, such as Calderwood and English. If we find any possible improvement it will be they who implement it and not those who cut and run and criticize from afar.

'Another fiasco for Des Plaines'

It appears that the administrators of the City of Des Plaines have perpetrated another costly fiasco. Deputy Fire Chief Wolf's dismissal was what the trial judge called "petty." Someone was out head-hunting. They got their bag — we got the bill, $11,000. The aldermen can fault the building commissioner for a $30 luncheon tab but condone the folly of a groundless (quicksand at best) unsupportable dismissal.

Mayor Behrel put a freeze on hiring last October. The exceptions included a deputy fire chief. What stroke of genius prompted the city to employ a replacement deputy fire chief when a court suit was pending challenging the legality of Mr. Wolf's dismissal. Did they feel that two wrongs would make a right?

With the prospect of revenue sharing not being extended by Congress, Mayor Behrel infers the rank and file will be consulted for filling that financial void. Unfortunately a financial plight didn't warrant the use of a referendum to select a method of financing Superblock's parking deck.

The Feb. 5 edition of The Herald inferred that city officials from Des Plaines met with Terry Hansen, project director for Cook County Community Development. Could it be that the "gold-fever" which has prompted the recent rush to accept the "untouchable" federal money (Community Development) has infiltrated Des Plaines too. (Mount Prospect elected to apply Tuesday.)

Police applauded

I would like to thank publicly some fine Wheeling policemen and village workers who helped me out of a trying situation recently. My sister and I and our young children were going shopping the frozen Friday of Jan. 30 when my sister's car got stuck in some deep snow in a parking lot.

We were unable to get the car out. A Wheeling policeman in an animal control warden truck (No. 675) came along and did his best to free us, but with no success. He called for assistance and soon two patrol cars (No. 604 and No. 605) came to help. Even with the three policemen pushing, however, we had no luck. They then flagged down a village salt truck and asked those two men to help, and the five men working together got our car out.

They all were so nice to us. I would just like to thank them once more for their great efforts and for their time and assistance. We didn't get their names or badge numbers, but hopefully they will know who they are.

'Swim schedule difficult'

A recent article in The Herald described the plight of the Prospect High School swimming team. I wish to compliment you for bringing this situation into focus so effectively.

As a parent of one of the swimmers, I've had to accept the rigors of predawn commuting to Kopp Pool. My concern, however, is with the well-being of the young men in the swimming program. The necessity of arising at 5 in the morning and traveling in sub-zero weather for a vigorous workout prior to regularly scheduled class work must certainly exact its price.

All four of my children have at one time or another participated in the park district swim program and have benefited greatly from it. I think it is an outstanding program, but find it extremely difficult to accept the fact that the schedules cannot be adjusted for the three or four months during which the swim team is in competition. It is particularly hard to understand when other park districts are able to accommodate one and in some instances two swim teams and still maintain a program responsive to general community needs.

Once again my compliments and thanks for bringing this situation to the attention of your readers. It would be criminal to see the swimming program at Prospect High falter at a time when it is becoming so effective.

Things were purring Saturday and Sunday at Arlington Park for the cat show sponsored by the Lincoln State Cat Club.

Hundreds of the felines, cat owners and just plain cat fanciers turned out for the judging and awards. Not only were fancy breeds honored, but house pets also were recognized in the judging.

When not being groomed and pampered, the contestants occupied their time napping, stretching, washing themselves or just enjoying the attention until the judging. Of course the cats had to allocate the proper amount of time for pacing their cages.

The winning cats tended to recognize their awards by batting, swatting and generally scratching the ribbons hung on their cages.

Proceeds from the admission went toward scholarship funds and for veterinary research into cat diseases.

Clark followers reach mid-point in 180-mile journey

Nursing blisters, a tiny band of marchers Monday left Walnut Hill, Ill., the midpoint of a 13-day trek reenacting the hike of George Rogers Clark and his Long Knives across Southern Illinois 197 years ago.

The Randolph County Long Knives expect to reach Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 23, accomplishing the 180-mile march in 13 days, seven fewer than Clark and his men needed in 1779 when they surprised the British and captured Ft. Sackville.

The modern buckskin brigade is led by Don Wiley, 42, a Sparta carpenter, and some members complained of the spring-like winter weather as the temperature reached 73 degrees Sunday.

"We are on the downhill side of the blisters now," said Wiley.

Clark had some 130 men in his band, but Wiley has only seven, including his son, Kerry, who is driving a camper truck containing supplies. Wiley's wife is driving a car and handling some of the laundry chores.

The number was expected to drop to six Monday night, Wiley said, because Lloyd Rich of Chicago has run out of vacation time. The march began last Tuesday northwest of Chester on the Mississippi River with nine men and boys in the ranks.

Aldermen may keep seats

A judge ruled Monday that five Freeport aldermen who failed to file economic intesest statements last year may retain their city council seats.

Stephenson County Circuit Court Judge Robert Law said the five had just been careless and had not committed a "willful omission" of the state law which requires economic interest statements from public office holders.

Law acted on a suit filed by Stephenson County State's Atty. William Sisler.

Suspect remains in hospital

Sheriff Charles Millikan of Rosiclare said Monday that Clarence Belt, charged with murder in the pistol killing of John Phelan, 52, Elizabethtown, remains in Hardin County General Hospital under 24-hour guard.

Belt, 52, Rosiclare, at whose home the shooting occurred early last Thursday, complained of chest pains Thursday night in county jail at Elizabethtown and was taken to the hospital.

The sheriff said Phelan was shot six times, apparently after an argument over a card game. Two other men in the house were released after questioning. Belt's bond was set at $50,000 on the murder charge.

Dupo teachers strike

All four schools in the Dupo District were closed Monday by a strike of teachers belonging to the Dupo Federation of Teachers Local 1732.

The district has 1,600 students.

A union spokesman said the teachers had been negotiating for a new contract for more than a year before talks broke off earlier this month. They have been working without a contract since Oct. 7.

The spokesman said teachers are seeking a base salary of $9,200 a year and full hospitalization insurance. The school board has offered $9,000 and improved but not full hospitalization insurance.

Clark followers reach mid-point in 180-mile journey

Nursing blisters, a tiny band of marchers Monday left Walnut Hill, Ill., the midpoint of a 13-day trek reenacting the hike of George Rogers Clark and his Long Knives across Southern Illinois 197 years ago.

The Randolph County Long Knives expect to reach Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 23, accomplishing the 180-mile march in 13 days, seven fewer than Clark and his men needed in 1779 when they surprised the British and captured Ft. Sackville.

The modern buckskin brigade is led by Don Wiley, 42, a Sparta carpenter, and some members complained of the spring-like winter weather as the temperature reached 73 degrees Sunday.

"We are on the downhill side of the blisters now," said Wiley.

Clark had some 130 men in his band, but Wiley has only seven, including his son, Kerry, who is driving a camper truck containing supplies. Wiley's wife is driving a car and handling some of the laundry chores.

The number was expected to drop to six Monday night, Wiley said, because Lloyd Rich of Chicago has run out of vacation time. The march began last Tuesday northwest of Chester on the Mississippi River with nine men and boys in the ranks.

Aldermen may keep seats

A judge ruled Monday that five Freeport aldermen who failed to file economic intesest statements last year may retain their city council seats.

Stephenson County Circuit Court Judge Robert Law said the five had just been careless and had not committed a "willful omission" of the state law which requires economic interest statements from public office holders.

Law acted on a suit filed by Stephenson County State's Atty. William Sisler.

Suspect remains in hospital

Sheriff Charles Millikan of Rosiclare said Monday that Clarence Belt, charged with murder in the pistol killing of John Phelan, 52, Elizabethtown, remains in Hardin County General Hospital under 24-hour guard.

Belt, 52, Rosiclare, at whose home the shooting occurred early last Thursday, complained of chest pains Thursday night in county jail at Elizabethtown and was taken to the hospital.

The sheriff said Phelan was shot six times, apparently after an argument over a card game. Two other men in the house were released after questioning. Belt's bond was set at $50,000 on the murder charge.

Dupo teachers strike

All four schools in the Dupo District were closed Monday by a strike of teachers belonging to the Dupo Federation of Teachers Local 1732.

The district has 1,600 students.

A union spokesman said the teachers had been negotiating for a new contract for more than a year before talks broke off earlier this month. They have been working without a contract since Oct. 7.

The spokesman said teachers are seeking a base salary of $9,200 a year and full hospitalization insurance. The school board has offered $9,000 and improved but not full hospitalization insurance.

Abuse of federal needy health plans 'widespread'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators reported Monday they had found widespread abuse of Medicaid and Medicare programs for the needy among clinical laboratories, including overcharges and kickbacks.

"I think it is time that Congress stepped in and ended this gold rush in the area of health care of the poor and aged," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., of a Senate subcommittee on aging.

Committee investigators estimated at least $45 million of the $213 million paid out by Medicare and Medicaid in the current fiscal year was "either fraudulent or unnecessary."

They told a subcommittee hearing the only way the clinical labs could obtain Medicaid accounts from physicians was to offer kickbacks averaging 30 per cent of the value of the services ordered by the physician and paid for out of state and federal funds.

THE INVESTIGATORS, who concentrated on Illinois and conducted supplementary studies in several other states, reported that laboratories in Illinois charged Medicaid as much as 110 per cent more than they charged private patients.

In one assortment of eight laboratory tests, the hearing was told, the state of Illinois paid $354,000 more in six months last year than private patients would have been charged.

The labs also were said to have made money by performing tests which physicians did not order, and collecting for them from Medicare and Medicaid.

THE INVESTIGATORS, taking a random sample of 20 accounts from Illinois laboratories, said the labs charged a total of $885 for services, or $766 more than the costs of tests actually ordered by doctors.

The doctors had no record of a visit or ordering of tests for 12 of the 20 patients involved. For another seven patients, more tests were charged for than were ordered. Only one patient received and was charged for exactly the tests ordered.

The Senate study found that Medicare and Medicaid payment schedules were out of date and based on the assumption that most of the labor work was performed by hand. Actually, it said, use of computers and other new technology have greatly lowered costs which are not reflected in the fees.

IN ILLINOIS, meantime, Public Aid Director James L. Trainor announced that six more doctors have been suspended from the state's Medicaid program. He denied the department has hushed up the fraud to help Gov. Daniel Walker in the March 16 primary election.

Trainor called a news conference "to respond to allegations that this department has done nothing" on Medicaid fraud. He declined to answer some questions and left in apparent anger with questions still coming.

"We have been doing the job," he said. "We have not been doing it with the kind of fanfare some people think we should. I think in 18 months since he became director this department has probably overcome four years of ineptitude and mismangement."

Trainor estimated Medicaid fraud "in the tens of millions" of dollars in Illinois, not hundreds of millions as some officials have suggested. He said the department spends "in excess of $2 million a year on investigations of all sorts" and has recouped '3.5 million since it began an audit program in April 1975.

Schaumburg, Conant clash tonight in South feature

by ART MUGALIAN

Nobody's trying to kid themselves about tonight's basketball game at Schaumburg between the host Saxons and the Conant Cougars. This game is more than just another friendly neighborhood gathering.

This is a championship game — this one is for all the marble cake.

The two South division teams will take to the court at around 8 p.m. and one of them will come off in first place. The other squad will have three losses.

In other action tonight, Hoffman Estates (3-7) hosts Elk Grove (6-4) and Rolling Meadows (3-7) entertains Forest View (3-7) in a pair of South encounters. Palatine (0-9) welcomes Prospect (4-7) in a crossover game, and Arlington visits Maine West in a nonleague affair in a game that will be broadcast on WMTH-PM (88.5).

At stake in the Conant-Schaumburg match are the South championship and a berth in the Mid-Suburban League's title game at either Buffalo Grove or Hersey Feb. 25.

Schaumburg's Saxons are 9-2 in the South and they own a half-game lead over Conant, which is 8-2. The Saxons were victorious the first time the teams met, back in January when Schaumburg captured a 64-47 win at Conant.

But at that time, the Cougars were without Ed MacDonald, who was ill. And two other starters, Brian O'Donnell and Pete Scaffidi, were playing below par. A fourth Cougar, Mike Frisch, had barely recovered from a broken wrist.

"We're healthy now," said Conant coach Dick Redlinger. "In that last game, we stayed within eight or 10 points of them until the fourth quarter."

Redlinger knows that a victory over Schaumburg would just about guarantee a South title, the Cougars' second in three years. But Conant would still have to beat Forest View on Friday to put away the championship.

"We still have to play them one at a time," Redlinger emphasized, not yet wanting to look ahead to meeting Forest View at their place.

"We've been studying films of Schaumburg all week," Redlinger said. "They don't do anything differently from the beginning of the year. We expect a man-to-man defense and a press. And we'll be changing defenses every time down the court."

The Saxons are aiming for victory No. 20 of the season, quite an accomplishment for a team that won 11 games all last year and had just 23 varsity wins in four seasons of basketball.

A victory for the Saxons tonight in their final league contest would clinch the division title.

"Defense will be the key to this game," said Saxon coach Joe Breault. "The team that plays good defense will win it."

"We haven't given up many points this year," added Breault, pointing to his team's 53-point defensive average. Conant has allowed just 47 points per game, the best mark in the MSL.

"Everybody's been going good lately," continued Breault. "We had a little low point there for awhile — around the Elk Grove game — but I think we're back up."

The Saxons have four scorers in double figures — John Chmiel (15.5), Jon McIlraith (13.9), Ed Chmiel (13.7), and Dan Breen (11.8).

Conant's top scorers are Scaffidi (11.8), Ron Sulaski (11.3), and O'Donnell (10.9).

"I expect Conant will play that zone mostly," Breault predicted, referring to Redlinger's favorite 2-3 setup. "They have the philosophy that if you're going to beat them, you're going to beat them from outside."

Cashmore tries - and stars - in many sports

Hersey's Bill Cashmore doesn't think of himself as a heartbreaker.

After all, the high school athlete is the cliched coaches' dream, an All-Conference football linebacker, plus a state finalist in diving.

A quiet, unassuming young man, Cashmore has that quality that makes him naturally likeable.

But through his four years at Hersey, Bill's broken a few hearts those of the coaches who let him get away.

The story of Bill Cashmore is a little unbelievable, even to veteran observers of Northwest suburban sports. It's a story of excellence — period.

For example:

- Cashmore wnt out for the freshman wrestling team. He was 22-0.
- He tried gymnastics as a sophomore. With no previous experience, he made the sophomore team at the school, which won the state gymnastics title. He was a consistent performer on the high bar.
- Feeling he didn't have the proper body to be a standout gymnast, Cashmore again switched sports his junior year and took up diving. No, he didn't just pick it up. He went on to the state finals where he finished 14th.
- Cashmore also a four-year standout in football, an All-Conference and Herald All-Area linebacker this year on a fine Hersey team. And this year, he definitely has a shot at finishing among the top three divers in the state.

"Every sport I could get into, I've always wanted to at least try," said Cashmore. "I always hoped that my senior year I'd be good enough in something to get a college scholarship," he said.

Cashmore comes from a family deeply involved with athletics. His two older brothers were both champion divers. His father, Dick, was an athlete at the University of Illinois. Bill's sister, Kim, a junior at Hersey went downstate as a freshman in the shot put and was All-Conference in volleyball as a sophomore.

Cashmore's forte, diving, is a story all in itself. Right from the start he competed with — and beat — divers who had several more years of experience than he.

Last year, his first year as a diver, Cashmore narrowly beat out senior Jeff Speakman for the Mid-Suburban League Diving Championship. The two went on to the state finals where Cashmore finished 14th, Speakman 12th.

But Cashmore's state meet performance should be footnoted, I think. It's another example of Bill's heart.

The night before state diving competition, both were to practice at the tournament site, New Trier East. On his first practice dive Cashmore hit his head on the pool bottom and spent the evening at the hospital getting six stitches in his head. Meanwhile, Speakman went on practicing.

The next day, forced to endure the unnatural presence of a bathing cap to protect his stitches, Cashmore went out and finished 14th, just behind Speakman.

"Most kids would have said, 'I can't dive,' " said Herb Parsons, Hersey swimming coach. "But Bill doesn't know that word. He's an extremely dedicated athlete."

Indeed Cashmore is dedicated. In addition to his regular five-day-a-week team practices, he puts in four hours each weekend diving on his own. And two nights a week, he gets coaching from his older brother Don, a former diver. You see, on top of it all, Hersey, like most Dist. 214 schools, doesn't have a diving coach.

For all his success, Bill still wonders, occasionally, if it's all worth it. "Sometimes you get down, because there's no one there to tell you what you're doing wrong," he said. "You ask if it's all worth it. In diving, it comes down to just one meet, the state meet. All you can do is cross your fingers and hope you're sharp that one day."

Cashmore's life is usually orderly for that of a 17-year-old. After college, he plans to join his father and brothers in business. But athletics will always be part of his life.

"I always remember being little and going to watch my Dad play handball at the 'Y'," Bill said. "And I remember hearing people say, 'that Dick Cashmore's a pretty good athlete.' " said Bill. "I hope someday, they'll be saying that about me."

They already are, Bill. They already are.

Hawks qualify for state meet

Harper's women's gymnastics team continued to add new honors to their season this weekend as they qualified for the state meet for the first time.

"With this meet and the junior college state meet," said head coach Martha Lynn Bolt, "this is our most successful season ever."

Harper took third to move into the state meet, which will include both two-and four-year schools, March 6 at the University of Illinois - Circle Campus.

With a total of 82.25 the Hawks trailed only Waubonsee (85.60) and Wheaton College (83.35).

Carol Moore and Sue Paster paced the Hawks' performance.

Paster placed third in the all-around with a 7.21 average and took firsts on the uneven parallel bars (7.70) and floor exercise (7.50).

Moore had a 7.30 on vaulting, a 7:30 on floor exercise and won the balance beam with her best score of the year, an 8.05.

Linda Pleckham also picked up a fifth place award on the unevens with a 6.70 score.

Mid-Suburban girl cagers in key games

by PAUL LOGAN

Two of the top scorers in the Mid-Suburban League will matchup tonight when Fremd plays at Buffalo Grove in a girls' basketball game.

Presently ranked 2-3 in scoring average are Heidi Geisler of the Fremd Vikings and Joyce Gallagher of the Buffalo Grove Bison. Giesler is carrying a 16.5 mark with Gallagher at 13.5.

Gallagher scored 50 points while leading her red-hot Bison team to three straight wins last week. Buffalo Grove, a co-leader in the North Division with Fremd and Wheeling with 1-0 marks, will be trying to hand Fremd (7-0) its first loss.

Dropping to fourth was Fremd's Connie Bruns with a 13.4 average. Giesler and Bruns give the North Division co-leaders a deadly 1-2 punch.

Clare Dowling is the pacesetter with a lofty 22.6 total. Dowling enjoyed her high game of the season, scoring 25 in a win over Arlington. She also had 24 against Rolling Meadows, giving her six games with 21 points or more.

Hoffman, sharing the South Division lead with Forest View and Elk Grove at 1-0, will be at Elk Grove tonight. The Hawks are 5-2 overall while Elk Grove is 2-2.

In other action, Schaumburg (0-1, o-6) will be at Prospect (0-1, 2-3), Conant (0-0, 6-2) will be at Forest View (1-0, 5-3), Arlington (0-1, 2-3) will be at Hersey (0-1, 2-5) and Palatine (0-1, 1-4) will be at Wheeling (1-0, 7-0).

In a non-conference game, Rolling Meadows (0-6) will be at Addison Trail. All games will start at approximately 8 p.m.

On Thursday night, the game that has decided the North Division title the last two years will be played — Wheeling at Fremd. Two years ago, the Wildcats lost to the Vikings by two points; last year it was by only one.

Wheeling received a boost last week with the return of all-conference center Sandy Rainey, who had been sidelined by a leg injury. In four games, Rainey has scored 52 points or a 13.0 average. She helped her team capture the Hersey invitational tourney last weekend, scoring 22 points against powerful Libertyville.

Gina Neri's 12.7 average and LeeAnn Paulsen's 11.5 give Wheeling a 1-2-3 punch. Fremd will counter with Giesler, Bruns and Colleen Cannon, who has broken out of her scoring slump. She just missed the top 15 list with 10.1.

Schaumburg, Conant clash tonight in South feature

by ART MUGALIAN

Nobody's trying to kid themselves about tonight's basketball game at Schaumburg between the host Saxons and the Conant Cougars. This game is more than just another friendly neighborhood gathering.

This is a championship game — this one is for all the marble cake.

The two South division teams will take to the court at around 8 p.m. and one of them will come off in first place. The other squad will have three losses.

In other action tonight, Hoffman Estates (3-7) hosts Elk Grove (6-4) and Rolling Meadows (3-7) entertains Forest View (3-7) in a pair of South encounters. Palatine (0-9) welcomes Prospect (4-7) in a crossover game, and Arlington visits Maine West in a nonleague affair in a game that will be broadcast on WMTH-PM (88.5).

At stake in the Conant-Schaumburg match are the South championship and a berth in the Mid-Suburban League's title game at either Buffalo Grove or Hersey Feb. 25.

Schaumburg's Saxons are 9-2 in the South and they own a half-game lead over Conant, which is 8-2. The Saxons were victorious the first time the teams met, back in January when Schaumburg captured a 64-47 win at Conant.

But at that time, the Cougars were without Ed MacDonald, who was ill. And two other starters, Brian O'Donnell and Pete Scaffidi, were playing below par. A fourth Cougar, Mike Frisch, had barely recovered from a broken wrist.

"We're healthy now," said Conant coach Dick Redlinger. "In that last game, we stayed within eight or 10 points of them until the fourth quarter."

Redlinger knows that a victory over Schaumburg would just about guarantee a South title, the Cougars' second in three years. But Conant would still have to beat Forest View on Friday to put away the championship.

"We still have to play them one at a time," Redlinger emphasized, not yet wanting to look ahead to meeting Forest View at their place.

Indiana takes thriller over Purdue, 74-71

Tom Abernathy and Scott May triggered a second half comeback to give top-ranked Indiana a 74-71 victory over arch-rival Purdue Monday night and advance the Hoosiers a giant step toward a second consecutive unbeaten regular season.

Indiana trailed by as many as 11 points in the first half.

May, held to three field goals in the first half, pumped in seven more in the final 20 minutes to lead the scoring with 26 points. Abernethy had 13 points and Kent Benson, held scoreless in the second half, scored 10 points as the Hoosiers ran their regular season winning streak to 52 games.

It was the Hoosiers' 22nd triumph of the season without a loss.

Purdue took charge early in the game on the shooting of sophomores Eugene Parker and Walter Jordan. Parker, who led Purdue with 23 points, had 12 in the first half, while Jordan finished with 14.

Indiana held a 70-68 lead with four minutes to play when the Hoosiers went to a spread offense.

With five seconds left to play, Parker connected from the baseline to close to within, 72-71, but May sank a pair of free throws with two seconds left.

ILLINOIS 91, OHIO STATE 73

Rich Adams scored a career high 29 points and added eight assists to lead Illinois to a 91-73 triumph over Ohio State to guarantee the Illini their first winning season since 1973.

Ohio State kept the game close only in the early portions of the first half and last led at 7-6. Illinois broke the game open in the first half outscoring the Buckeyes 10-2 in a span of three minutes to take a 48-37 halftime lead.

In the second half Ohio State never challenged. Judd Wood and Terry Burris led the Buckeye scoring with 19 points each.

It was the 14th win in 22 games for the Illini and the 15th loss in 21 for Ohio State.

IOWA 81, NORTHWESTERN 68

The Iowa Hawkeyes put down Northwestern's late rally led by Billy McKinney Monday night to win a Big Ten contest 81-68.

The win, Iowa's fourth straight, maintained the Hawkeyes in fourth place in the Big Ten and just about ended any Wildcat opes of a first division finish.

The Hawkeyes led 60-47 with 8:45 left in the game, but in the next 5½ minutes, McKinney made 12 of his game high 29 points. McKinney's spree enabled Northwestern to cut the Iowa margin to four, 68-64.

Iowa rallied for nine straight points in the next two minutes, five by forward Dan Frost, and pulled to a comfortable 77-64 lead.

The Hawkeyes were led by Frost's 25 points. Bruce King added 16 for Iowa, followed by Scott Thompson with 11 and Cal Wulfsberg with 10.

MICHIGAN 94, E. MICHIGAN 76

Junior guard Rickey Green scored 13 points in the final seven minutes to propel 11th ranked Michigan to a 94-76 victory over Eastern Michigan.

The Wolverines, now 17-5 for the season, led by 19 points midway through the second half but Eastern Michigan cut the lead to six before Green got hot.

Green finished with a game high 25 points while freshman center Phil Hubbard added 24.

Forward Bob Riddle led Eastern, now 7-15, with 17 points. Guard Bill Weaver and forward Walt Jones added 16 apiece.

MINNESOTA 98, WISCONSIN 74

Minnesota scored the first 11 points and paced by Mike Thompson's 33 points raced past Wisconsin, 98-74 Monday night.

The seventh-place Gophers led by as much as 26 points in the first half when they outrebounded the last place Badgers 34-18, while building a 51-32 halftime lead.

Ray Williams and Osborne Lockhart each finished with 17 for Minnesota, both breaking loose numerous times for uncontested layups.

Minnesota, 5-8 in the conference and 12-9 overall, led by 36 at 95-59 before coach Jim Dutcher emptied his bench.

Irish breeze past Butler, 92-79

Adrian Dantley scored 27 points, 21 of them in the second half, Monday night to lead 10th-ranked Notre Dame past Butler 92-79.

The Irish led all the way to hang up their 18th victory in 22 games. It was Notre Dame's 13th win in the last 14 games. Butler now is 11-12.

Dantley didn't open up during the first half which ended with Notre Dame leading only 41-37, but he began to find the range after intermission and boosted his career scoring total to 2,027 points.

Five-foot-10 junior guard Wayne Burris led Butler, scoring a career-high 30 points.

Notre Dame, with Dantley hitting, ran up a 17-point lead three times in the second half. The best Butler could do after that was pull within eight. Both teams shot at better than 50 per cent accuracy from the floor in the game.

Number 2 Marquette beats Tulane

Earl Tatum scored 23 points to lead No. 2 ranked Marquette to an easy 75-63 win over Tulane Monday night, the 16th straight for the Warriors, improving their season record to 20-1.

It was Coach Al McGuire's tenth straight season of 20 or more wins. Tulane is now 16-8.

Tatum scored 15 points in the first half when the Warriors outshot the Green Wave 58 per cent to 33 per cent and took a 37-27 halftime lead.

Bo Ellis had 17 points for Marquette and Jerome Whitehead 12, Jeff Cummings led Tulane with 16, 14 of them in the first half. Tulane's leading scorer was Phil Hicks with 15.

Whitehead dropped in 10 points early in the second half as Marquette stretched its lead to 59-37. Marquette enjoyed its largest lead at 69-43 with seven minutes left.

'New York' Vikings no surprise

Two state senators leading the fight for a new stadium near downtown Minneapolis said Monday they are not surprised at reports the Minnesota Vikings are being wooed by New York's renovated Yankee Stadium.

Sens. John Chenoweth and Robert North, both of St. Paul, said they were sure the development was not engineered by the Minnesota Vikings as a means of putting pressure on lawmakers to support the stadium bill.

However, he said, "I think it is a pretty well understood fact that the Vikings will move if a new stadium is not built." Chenoweth said, "We will have to face the fact that there is keen competition to attract the Vikings away from us. I do not believe the Vikings originated this report to help support the measure."

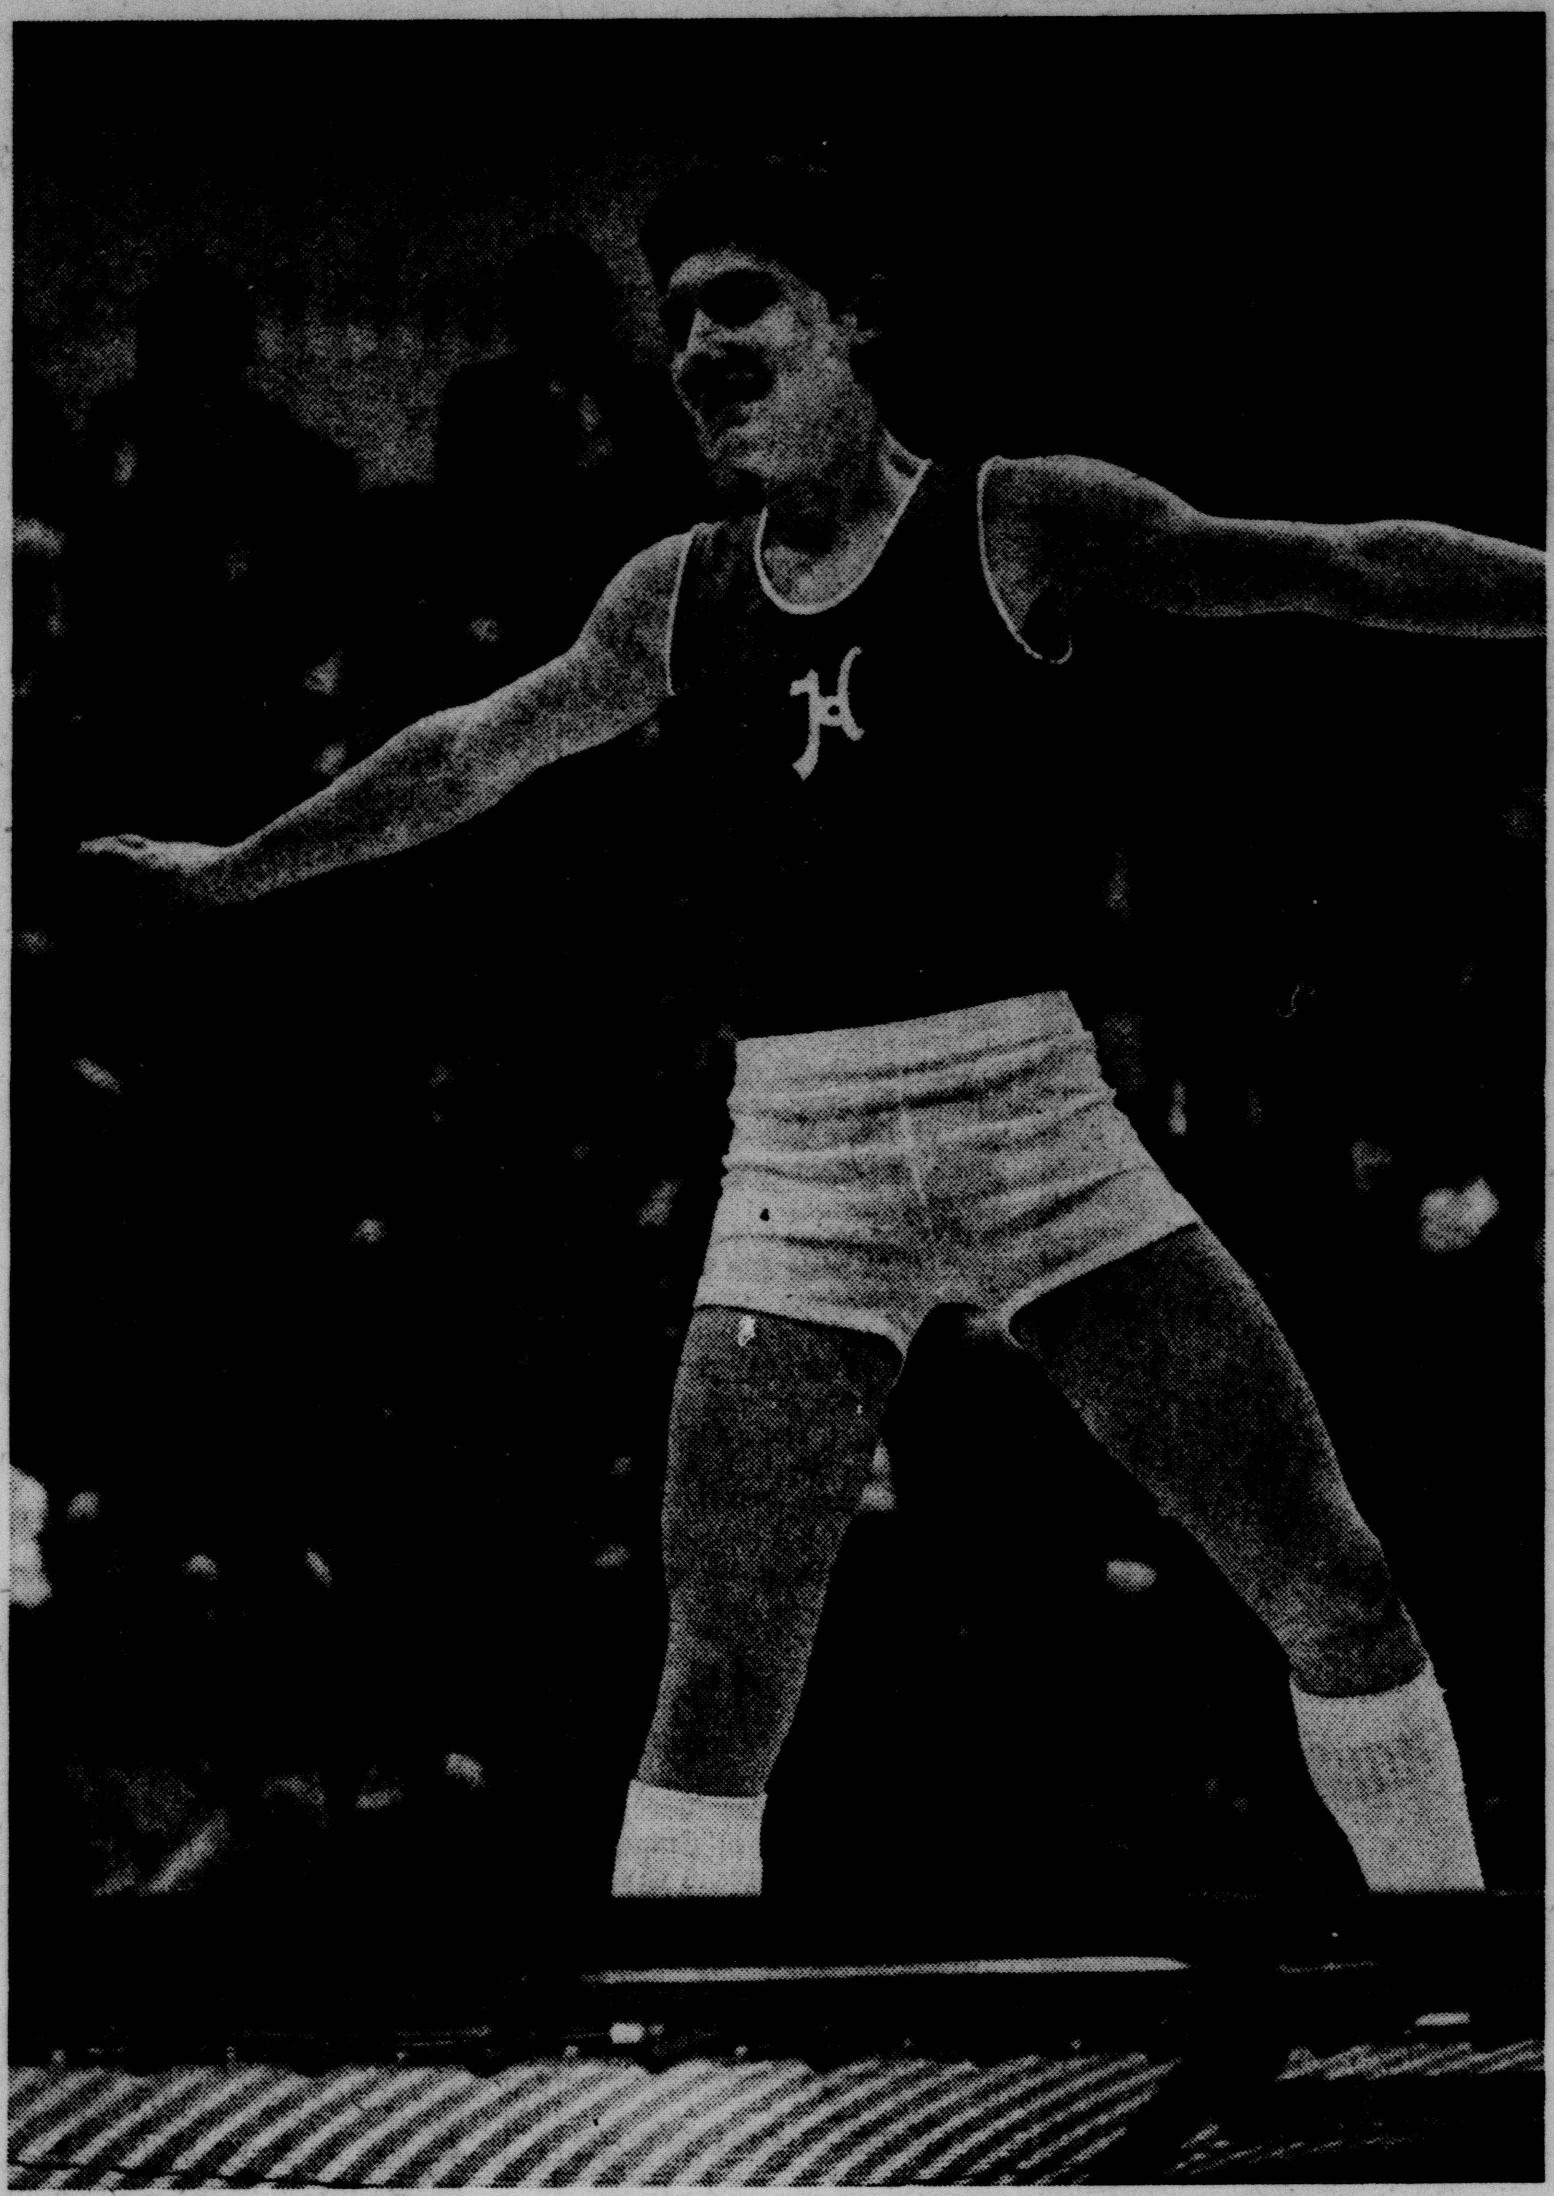
Vikings' Coach Bud Grant and General Manager Mike Lynn have been at the Capitol in recent weeks to talk with lawmakers and to urge support for the new $45 million, 65,000-seat stadium.

Laver highest paid; signs with Friars

Rod Laver, who has won more major championships than any other player in the history of tennis, Monday became the highest paid player in World Team Tennis by signing a multi-year contract with the San Diego Friars.

G. Allan Kingston, president of the Friars, declined to disclose details of the contract in announcing the signing, but said it covered more than 1976 and made Laver the highest paid tennis player in the 3-year-old WTT.

He said Laver, 37, who has earned more than $1.5 million in his 13-year career, signed to play the entire season. The Friars' 44-match season starts in San Diego May 4 against the 1975 WTT Champion Pittsburgh Triangles.



TRAMP CHAMP. Hersey's Bob Barut knows he hit a good trampoline routine as he takes his bows Saturday after finishing with an 8.6. Barut's championship was the only individual title for the Huskies.

Harper qualifies 3 wrestlers

Highlighted by Neal Kendall's blue ribbon performance, three Harper wrestlers battled their way to national competition at the Region IV tournament hosted by Waubonsee.

Joining Kendall in the qualifying ranks were Jim Dugo and Bill Zimmerman. The top three grapplers at each weight advance to the NJCAA National showdown in Worthington, Minn. Feb. 26-28 and Dugo and Zimmerman both finished third.

The Hawks finished sixth among the more than 25 schools represented at Waubonsee, prompting Harper coach Norm Lovelace to observe, "I'm really pleased with the outcome here. . .especially in light of the fact that we finished dead last at the same time a year ago."

Triton rang up 128¼ points to capture top team laurels while Joliet (90¾) was second, Blackhawk (75¾) was third, Waubonsee (72½) fourth and DuPage (66½) fifth ahead of Harper's 41¼-point production.

Kendall opened with a 12-2 win over Pete Barr, trimmed Bob Harwood of McHenry 6-3 and outlasted Darnell Griffin of Joliet in overtime 2-1 to annex the 134-pound crown. Kendall now owns a 24-1-1 slate.

Dugo, at 118, pinned Rod Dunn of McHenry but was then polished off by Dave Jenkins of Triton 7-3. He rallied in the wrestlebacks with a 21-6 verdict over Sauk Valley's Terry Gray and followed up with a 7-2 decision over Jeff Metzger of DuPage to qualify with a 21-3 record.

Zimmerman, at 177, beat Rich Brogan of DuPage 7-2, lost to eventual champ Cliff Thurman of Joliet 8-4, came back with a 9-2 win over Waubonsee's Pete Hoffman and then dumped Dave Vanderlinden of Blackhawk 8-2 in notching his third.

Harper's other wrestlers lost out in early round action. Also failing in his bid for a trip to the Nationals was John Lonergan of Mayfair, a former Palatine standout. He finished fourth.

Arden scores 38, Harper falls to Illinois Valley

Jim Arden fired in a record 38 points Saturday but it wasn't enough to keep the Harper Hawks from losing their 15th game of the season, 91-85 to Illinois Valley.

Arden's 17 buckets and four free throws added up to the most points ever scored by a Harper cager.

"As near as we can tell," said Hawk coach Roger Bechtold, "that's the record. We lost all our records in the fire a few years ago but we're pretty sure that is the most points ever scored."

The Hawks began cutting into a 10-point halftime deficit when they controlled Illinois Valley's fast break in the second half.

"They like to run," Bechtold said, "and we started to control the tempo. We got within one point of them several times but we couldn't push it over the hump."

Wally Butman, who had cooled Thornton's Trevor Banks last week, again took on the big gun as he hooked up with Hollis Vickery.

"Wally worked hard on him," Bechtold said. "But Vickery took him in and out and shot over him for 30 points."

Illinois Valley's other forward, Randy Parker, hurt the Hawks with 27 points.

Bill Kenney did a fine job on IV's Terry Olszewski as he held him to six points. The Apache guard had scored 26 points in their first game.

Butman chipped in 18 points and Scott Green 12 for the Hawks.

Harper will wind up their regular season Thursday at Waubonsee.

"The difference in this game," Bechtold said, "was the free throws. We made only seven and they hit 19."

Indiana takes thriller over Purdue, 74-71

Tom Abernathy and Scott May triggered a second half comeback to give top-ranked Indiana a 74-71 victory over arch-rival Purdue Monday night and advance the Hoosiers a giant step toward a second consecutive unbeaten regular season.

Indiana trailed by as many as 11 points in the first half.

May, held to three field goals in the first half, pumped in seven more in the final 20 minutes to lead the scoring with 26 points. Abernethy had 13 points and Kent Benson, held scoreless in the second half, scored 10 points as the Hoosiers ran their regular season winning streak to 52 games.

It was the Hoosiers' 22nd triumph of the season without a loss.

Purdue took charge early in the game on the shooting of sophomores Eugene Parker and Walter Jordan. Parker, who led Purdue with 23 points, had 12 in the first half, while Jordan finished with 14.

Indiana held a 70-68 lead with four minutes to play when the Hoosiers went to a spread offense.

With five seconds left to play, Parker connected from the baseline to close to within, 72-71, but May sank a pair of free throws with two seconds left.

ILLINOIS 91, OHIO STATE 73

Rich Adams scored a career high 29 points and added eight assists to lead Illinois to a 91-73 triumph over Ohio State to guarantee the Illini their first winning season since 1973.

Ohio State kept the game close only in the early portions of the first half and last led at 7-6. Illinois broke the game open in the first half outscoring the Buckeyes 10-2 in a span of three minutes to take a 48-37 halftime lead.

In the second half Ohio State never challenged. Judd Wood and Terry Burris led the Buckeye scoring with 19 points each.

It was the 14th win in 22 games for the Illini and the 15th loss in 21 for Ohio State.

IOWA 81, NORTHWESTERN 68

The Iowa Hawkeyes put down Northwestern's late rally led by Billy McKinney Monday night to win a Big Ten contest 81-68.

The win, Iowa's fourth straight, maintained the Hawkeyes in fourth place in the Big Ten and just about ended any Wildcat opes of a first division finish.

The Hawkeyes led 60-47 with 8:45 left in the game, but in the next 5½ minutes, McKinney made 12 of his game high 29 points. McKinney's spree enabled Northwestern to cut the Iowa margin to four, 68-64.

Iowa rallied for nine straight points in the next two minutes, five by forward Dan Frost, and pulled to a comfortable 77-64 lead.

The Hawkeyes were led by Frost's 25 points. Bruce King added 16 for Iowa, followed by Scott Thompson with 11 and Cal Wulfsberg with 10.

MICHIGAN 94, E. MICHIGAN 76

Junior guard Rickey Green scored 13 points in the final seven minutes to propel 11th ranked Michigan to a 94-76 victory over Eastern Michigan.

The Wolverines, now 17-5 for the season, led by 19 points midway through the second half but Eastern Michigan cut the lead to six before Green got hot.

Green finished with a game high 25 points while freshman center Phil Hubbard added 24.

Forward Bob Riddle led Eastern, now 7-15, with 17 points. Guard Bill Weaver and forward Walt Jones added 16 apiece.

MINNESOTA 98, WISCONSIN 74

Minnesota scored the first 11 points and paced by Mike Thompson's 33 points raced past Wisconsin, 98-74 Monday night.

The seventh-place Gophers led by as much as 26 points in the first half when they outrebounded the last place Badgers 34-18, while building a 51-32 halftime lead.

Ray Williams and Osborne Lockhart each finished with 17 for Minnesota, both breaking loose numerous times for uncontested layups.

Minnesota, 5-8 in the conference and 12-9 overall, led by 36 at 95-59 before coach Jim Dutcher emptied his bench.

Irish breeze past Butler, 92-79

Adrian Dantley scored 27 points, 21 of them in the second half, Monday night to lead 10th-ranked Notre Dame past Butler 92-79.

The Irish led all the way to hang up their 18th victory in 22 games. It was Notre Dame's 13th win in the last 14 games. Butler now is 11-12.

Dantley didn't open up during the first half which ended with Notre Dame leading only 41-37, but he began to find the range after intermission and boosted his career scoring total to 2,027 points.

Five-foot-10 junior guard Wayne Burris led Butler, scoring a career-high 30 points.

Notre Dame, with Dantley hitting, ran up a 17-point lead three times in the second half. The best Butler could do after that was pull within eight. Both teams shot at better than 50 per cent accuracy from the floor in the game.

Number 2 Marquette beats Tulane

Earl Tatum scored 23 points to lead No. 2 ranked Marquette to an easy 75-63 win over Tulane Monday night, the 16th straight for the Warriors, improving their season record to 20-1.

It was Coach Al McGuire's tenth straight season of 20 or more wins. Tulane is now 16-8.

Tatum scored 15 points in the first half when the Warriors outshot the Green Wave 58 per cent to 33 per cent and took a 37-27 halftime lead.

Bo Ellis had 17 points for Marquette and Jerome Whitehead 12, Jeff Cummings led Tulane with 16, 14 of them in the first half. Tulane's leading scorer was Phil Hicks with 15.

Whitehead dropped in 10 points early in the second half as Marquette stretched its lead to 59-37. Marquette enjoyed its largest lead at 69-43 with seven minutes left.

'New York' Vikings no surprise

Two state senators leading the fight for a new stadium near downtown Minneapolis said Monday they are not surprised at reports the Minnesota Vikings are being wooed by New York's renovated Yankee Stadium.

Sens. John Chenoweth and Robert North, both of St. Paul, said they were sure the development was not engineered by the Minnesota Vikings as a means of putting pressure on lawmakers to support the stadium bill.

However, he said, "I think it is a pretty well understood fact that the Vikings will move if a new stadium is not built." Chenoweth said, "We will have to face the fact that there is keen competition to attract the Vikings away from us. I do not believe the Vikings originated this report to help support the measure."

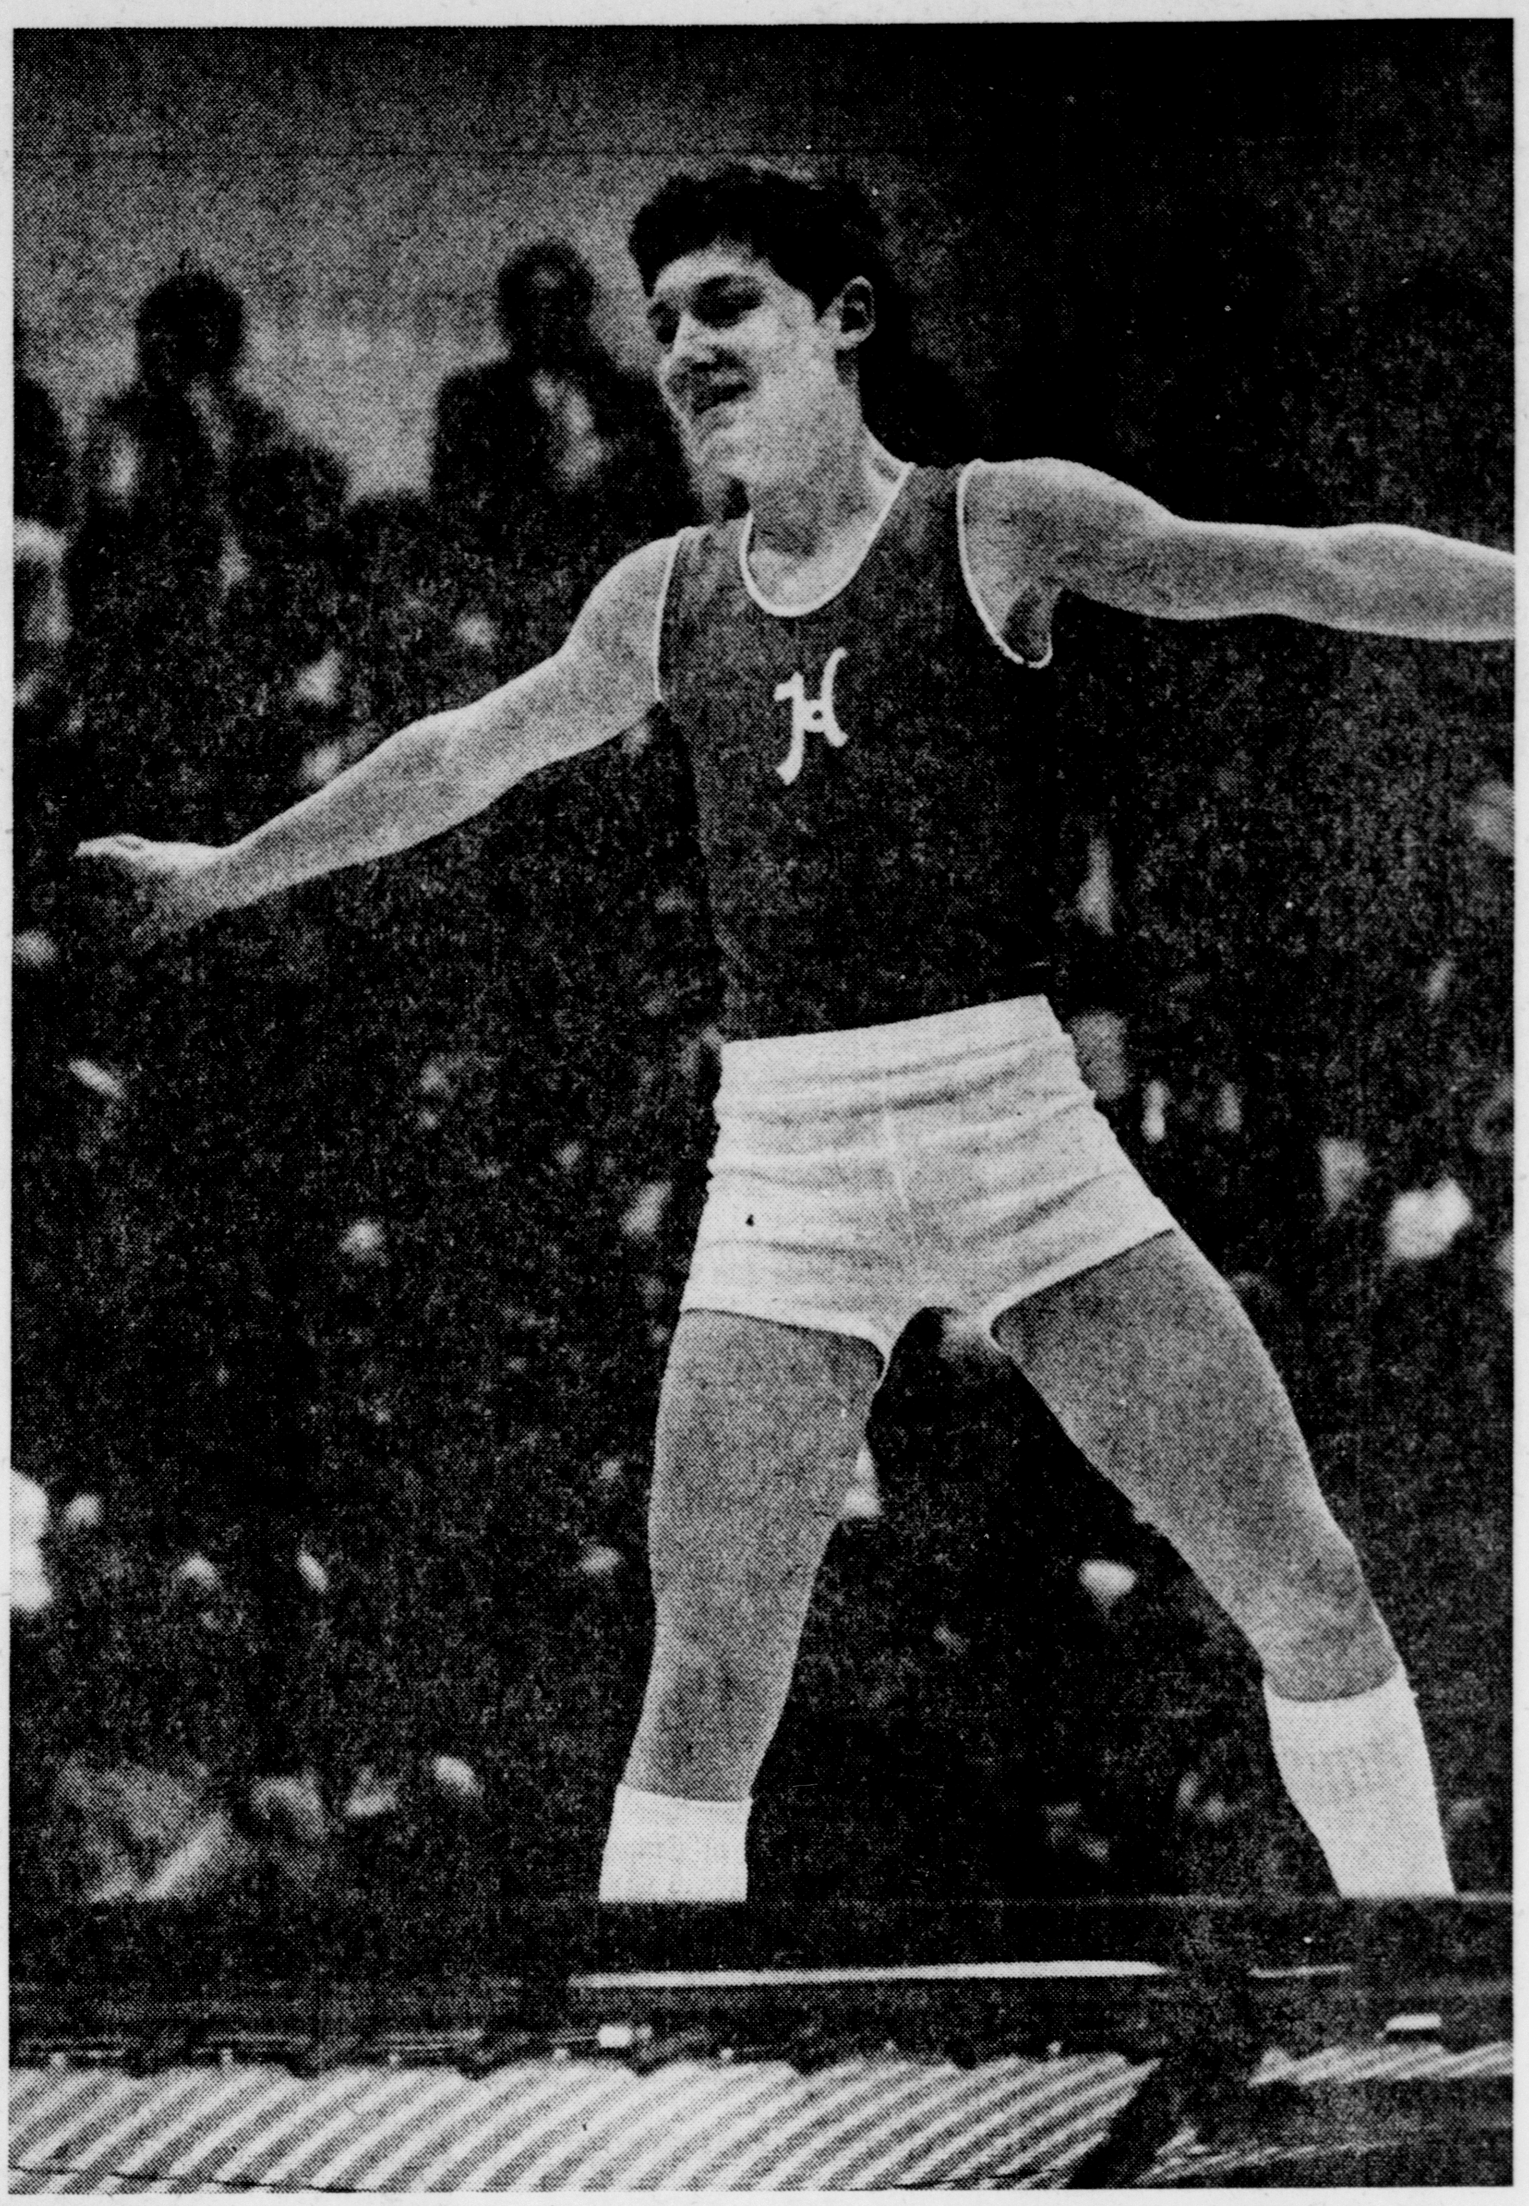
Vikings' Coach Bud Grant and General Manager Mike Lynn have been at the Capitol in recent weeks to talk with lawmakers and to urge support for the new $45 million, 65,000-seat stadium.

Laver highest paid; signs with Friars

Rod Laver, who has won more major championships than any other player in the history of tennis, Monday became the highest paid player in World Team Tennis by signing a multi-year contract with the San Diego Friars.

G. Allan Kingston, president of the Friars, declined to disclose details of the contract in announcing the signing, but said it covered more than 1976 and made Laver the highest paid tennis player in the 3-year-old WTT.

He said Laver, 37, who has earned more than $1.5 million in his 13-year career, signed to play the entire season. The Friars' 44-match season starts in San Diego May 4 against the 1975 WTT Champion Pittsburgh Triangles.



TRAMP CHAMP. Hersey's Bob Barut knows he hit a good trampoline routine as he takes his bows Saturday after finishing with an 8.6. Barut's championship was the only individual title for the Huskies.

Harper qualifies 3 wrestlers

Highlighted by Neal Kendall's blue ribbon performance, three Harper wrestlers battled their way to national competition at the Region IV tournament hosted by Waubonsee.

Joining Kendall in the qualifying ranks were Jim Dugo and Bill Zimmerman. The top three grapplers at each weight advance to the NJCAA National showdown in Worthington, Minn. Feb. 26-28 and Dugo and Zimmerman both finished third.

The Hawks finished sixth among the more than 25 schools represented at Waubonsee, prompting Harper coach Norm Lovelace to observe, "I'm really pleased with the outcome here. . .especially in light of the fact that we finished dead last at the same time a year ago."

Triton rang up 128¼ points to capture top team laurels while Joliet (90¾) was second, Blackhawk (75¾) was third, Waubonsee (72½) fourth and DuPage (66½) fifth ahead of Harper's 41¼-point production.

Kendall opened with a 12-2 win over Pete Barr, trimmed Bob Harwood of McHenry 6-3 and outlasted Darnell Griffin of Joliet in overtime 2-1 to annex the 134-pound crown. Kendall now owns a 24-1-1 slate.

Dugo, at 118, pinned Rod Dunn of McHenry but was then polished off by Dave Jenkins of Triton 7-3. He rallied in the wrestlebacks with a 21-6 verdict over Sauk Valley's Terry Gray and followed up with a 7-2 decision over Jeff Metzger of DuPage to qualify with a 21-3 record.

Zimmerman, at 177, beat Rich Brogan of DuPage 7-2, lost to eventual champ Cliff Thurman of Joliet 8-4, came back with a 9-2 win over Waubonsee's Pete Hoffman and then dumped Dave Vanderlinden of Blackhawk 8-2 in notching his third.

Harper's other wrestlers lost out in early round action. Also failing in his bid for a trip to the Nationals was John Lonergan of Mayfair, a former Palatine standout. He finished fourth.

STEVENSON INVITATIONAL

Lake Forest 101, Libertyville 96, McHenry 44, Stevenson 29, Woodstock 12, Dundee 4.

Arden scores 38, Harper falls to Illinois Valley

Jim Arden fired in a record 38 points Saturday but it wasn't enough to keep the Harper Hawks from losing their 15th game of the season, 91-85 to Illinois Valley.

Arden's 17 buckets and four free throws added up to the most points ever scored by a Harper cager.

"As near as we can tell," said Hawk coach Roger Bechtold, "that's the record. We lost all our records in the fire a few years ago but we're pretty sure that is the most points ever scored."

The Hawks began cutting into a 10-point halftime deficit when they controlled Illinois Valley's fast break in the second half.

"They like to run," Bechtold said, "and we started to control the tempo. We got within one point of them several times but we couldn't push it over the hump."

Wally Butman, who had cooled Thornton's Trevor Banks last week, again took on the big gun as he hooked up with Hollis Vickery.

"Wally worked hard on him," Bechtold said. "But Vickery took him in and out and shot over him for 30 points."

Illinois Valley's other forward, Randy Parker, hurt the Hawks with 27 points.

Bill Kenney did a fine job on IV's Terry Olszewski as he held him to six points. The Apache guard had scored 26 points in their first game.

Butman chipped in 18 points and Scott Green 12 for the Hawks.

Harper will wind up their regular season Thursday at Waubonsee.

"The difference in this game," Bechtold said, "was the free throws. We made only seven and they hit 19."

Fingerprints differ on each hand

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Tony Elia, 13, of Niagara Falls, Ont., Canada, for his question:

DO BOTH HANDS HAVE THE SAME FINGERPRINTS?

Fingerprints seem to go hand in hand with murder mysteries and whodunit movies. When the use of fingerprints began, however, it was only as a means of identification. Potters, artists, merchants and perhaps even kings used a thumb print as an indisputable signature.

A fingerprint is the impression of the inside of the finger between the tip and the first joint. If you look at your fingertips you can see the tiny ridges that loop, twist and turn every which way. Glands beneath the surface of our skin secrete an oil to keep our skin soft. When you press your fingers against a solid surface, the oil is left behind in the patterns formed by your fingerprints.

Sir William Herschel is given credit for being the first to devise a workable method of fingerprint identification. In the 1850s he was a British government official in Bengal, India. He sought to use the thumb prints of illiterate workers as a means of positive identification. In those days people often pretended to be someone else so they could collect wages they hadn't earned.

In time, the idea of fingerprinting, more properly called dactylography, developed into a scientific system. Sir Francis Galton founded the present system of fingerprint identification in the early 1900s. His system was later refined and perfected by Sir E.R. Henry, a commissioner of Scotland Yard of London. Today, the Henry system is the most commonly used.

Fingerprints can be broken down into three large groups of patterns — the arch, the loop and the whorl. Each large group bears the same general characteristics. The loop and arch groups are broken down further into two smaller groups each, while the whorl group is broken down into four smaller groups. This makes eight groups in all, and from here on it really gets complicated.

You can begin to understand how detailed it gets when you realize that out of the billions of people in the world no two share the same fingerprints. What's more, the prints on your right hand are different from those on your left. Multiply the world population by 10 and you can come pretty close to the total number of different fingerprints that exist.

Besides being useful in catching criminals and other misguided folk, fingerprints are an invaluable aid in identifying amnesia victims, missing persons and unknown deceased persons. Many times the victims of major disasters can be positively identified if their fingerprints are on file.

About three-quarters of the American population have their fingerprints on record. This provides a quick and positive means of identification that can be useful to us. Many times a fingerprint has been instrumental in reuniting separated families, locating missing persons and saving innocent people from prison.

'Romeo and Juliet' director films 'The Life of Jesus'

Mid-week review

by PEGGY POIK

A dusty hill outside the city walls. Bedouin tents, a stall selling clay bowls, pumpkins and carrots. A growling camel pulls against his tether. A boy in ragged clothes sits motionless on a donkey.

Clouds glide across the wintry sun in Sousse, Tunisia.

"Motore, silenzio, action." The scene comes to life. Donkeys, horses, the camel, men and women in Arab dress move up and down the hill in busy procession.

Two black-robed women run breathlessly through the crowd at the foot of an oak scaffold and the boy falls off his donkey.

FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI stamps his feet, blows a gold whistle and the cameras stop.

"There is too much movement. It looks like Wall Street," he says in angry English. "We wait for the clouds for an hour and then that — falls," he complains in Italian.

Zeffirelli is filming "The Life of Jesus" and this is a small but important scene, Mary and Martha coming to find Jesus crucified on Calvary. They are stopped by a Roman soldier. A centurion, Ernest Borgnine, intervenes and lets them through. Mary Magdalen darts from the crowd to join them.

It takes all morning to film the scene but finally everything works and Zeffirelli calls a lunch break.

A DESIGNER and director of opera and theater who made his film reputation with "Romeo and Juliet" nine years ago, Zeffirelli considers the life of Jesus "the greatest story material that ever existed" — and the most mishandled.

"With the possible exception of the film that Julien Duvivier made in Provence in the 1930s, the material has always been used for a cheap, popular fairy tale," he says.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" he dismisses as a "vulgarization."

Zeffirelli has a budget of up to $11 million, some of it from Sir Lew Grade of England's Independent TV and Italy's RAI-TV, and six hours of television time in England, Italy and the United States.

The series is aimed for Easter 1977 and General Motors already has paid $3 million to sponsor it on NBC. There also are plans to release a shortened movie version.

ZEFFIRELLI CHOSE locations in Morocco and Tunisia for their ageless, primitive quality and their people who, although Moslem, "have the same fervor and the same mystic religiousness as the Hebrew people had."

But he wants to film the Passover scene in Jerusalem — "for the faces."

"We are telling a story painted as a giant tapestry about a whole period that revolves around this extraordinary man," Zeffirelli says. "In particular we are focusing on one point which I find of great importance and that is that Jesus was first and foremost a Jew.

"I wish to stress the point that so long as Jesus was living and so long as even his Apostles were living their religion was the Jewish faith.

"IN OTHER WORDS, the drama that I want to tell is the drama of the Jewish people and their long wait for the coming of the Messiah."

Zeffirelli is a compactly built man, almost 52, with fine graying hair and intent blue eyes. His crew says his flashes of anger are mainly for show. They get along with him.

Zeffirelli has cast almost a dozen stars in this production, but most of them, like Borgnine, have small roles. Peter Ustinov is Herod the Great; Christopher Plummer, Herod Antipater; Michael York, John the Baptist; Valentina Cortese, Heriodias; Rod Steiger, Pontius Pilate; Sir Ralph Richardson, Simeon; James Mason, Joseph of Aramathea; Sir Laurence Olivier, Nicodemus; and Claudia Cardinale plays the adulteress.

"Jesus was a very difficult choice," Zeffirelli says. "It is the greatest part ever written: five times Hamlet. Looks are important — you can't have a fat Jesus, and you need a sensitive actor who understands the problems without being stunned by them."

ZEFFIRELLI'S choice was Robert Powell, a 31-year-old Englishman who has starred on English televison, acted in repertory, appeared in Ken Russell's rock musical film "Tommy" and played the composer in Russell's "Mahler."

Zeffirelli is enthusiastic about Powell. "He is tremendous."

Zeffirelli cast another rising English actor, Ian McShane, as Judas, and American James Farentino as Simon Peter. Olivia Hussey, Zeffirelli's Juliet at age 15 in 1967, is the Virgin Mary and Anne Bancroft is Mary Magdalen.

A onetime actor himself, Zeffirelli does not plan to appear in the film aside from a shot of his hands picking up loaves of bread. "I couldn't," he says. "I wouldn't look Jewish enough."

Emcees – TV's smiling Lotharios

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There's a breed of man who sneaks into millions of homes every day, to the delight of American wives whose husbands are at work.

They invade the sanctity of the home from early morning until just before the head of the household returns from a day's toil. Most of these Lotharios remain unknown to the poor husband.

The trespassers are never caught. They break and enter through the television tube.

"They" are the dozen or so game show hosts who beguile, charm and ooze their way into feminine affection by handing out money to contestants and-or matching wits with celebrity panelists.

The electronic enchanters have endless enthusiasm, boundless high spirits and a high tolerance for giggling contestants.

TOM KENNEDY embodies all these magnificent traits, excelling in several. He effervesces daily as emcee of "You Don't Say." It is a tribute to his savoir faire that he also hosts the nighttime "Name That Tune" nugget.

"It's not difficult for me to be cheerful and happy for every show," said Tom, cheerfully enough. "It comes naturally."

It matters not to him that he passes unrecognized by most men while their wives invariably flash him a big, knowing smile — now and then a wink.

"Game show audiences are predominantly female," Tom acknowledged, "but more and more men are watching — especially on holidays or when they are sick.

"ALMOST ALL the letters come from women. Usually they want autographed pictures. But I catch hell if I say or do something unexpected.

"Women don't like change. If my hair gets too long, they complain. If it's too short, they let me know."

One woman quit watching the show when Tom went tieless. She feared his hairy chest would corrupt young girls.

Tom's romance with the nation's women is limited to the tube, a fact of life which clearly pleases him. He is married and the father of four children.

It really requires a lot of discipline to stay out of seven when you have 11 tricks in your own hand and your partner has shown you an ace and a king. But South knew that his partner's ace was in the spade suit and pretty sure that his king would be there also. As a matter of fact, South had almost settled for the ultra-safe five hearts.

If West had opened a club there would have been no play for six the way the cards lay, but West made his normal lead of a diamond and South was able to bring his slam home by means of giving up one trick to gain two.

He won the diamond lead and promptly led a low trump toward dummy's seven and six. East won a surprise trick with his eight, but now South had an entry to dummy to be able to discard his two low clubs on the ace and king of spades.

If you like your sports slightly skeptical, Jim Murray is your kind of columnist.

Don't get us wrong: Jim Murray loves sports and athletes — it's just that he's not overawed. He writes what he sees and thinks. Sometimes it's not complimentary, but it's always on target.

Jim Murray is a realist, someone who sees sports from many angles and doesn't like the smug attitude of an entertainment that takes itself too seriously. That's why Jim Murray is such a penetrating and incisive spectator of the superstar world.

If you like that kind of keen perception and occasional irreverence, you're going to love Jim Murray — every Monday, Wednesday and Friday in The Herald sports section.

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience.

And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?

Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.

Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

'Romeo and Juliet' director films 'The Life of Jesus'

by PEGGY POIK

Mid-week review

A dusty hill outside the city walls. Bedouin tents, a stall selling clay bowls, pumpkins and carrots. A growling camel pulls against his tether. A boy in ragged clothes sits motionless on a donkey.

Clouds glide across the wintry sun in Sousse, Tunisia.

"Motore, silenzio, action." The scene comes to life. Donkeys, horses, the camel, men and women in Arab dress move up and down the hill in busy procession.

Two black-robed women run breathlessly through the crowd at the foot of an oak scaffold and the boy falls off his donkey.

FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI stamps his feet, blows a gold whistle and the cameras stop.

"There is too much movement. It looks like Wall Street," he says in angry English. "We wait for the clouds for an hour and then that — falls," he complains in Italian.

Zeffirelli is filming "The Life of Jesus" and this is a small but important scene, Mary and Martha coming to find Jesus crucified on Calvary. They are stopped by a Roman soldier. A centurion, Ernest Borgnine, intervenes and lets them through. Mary Magdalen darts from the crowd to join them.

It takes all morning to film the scene but finally everything works and Zeffirelli calls a lunch break.

A DESIGNER and director of opera and theater who made his film reputation with "Romeo and Juliet" nine years ago, Zeffirelli considers the life of Jesus "the greatest story material that ever existed" — and the most mishandled.

"With the possible exception of the film that Julien Duvivier made in Provence in the 1930s, the material has always been used for a cheap, popular fairy tale," he says.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" he dismisses as a "vulgarization."

Zeffirelli has a budget of up to $11 million, some of it from Sir Lew Grade of England's Independent TV and Italy's RAI-TV, and six hours of television time in England, Italy and the United States.

The series is aimed for Easter 1977 and General Motors already has paid $3 million to sponsor it on NBC. There also are plans to release a shortened movie version.

ZEFFIRELLI CHOSE locations in Morocco and Tunisia for their ageless, primitive quality and their people who, although Moslem, "have the same fervor and the same mystic religiousness as the Hebrew people had."

But he wants to film the Passover scene in Jerusalem — "for the faces."

"We are telling a story painted as a giant tapestry about a whole period that revolves around this extraordinary man," Zeffirelli says. "In particular we are focusing on one point which I find of great importance and that is that Jesus was first and foremost a Jew.

"I wish to stress the point that so long as Jesus was living and so long as even his Apostles were living their religion was the Jewish faith.

"IN OTHER WORDS, the drama that I want to tell is the drama of the Jewish people and their long wait for the coming of the Messiah."

Zeffirelli is a compactly built man, almost 52, with fine graying hair and intent blue eyes. His crew says his flashes of anger are mainly for show. They get along with him.

Zeffirelli has cast almost a dozen stars in this production, but most of them, like Borgnine, have small roles. Peter Ustinov is Herod the Great; Christopher Plummer, Herod Antipater; Michael York, John the Baptist; Valentina Cortese, Heriodias; Rod Steiger, Pontius Pilate; Sir Ralph Richardson, Simeon; James Mason, Joseph of Aramathea; Sir Laurence Olivier, Nicodemus; and Claudia Cardinale plays the adulteress.

"Jesus was a very difficult choice," Zeffirelli says. "It is the greatest part ever written: five times Hamlet. Looks are important — you can't have a fat Jesus, and you need a sensitive actor who understands the problems without being stunned by them."

ZEFFIRELLI'S choice was Robert Powell, a 31-year-old Englishman who has starred on English televison, acted in repertory, appeared in Ken Russell's rock musical film "Tommy" and played the composer in Russell's "Mahler."

Zeffirelli is enthusiastic about Powell. "He is tremendous."

Zeffirelli cast another rising English actor, Ian McShane, as Judas, and American James Farentino as Simon Peter. Olivia Hussey, Zeffirelli's Juliet at age 15 in 1967, is the Virgin Mary and Anne Bancroft is Mary Magdalen.

A onetime actor himself, Zeffirelli does not plan to appear in the film aside from a shot of his hands picking up loaves of bread. "I couldn't," he says. "I wouldn't look Jewish enough."

If you like your sports slightly skeptical, Jim Murray is your kind of columnist.

Don't get us wrong: Jim Murray loves sports and athletes — it's just that he's not overawed. He writes what he sees and thinks. Sometimes it's not complimentary, but it's always on target.

Jim Murray is a realist, someone who sees sports from many angles and doesn't like the smug attitude of an entertainment that takes itself too seriously. That's why Jim Murray is such a penetrating and incisive spectator of the superstar world.

If you like that kind of keen perception and occasional irreverence, you're going to love Jim Murray — every Monday, Wednesday and Friday in The Herald sports section.

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience.

And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?

Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.

Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

THE SPECTACULAR mountains of the Continental Divide serve as a breathtaking backdrop for the lodge, condominiums, shops and restaurants of Keystone Village. The resort is one of three included in "Ski and Summit," a Colorado winter vacation package.

Colorado skiing

'It's sooo much better...'

Contrary to a belief that seems to persist in the minds of many Midwesterners, you don't have to be an expert to go to Colorado to ski. As a matter of fact, the Rocky Mountains are probably the best place to learn the sport.

For Northwest suburban area skiers who have never ventured further than Wisconsin or Michigan, Colorado will be a surprise. The runs are not more difficult as some tend to think, just longer, smoother and more fun.

Of the three resorts included in Summit County's "Ski the Summit package, Breckenridge isi the best place to learn about the wonders of skiing that famous powder. Take a few lessons here from one of several Norwegian experts such as Olav Pedersen and you'll be able to ski anywhere.

Pedersen, who says he has been skiing for 57 years, has been an instructor at the Breckenridge Ski School since 1964. He has two loves — teaching beginners to adore skiing as much as he does and helping the blind to enjoy a sport they might not otherwise have the chance to try.

Pedersen organized the Summit County "Race for Light" last year that has inspired other skiers and resort owners across the country to develop programs and activities for blind skiers.

Pedersen appears to have infinite patience, coaxing "A" students or beginners who are just learning to stand on skis without falling down, to relax and develop the all-important self-confidence needed to head down the slope for the first time.

"I don't understand why anyone would be afraid to come to Colorado to learn how to ski," Pedersen said. "The snow here is so much better that it actually makes it easier instead of trying to learn on that icy hard stuff in the Midwest. Beginner slopes here aren't steeper, they're just longer and that gives a beginner more time to get the feeling of it before he has to go back up the hill to come down again."

Pedersen said the ski school regularly gets students from all over the country. The majority of them, surprisingly enough, come from Texas, but you're almost as likely to share a chairlift with a fellow Chicagoan, a Hoosier or a salesman from Cleveland.

"Many people who have never skied before come out here and just don't think they'll be able to get down the mountain," Pedersen said. "They really surprise themselves, and for me it's so satisfying. If you can help someone learn to enjoy one of the greatest sports in the world, it's a fantastic feeling.

"I like to teach skiing because I love it. If you love something and you can give it away and see those faces light up — wow, there's nothing like it."

The price of learning to ski at some resorts in Colorado can actually be cheaper than taking lessons at some of the nearby ski areas in Wisconsin and Michigan. At Breckenridge, for example, rates are $5 for one 2-hour group lesson of about seven skiers; $7.50 for two 2-hour group lessons (one in the morning, the other in the afternoon); and $12 per hour for private instruction. Daily lift tickets are $7.50, a price very comparable to the average charge at most Midwest ski areas.

Olav said there's just no good reason not to take up skiing by learning to "schuss the big ones" first.

"I wouldn't discourage anybody from coming to Colorado to learn and not just because I work here," he said. "Look at the facts: we have better snow, longer runs and, even if I do say so myself, better instruction because this is where the best instructors want to be. I've never heard of anybody who came out and went home disappointed."

Triple threat! Copper, Keystone; Breckenridge

by JILL BETTNER

SUMMIT CO., Colo. — Three resorts here in the heart of the incredible Rocky Mountains are cooperating to offer one of the best winter vacation packages around. It's called "Ski the Summit" and there's something in it for everybody.

The package includes the grandeur of these snow-covered majestic mountains, clear blue skies, miles of exhilarating downhill and cross-country trails and three resorts. All are different, perfect for relaxing, enjoying good food and drink plus a variety of nightlife.

The resorts — Breckenridge, Copper Mountain and Keystone — are located within 15 miles of each other. They are about two hours by train or car from Denver.

Under the "Ski the Summit" plan, vacationers can opt for a rustic condominium in the woods at Breckenridge, a slope-side condo at Copper or a luxurious room at the Keystone Lodge and ski all three fantastic mountains on the same lift ticket.

Any ski enthusiast would glory in the thrills of skiing any one of these mountains. To be able to schuss all three — more than 100 miles of all kinds of trails — for less than the cost of skiing just Keystone, for example, is a good deal. The six-day "Ski the Summit" lift ticket costs $50. A skier staying just at Keystone would pay $54.

Sample package rates for two persons, including lodge or condominium accommodations and the interchangeable lift ticket for seven nights, six days, range from $110 to $170 at Breckenridge; $131 to $225 at Copper Mountain and $83 to $185 at Keystone. Each resort also offers a five-night, four-day package. Rates vary according to the type of unit and proximity to restaurants, shops and other facilities.

As the guests of the resort owners and United Airlines for three days last week, our group of travel and ski writers found Breckenridge, Copper Mountain and Keystone three good alternatives to joining the crowds who flock to Aspen and Vail every season.

Each resort has its own personality. All three, like Colorado's glamour spots, also have the same beautiful mountains and a lot of powder.

With more beginner and intermediate runs than either Copper or Keystone, Breckenridge is perhaps the most ideally suited to novice skiers and families. All accommodations are within walking distance of chairlifts at the base of the mountain and the nearby charming old mining town of Breckenridge.

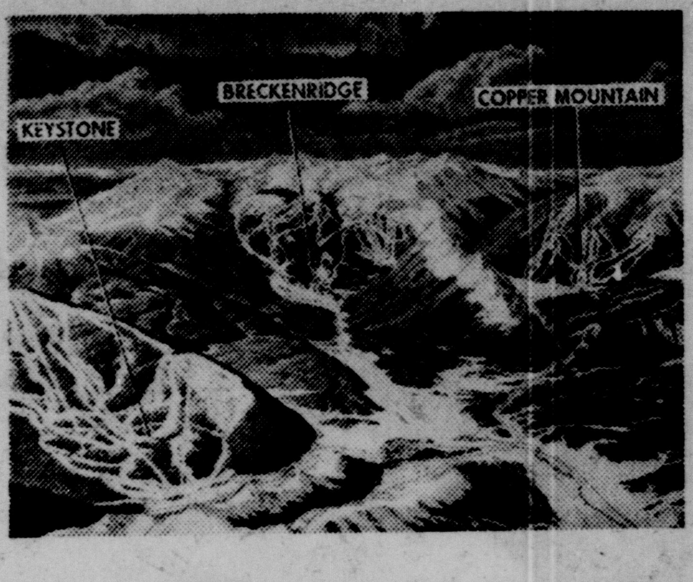
Like something out of the Old West, Breckenridge could be the Hollywood set for a John Wayne movie. than a wide spot in the road, lined with rows of weathered frame buildings and former saloons reminiscent of a bygone era of gunslinging cowboys and dancehall girls.

There are still several good watering holes in town, some with live entertainment. Eleven different ski shops and other stores that sell everything from Indian turquoise jewelry to T-shirts and souvenirs, round out the business district.

The small town has managed to preserve a comfortable, folksy atmosphere despite the influx of tourists. John Weeks, manager of the Breckenridge Ski Shop, is typical of many young people who like it so much they're willing to work for next to nothing just to live here.

"In Colorado, we all have to put up with the snobbish Aspen-Vail syndrome," Weeks said. "I could have gotten a job there if I'd wanted to, but I like it here. People are friendly, the pace is less hectic and you don't see the dollar signs in everybody's eyes."

The atmosphere at Copper Mountain is equally as pleasant. Although this newer resort caters to freestyle and hot dog skiers, it also might appeal to swinging singles and young marrieds.



Entertainment is lively and varied at Copper. Farley's is a great little bar downstairs in the Snowflake building, center of apres ski activities.

There's also The Brothers where you might see a guitar-strumming country-and-western crooner and Senor McBride's, featuring Mexican food, boogie bands, foosball, pool and pinball. There will be even more entertainment next year after the completion of a 254-room hotel.

The hale and hearty can enjoy a dip in one of those little heated outdoor whirlpools after a long day of skiing. The idea is to don a swimsuit, soak in the steamy pool for several minutes and then jump out and roll in the snow — inv-v-v-igorating!

The whirlpool plus saunas for the more timid are just a few steps away from the clusters of beautifully decorated condominiums. The only disadvantage to Copper is that beginning skiers must take a shuttle bus to a spot several miles away to catch chairlifts to the gentle runs. Upper intermediate and expert skiers can get on a lift to the more difficult runs right outside the door of the Snowflake building.

For those who are used to comfort and want to go first class all the way, the Keystone Lodge is the perfect place to ski without roughing it in the least.

It's "haul-your-own" at Breckenridge and Copper, but at Keystone, bellhops appear magically at the door of the luxurious lodge to whisk luggage, skis and other gear to spacious, elegant rooms.

The center of Keystone Village, an interesting array of expensive little specialty shops and restaurants, the lodge offers facilities to suit any guest. There's a heated indoor-outdoor swimming pool, outdoor whirlpool, saunas and cocktail lounge. The Garden House restaurant offers multi-course Continental cuisine and the less expensive Brasserie has delicious melt-in-your-mouth Belgain waffles as the specialty of the house.

Like Copper, the only drawback to Keystone is that skiing is not available outside your door. Not only beginning skiers, but everyone at Keystone must travel about five miles by free shuttle bus to catch the chairlifts and the base of the mountain.

Although playing tennis at 9,000 feet above sea level could be tough on Midwesterners, it's available at Keystone for those who want to try it. The resort offers two indoor courts and 14 outdoor courts at the John Gardiner Tennis Club, just across the street from the lodge.

The key word to describe all three resorts included in the "Ski the Summit" package only can be variety. The broad range of skiing on all levels, the surprisingly diverse accommodations and kinds of apres ski activities make Summit County's winter wonderland the place to get the most mountains for your money.

MIAMI BEACH COULD be the new Las Vegas of Florida if a petition drive to legalize casino gambling is successful. The gambling proposal is part of a plan to boost declining tourism.

Gambling—will it boost Miami Beach's economy?

MIAMI BEACH — The one-time queen of winter resorts is like an aging hooker, hoping a facelift and some new threads will bring back the good old days.

The facelift is the proposed redevelopment of the South Beach area below once-famous Lincoln Road, the site of some of the world's most luxurious hotels in the 1920s and 1930s but now a decaying boarding house district for the elderly poor.

The new threads are proposals to bring legalized gambling casinos to Miami Beach.

A DRIVE TO obtain at least 210,537 petition signatures calling for a vote on a state constitutional amendment to legalize casino gambling was launched last year. Jay Kashuk, a publicist for the campaign, said the latest tally showed 70,000 signatures have been collected. Deadline for the petition drive is July 1.

Kashuk said the drive gained impetus when the Florida Education Assn. United, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, endorsed casino gambling last fall and began distributing petitions to its 35,000 members. Kashuk said the drive got another boost Dec. 9 when the South Florida Hotel and Motel Assn. endorsed it.

The wild speculation in real estate saddled many hotels with such enormous mortgages that room rates were raised to the point they drove away many tourists. And a rush to build condominium apartments displaced many older hotels and siphoned off thousands of former hotel patrons.

Inflation has turned thousands of once comfortably situated retirees among Miami Beach's 87,000 residents into elderly poor.

THE CITY WHICH saw a new resort hotel open each year for nearly three decades hasn't had a new one built for eight years. South Florida's unemployment rate — 12 per cent compared to the national average of eight per cent — has eroded local purchasing power and tax revenues.

Gambling casino backers, harking back to the golden era of illegal but openly operating casinos here in the 1940s, say casinos will bring back the high rollers who have moved on to Caribbean and Bahama island resorts. They estimate casinos will bring "at least as much tax revenue as Florida received from parimutuel gambling — $83 million last year."

But the biggest hurdle the referendum faces is Gov. Reubin Askew, Florid's most popular governor in at least a generation. Askew is opposed to any extension of gambling — especially casino gambling.

The facelift got a boost early in December when Miami Beach got authorization for funding of the first 250 units of housing for the elderly poor, to move them out of the South Beach boarding houses and clear the way for razing the decrepit structures. City officials say the authorization will enable them to clear everything south of 6th street, But that's only small fraction of the area involved and a minute part of the population to be relocated.

SOME OF MIAMI Beach's problems are of its own making, some the work of nature and some the result of the economic climate.

Beach erosion which has drastically narrowed the sand strips along hotel row is the work of natural forces not fully understood. Pollution of the beaches from ocean sewer outfalls continues.

Jet travel made the Caribbean, Bahamas and other winter resorts more accessible, to Miami Beach's detriment.

Foes of casinos say the legal horse, dog, harness and jai alai parimutuel receipts will suffer, organized crime will come to the state and the moral climate will suffer.

And foes of the South Beach redevelopment say it is nothing more than a move by real estate speculators at the expense of the aged poor, who will be left homeless. The city denies this and says it recognizes its obligation to the poor.

Pro-casino forces say organized crime has been a factor in Florida — even without casinos — for the last 50 years. As for the moral climate, they say an area which has the nation's highest venereal disease rate, has become the nation's cocaine smuggling capital, and is one of the nation's centers of illegal bookmaking could hardly suffer further moral decay.

Low-cost flights, minus the frills, urged by CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board last week proposed its most liberal air travel charter rules ever, hoping to give Americans a chance for low-cost international flights without making them buy hotel space or meals in the same package.

The board said its proposal, called the Advance Booking Charter, would be a five-year experiment if approved. The board said it was copying popular plans available to most Europeans and Canadians.

"The ABC passenger would not be required to be a member of any preformed group, and would merely have to purchase his round-trip charter transportation from an independent tour operator or travel agent sufficiently far in advance," a spokesman said.

"THE ABC PROPOSAL would have no requirement that the passenger purchase ground accommodations or any other 'tour package,' and would establish no minimum fare level."

The board said its proposal will be open to public comment through April 5. After that, the CAB said, it will decide whether to put it into effect to run through March 31, 1981.

The CAB said it has tried to make low-cost charter flights available to more Americans, but all of the plans, including the one-stop inclusive tour charter authorized last August, have drawbacks.

The one-stop charter "is not completely suitable for use by vacation travelers who have no need for — or interest in — purchasing anything more than low-cost air transportation," the board said.

It said a Travel Group Charter plan adopted more than two years ago so nonaffiliated charter flights would not have had to buy hotel space failed because too many strings were attached.

THE BOARD SAID under ABC, passengers would buy tickets 60 days in advance for flights to Europe or 30 days ahead for flights to other countries.

All tickets would be round trip. Flights to Europe would have to last at least seven days, but there would be no minimum in other areas.

Tickets would be offered through independent charter operators or travel agents who would purchase blocks of at least 40 seats on an airplane and then sell those seats for whatever price was necessary, the board said.

The board predicted its new proposals would have little or no impact on airline income from scheduled flights because businessmen and many others still would need the flexibility and certainty of travel arrangements offered only by scheduled carriers.

A new reservation system for outdoor lovers, Space Reserve, will enable campers to reserve space at independent campgrounds throughout the country, free of charge.

The service, although not expected to be fully operational until spring, may be used by campers now to make reservations for late winter, early spring vacations.

To use the service, campers dial a toll-free number and ask for a reservation in the area in which he wishes to stay. He is then given a reservation at a campground subscribing to the service. Campground owners will pay a monthly fee to participate in the program.

For more information on Space Reserve, call toll free 800-237-3213.

THE U.S. TRAVEL Service predicts that more than 12 million foreign visitors will pass through major U.S. gateway cities, including Chicago, during the two-year Bicentennial celebration, 1975-76.

The majority of these visitors — about 4.6 million — are expected to come from Mexico.

AFTER 43 YEARS as a major packager of tropical island vacations, Caribbean Holidays, Inc., is celebrating the nation's 200th birthday by offering a series of deluxe tours called "Explore America with Caribbean Holidays."

The tours, which will begin in May and continue through October, will highlight travel opportunities in the American West from San Diego to Seattle and as far east as the Rockies of New Mexico and Colorado.

During the same period, a series of four "American Rail Tours" will be operated on Amtrak trains out of Chicago to the Grand Canyon, Glacier Park, Yellowstone Park and the Great Southwest.

There are eight separate itineraries in the "Explore America" program. They range from three days and two nights at $72.50 per person plus air fare, to 14 days and 13 nights at $795 per person plus air fare. A number of optional itineraries are also available.

Brochures may be obtained by writing to Caribbean Holidays, Inc., 711 Third Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017.

AS OF FEB. 15, all dogs, cats and other pets will be barred from all passenger areas of Amtrak trains.

The only exceptions to the new rule will be seeing-eye guide dogs accompanying blind passengers. Other pets will be accepted in proper containers in baggage cars.

Information on boarding procedures for pets, rates and liability is available from Amtrak station agents and/or baggage clerks.

MIAMI BEACH COULD be the new Las Vegas of Florida if a petition drive to legalize casino gambling is successful. The gambling proposal is part of a plan to boost declining tourism.

Gambling—will it boost Miami Beach's economy?

MIAMI BEACH — The one-time queen of winter resorts is like an aging hooker, hoping a facelift and some new threads will bring back the good old days.

The facelift is the proposed redevelopment of the South Beach area below once-famous Lincoln Road, the site of some of the world's most luxurious hotels in the 1920s and 1930s but now a decaying boarding house district for the elderly poor.

The new threads are proposals to bring legalized gambling casinos to Miami Beach.

A DRIVE TO obtain at least 210,537 petition signatures calling for a vote on a state constitutional amendment to legalize casino gambling was launched last year. Jay Kashuk, a publicist for the campaign, said the latest tally showed 70,000 signatures have been collected. Deadline for the petition drive is July 1.

Kashuk said the drive gained impetus when the Florida Education Assn. United, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, endorsed casino gambling last fall and began distributing petitions to its 35,000 members. Kashuk said the drive got another boost Dec. 9 when the South Florida Hotel and Motel Assn. endorsed it.

The wild speculation in real estate saddled many hotels with such enormous mortgages that room rates were raised to the point they drove away many tourists. And a rush to build condominium apartments displaced many older hotels and siphoned off thousands of former hotel patrons.

Inflation has turned thousands of once comfortably situated retirees among Miami Beach's 87,000 residents into elderly poor.

THE CITY WHICH saw a new resort hotel open each year for nearly three decades hasn't had a new one built for eight years. South Florida's unemployment rate — 12 per cent compared to the national average of eight per cent — has eroded local purchasing power and tax revenues.

Gambling casino backers, harking back to the golden era of illegal but openly operating casinos here in the 1940s, say casinos will bring back the high rollers who have moved on to Caribbean and Bahama island resorts. They estimate casinos will bring "at least as much tax revenue as Florida received from parimutuel gambling — $83 million last year."

But the biggest hurdle the referendum faces is Gov. Reubin Askew, Florid's most popular governor in at least a generation. Askew is opposed to any extension of gambling — especially casino gambling.

The facelift got a boost early in December when Miami Beach got authorization for funding of the first 250 units of housing for the elderly poor, to move them out of the South Beach boarding houses and clear the way for razing the decrepit structures. City officials say the authorization will enable them to clear everything south of 6th street, But that's only small fraction of the area involved and a minute part of the population to be relocated.

SOME OF MIAMI Beach's problems are of its own making, some the work of nature and some the result of the economic climate.

Beach erosion which has drastically narrowed the sand strips along hotel row is the work of natural forces not fully understood. Pollution of the beaches from ocean sewer outfalls continues.

Jet travel made the Caribbean, Bahamas and other winter resorts more accessible, to Miami Beach's detriment.

Foes of casinos say the legal horse, dog, harness and jai alai parimutuel receipts will suffer, organized crime will come to the state and the moral climate will suffer.

And foes of the South Beach redevelopment say it is nothing more than a move by real estate speculators at the expense of the aged poor, who will be left homeless. The city denies this and says it recognizes its obligation to the poor.

Pro-casino forces say organized crime has been a factor in Florida — even without casinos — for the last 50 years. As for the moral climate, they say an area which has the nation's highest venereal disease rate, has become the nation's cocaine smuggling capital, and is one of the nation's centers of illegal bookmaking could hardly suffer further moral decay.

Low-cost flights, minus the frills, urged by CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board last week proposed its most liberal air travel charter rules ever, hoping to give Americans a chance for low-cost international flights without making them buy hotel space or meals in the same package.

The board said its proposal, called the Advance Booking Charter, would be a five-year experiment if approved. The board said it was copying popular plans available to most Europeans and Canadians.

"The ABC passenger would not be required to be a member of any preformed group, and would merely have to purchase his round-trip charter transportation from an independent tour operator or travel agent sufficiently far in advance," a spokesman said.

"THE ABC PROPOSAL would have no requirement that the passenger purchase ground accommodations or any other 'tour package,' and would establish no minimum fare level."

The board said its proposal will be open to public comment through April 5. After that, the CAB said, it will decide whether to put it into effect to run through March 31, 1981.

The CAB said it has tried to make low-cost charter flights available to more Americans, but all of the plans, including the one-stop inclusive tour charter authorized last August, have drawbacks.

The one-stop charter "is not completely suitable for use by vacation travelers who have no need for — or interest in — purchasing anything more than low-cost air transportation," the board said.

It said a Travel Group Charter plan adopted more than two years ago so nonaffiliated charter flights would not have had to buy hotel space failed because too many strings were attached.

THE BOARD SAID under ABC, passengers would buy tickets 60 days in advance for flights to Europe or 30 days ahead for flights to other countries.

All tickets would be round trip. Flights to Europe would have to last at least seven days, but there would be no minimum in other areas.

Tickets would be offered through independent charter operators or travel agents who would purchase blocks of at least 40 seats on an airplane and then sell those seats for whatever price was necessary, the board said.

The board predicted its new proposals would have little or no impact on airline income from scheduled flights because businessmen and many others still would need the flexibility and certainty of travel arrangements offered only by scheduled carriers.

Change filter

Always change the oil filter when replacing the oil if your car is subjected to severe driving conditions such as trailer towing or constant high-speed running.

Many experienced mechanics and fleets change the filter with every oil change to prevent re-circulation of the dirty oil that's caught in an old filter. Keeping oil clean is a major factor in minimizing engine wear.

Plan ahead

Anticipate stops. It is best to plan ahead for all possible traffic conditions. This allows for gradual, rather than abrupt, stops and this smooth driving contributes to better fuel economy.

In addition, gradual braking prolongs the life of brake linings.

GMC Jimmy

- new body design includes a double-walled steel cab with integral drip gutters and internal roll bar

For a unique, classic auto, try the Excalibur

If you want the latest in auto technology built into a classic car — and want to be one of only 100 owners — try the Excalibur.

These hand-built classics list for $21,500 for either the Phaeton (four passenger model shown here) or the Roadster (two passenger).

This year marks the first major design change in five years in America's own limited production classic. The 1976 models, known as the Series III, include new sweeping fenders that meet the body of the car to provide easier cleanability of the stainless pipes that jut from the hood.

THE BACK of the Excalibur is also fully enclosed with a full pan at the rear. The twin sidemounts now sport permanent fiberglass covers in place of canvas covers. Two sets of dual air horns cap off the appearance changes.

On the inside, the new leather interior features hides imported from Scotland. In addition to the full gages to monitor its functions, a new warning light system is incorporated to tell the driver of impending problems including a warning light for the air level in the air compressor that drives the air horns.

Only 100 of the Excaliburs have been built each year since its introduction in 1965. The car is modeled on the 1927 Mercedes-Benz SSK.

The Excalibur is powered by a 454 cu. in. Corvette engine and all important running gear is Corvette. The bumpers, exhaust system and all trim are handcrafted from stainless steel. The body is handmade of fiberglass, and is finished in 14 coats of hand-rubbed lacquer.

INCLUDED IN the price of the car is an all-season air conditioning and heating system, four-speaker AM/FM stereo radio and tape system, four-wheel power disc brakes, four-wheel independent suspension power steering, tilt and telescopic steering wheel, three-speed turbo-hydramatic transmission, Borani racing-type wire wheels fitted on all six wheels including the two sidemounts, two tops (convertible and removable hardtop), air horns, Lucas high speed driving lamps, tonneau cover, padded steering wheel and reclinable, contoured bucket seats.

The Excalibur meets all government emission control requirements and safety standards; the 1976 models, for example, are equipped with retractable 5 m.p.h. bumpers.

The auto is on display at Excalibur Motorcars Ltd., 3160 Skokie Valley Rd, Highland Park.

Signs indicate wiper trouble

Here are five visible or audible indicators that will signal need for attention to your windshield wipers. Clear driving vision is especially important during the bad weather season.

Check for the following signs of malfunctioning:

1. Streaking — arcs of unwiped moisture within wiping area.
2. Hazing — a thin, hard-to-see-through film covering most or all of the wiping area even after the blade has just wiped.
3. Chattering — a "stuttering" motion of the blade accompanied by a "chattering" noise as the blade sweeps across the windshield, with some areas left unwiped.
4. Scalloping — a ragged outer edge in the wiping pattern.
5. Rattling — no visible signs of problems, but the wipe blade assembly sounds as if it is very loose. Predominantly occurs in all-metal construction blades.

Personalize new car with options

Auto manufacturers go to great lengths each year to let the new car buyer tailor his car to personal style and tastes. Any model can be enhanced from a complex list of options.

There are all kinds of trim and paint packages which include special exterior colors and interior improvements like crushed velour seats and lush cut pile carpeting. Most car lines offer the sporty look on some models with different striping, racy engines, spoilers, wheel covers and decals.

Extra insulation, light packages, engine and transmission alternatives, 60/40 split bench seats, special roof treatments and interior materials are all prevalent on the option lists.

IN ADDITION, there are numerous special feature options offered by the manufacturers to make your new car unique and luxurious.

Designers' interiors have been hot options in recent years. In 1976, the Continental Mark IV from Mercury has four new limited edition designer series.

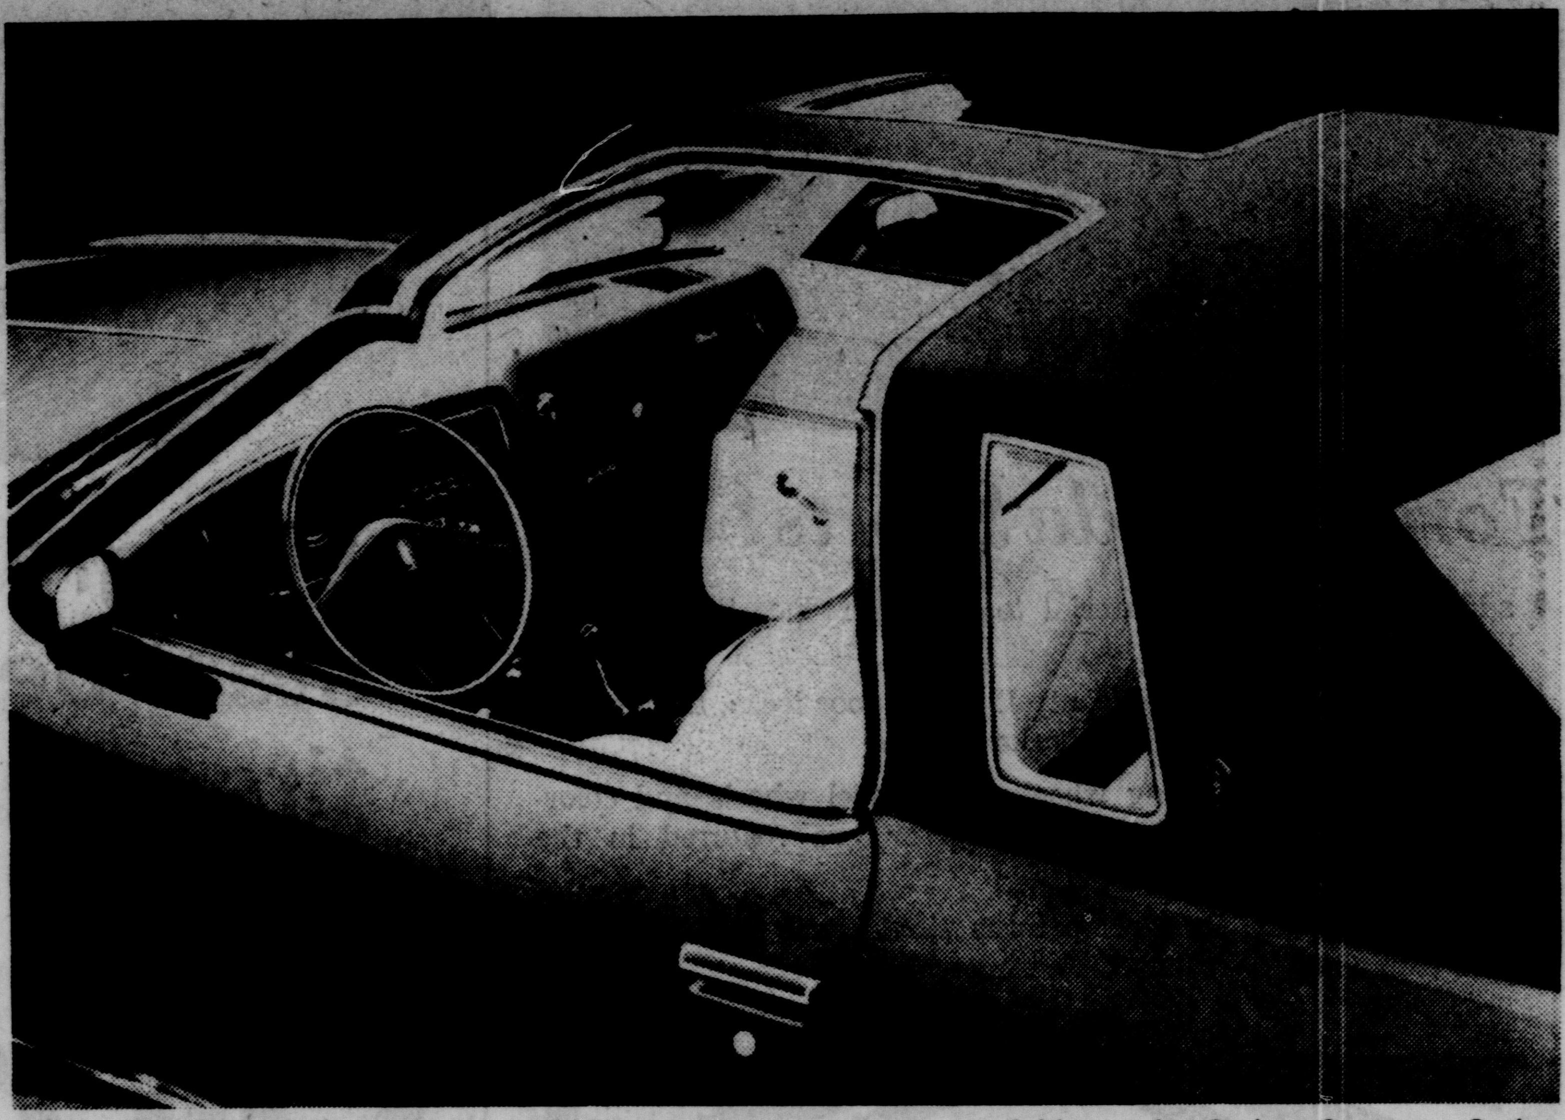
Bill Blass, Cartier, Givenchy and Emilio Pucci have contributed color and trim coordinates. The designer's signature is on the opera windows and on a 22c gold plate in the instrument panel which also carries the owner's name.

Mercury is also touting the return of two-tone paint jobs on some models.

ONE OPTION for the Lincoln Continental is an AM/FM Multiplex "search and scan" radio or an AM/FM Multiplex stereo radio with Quadrasonic 8-track tape player, complete with a separate sound track for each of four speakers in the car.

Oldsmobile offers intermediate and full size model buyers an optional driver-controlled load leveling system which allows the driver to adjust the level of the car by raising the rear end when carrying a heavy load.

Also optional for intermediate and full size Olds is a Twilight Sentinel that automatically turns on the car's lights at dusk and off at dawn when the car is in operation. With the Sentinel the driver can also set his lights to go off after leaving the car, providing a maximum of three minutes' walking time. The car's lights still can be operated by the regular light switch.



THE 1976 OLDS Hurst Hatch roof features two removable tinted glass panels. This convertible-style option is available on the Cutlass Supreme, Cutlass Salon and Cutlass Supreme Brougham coupes.

THIS YEAR the convertible lover will have to set his sights on the Cadillac Eldorado which is the only one still produced in the United States. But Buick and Oldsmobile have created roof options to give owners that open air feeling.

A new removable Hurst Hatch roof is available on three of the Olds Cutlass coupes. Two tinted glass roof panels can be removed and stored in the trunk.

Buick offers four special roof treatments to coincide with the demise of the convertible — the electric sunroof (with or without vinyl roof), a fixed glass version, and the Hurst Hatch.

The fourth treatment is the Astro Roof — a heavily tinted glass sunroof with a sliding shade. With everything closed, it's a regular solid roof. Sliding back the inner shade provides a glass roof and sliding back the glass opens the car to the fresh air.

AS INDUCEMENTS on the Ford Thunderbird, buyers can now purchase an optional 8-track tape player, stereo search radio, power lumbar seat or automatic headlamp dimmer. Plus there are three new color schemes — Creme and Gold, Bordeaux, and Lipstick — all termed Luxury Groups.

Several Ford models can be ordered with a driver lighted visor vanity mirror, engine block heater or a trailer-towing package.

There's a special decor package called St. Regis for the Chrysler New Yorker Brougham and Newport Custom which includes opera windows and padded canope vinyl roof.

Chrysler can also provide a carpeted trunk on the Cordoba or an automatic vehicle weight control system on full size models.

A SECURITY alarm sytem, sunroof and digital clock are current options on the Dodge Monaco, while you can get a carpeted trunk on the Coronet Brougham sedan.

New car owners can add a lighted vanity visor mirror from Chevrolet, too, while the Pontiac Bonneville can be ordered with adjustable brake and accelerator pedals.

The big story from Plymouth for 1976 is the Volare which they are calling big car comfort in a small package. One big innovation on Volare — and the companion Dodge Aspen — is the isolated front suspension system built around transverse torsion bars and an anti-sway bar.

American Motors Corp. is making it easy for drivers to tell when they're speeding — all speedometer numbers above 55 are printed in red.

So you can take your pick of the options in 1976, and really make your new car personalized.

Timber!

A piece of 4x4x12' lumber could come in handy as a wheel chock should you have to change a flat tire. It will fit snugly behind the spare, too.

Plug misfire can kill 'cat'

Misfiring spark plugs have long been known to cause fuel waste and excessive emissions. They can now contribute to another problem — a nonfunctioning catalytic converter.

When plugs misfire, whether due to fouling, ignition system malfunction, or being just plain worn out, heat in the catalytic converters, designed to change unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide into harmless carbon dioxide and water, normally operate at 900 to 1,500 degrees F. (488 to 816 c).

However, should spark plugs misfire severely, the temperature can be raised as high as 2,200 degrees F., (1,200 C), enough to melt the catalytic agents in the converter and render the unit ineffective.

Change filter

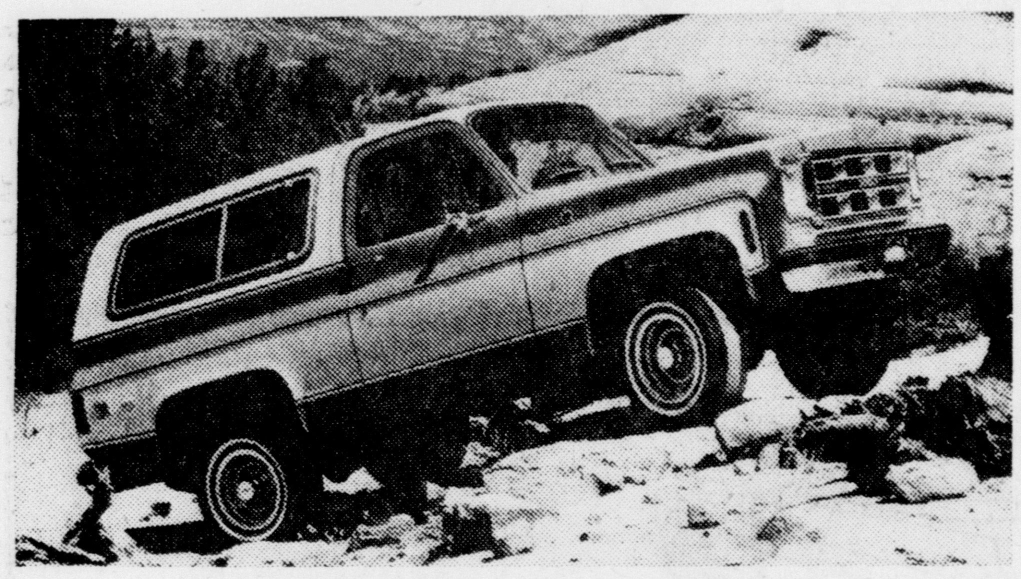
Always change the oil filter when replacing the oil if your car is subjected to severe driving conditions such as trailer towing or constant high-speed running.

Many experienced mechanics and fleets change the filter with every oil change to prevent re-circulation of the dirty oil that's caught in an old filter. Keeping oil clean is a major factor in minimizing engine wear.

Plan ahead

Anticipate stops. It is best to plan ahead for all possible traffic conditions. This allows for gradual, rather than abrupt, stops and this smooth driving contributes to better fuel economy.

In addition, gradual braking prolongs the life of brake linings.



GMC Jimmy

Keep it handy

To solve the "it's never there when you need it" problem, here's a list of items every motorist should keep in his glove compartment.

A flashlight, first aid kit, white cloth to use for emergency signalling, paper towel, "soap-and-towel" packets.

Also, coins taped inside the door for an emergency phone call in case of car trouble.

Signs indicate wiper trouble

Here are five visible or audible indicators that will signal need for attention to your windshield wipers. Clear driving vision is especially important during the bad weather season.

Check for the following signs of malfunctioning:

1. Streaking — arcs of unwiped moisture within wiping area.
2. Hazing — a thin, hard-to-see-through film covering most or all of the wiping area even after the blade has just wiped.
3. Chattering — a "stuttering" motion of the blade accompanied by a "chattering" noise as the blade sweeps across the windshield, with some areas left unwiped.
4. Scalloping — a ragged outer edge in the wiping pattern.
5. Rattling — no visible signs of problems, but the wipe blade assembly sounds as if it is very loose. Perdominantly occurs in all-metal construction blades.

How to save money on gas

Significant savings on the cost of fuel are in the cards for those who will observe some thoroughly tested suggestions.

As a starter, those who may be buying new cars this year will find that the efficiency of motors has been stepped up substantially by the makers.

However, the driving habits of individual motor vehicle owners can have a profound effect on the miles per gallon they manage to get out of the new cars.

Thus, much of the advice that is to be followed by those who own older cars is equally applicable to driving a new car. For example:

Observing the 55 mile speed limit can yield a 20 per cent gain in fuel economy, say the experts, on faster driving.

A steady soft foot on the accelerator also helps to conserve fuel, while Jack Rabbit starts cause wasteful drain on the fuel supply, extra wear on the drive chain and the tires. Avoid them.

Avoid idling — another caution — idling causes wasteful drain on the fuel supply because it gets you nowhere.

If your new car has been driven 10,000 miles, it would be wise to take it in for a tune-up.

When planning a trip, the wisest thing an automobile owner can do is to take his car to a reliable service center for a complete check.

Keep tires properly inflated. Tire pressure checks cost you nothing. Improperly inflated tires put a wasteful fuel drag on your car.

Finally — wise drivers do their driving "on the top of the tank," which means when the gasoline level reaches the half way mark, they fill up. By doing so, they never get caught short of fuel.

High gear is best

Keep both automatic and manual transmissions in the highest gear possible.

With manual transmission, shift into high gear as soon as you can; with an automatic transmission, use a light foot on the accelerator to encourage the transmission to shift into high gear quickly. These actions will save gasoline.

RUSTPROOFING CHECKLIST

Before you spend one cent to protect your new car, follow this checklist to be sure you're buying real rustproof protection...

☐ Deal only with a professional rustproofer. While many car dealers sell so-called rustproofing service, very few qualify as professionals. Every Ziebart Dealer is factory trained.

☐ Check the guarantee. If the rustproofer only guarantees "those areas treated or rustproofed"—watch out! Go see your Ziebart Dealer.

☐ Ask if your make and model car is covered in the rustproofer's specifications. Your Ziebart Dealer has specifications on more than 450 different makes and models to assure coverage of all critical areas on each car he rustproofs.

☐ Be sure the rustproofer has the specialized tools and equipment required for rustproofing. Some rustproofers try to get by with 3 or 4 spray tools. Your Ziebart Dealer has 9 patented spray tools designed specifically to reach body areas that require rustproofing.

☐ Take your new car directly to your Ziebart Dealer and you don't have to worry about rustproof protection. He's the professional rustproofer with the proven ability and experience.

Avoid distractions, stay on road

Most of us like to think we are careful drivers. And, we are, most of the time. Some accidents happen to drivers who are usually quite careful, but who may have their attention distracted — even for just a moment.

Here is a check list of some of the most frequently encountered distractions:

• Reaching for something in the glove compartment while driving. Cure: Have everything likely to be needed out of glove compartment before starting out, or, pull off the road and stop.

• Trying to read a road map while driving. Cure: If driving on unfamiliar territory, first find out exactly where you are from street names, highway signs, or other landmarks. Then pull off the road, find the location on your map, and plot out your next move.

• Trying to put on or take off a coat or jacket while driving. Cure: Stop the car, out of traffic. How many drivers have been caught with one arm in a coat when a traffic signal turns green?

• Trying to locate an object dropped on the car floor. This hazard is especially dangerous to smokers, who are aware of fire dangers from a fallen cigarette, or aware of damage that can be done to car seat or clothing. Cure: Stop the car, in the case of a cigarette, as quickly as safely possible. Never try to solve this problem while the car is moving.

• Having clutter or garbage on the car floor. Cure: Always carry a garbage collector for pop bottles, soft drink cans, or other items that can so easily roll under a pedal.

• A bug or other insect in the vehicle. This one is prevalent in summer. Cure: Either take the bite, or stop the car at the first opportunity. Sometimes, driving with windows open can encourage insect to leave — he's probably just as happy to be out of your car!

• Items on the dash. Business papers that can blow away, pencils, crayons or pens that can disappear down the defroster vents, portable radios or tape players that can fall, and similar items should never be kept on the dash while driving.

• Storage over the sun visor. Once again, the elastic or whatever secures items can break, causing distractions, or your attention can be momentarily taken while trying to retrieve an item from this position. Cure: For both of these last two items is simple. Just don't do it. There are other places where items can be kept safely.

Ladendorf hits 50th year

The Ladendorf dealership in Des Plaines is marking its 50th year as an Oldsmobile dealer since William J. Ladendorf signed his first selling agreement with Olds in May, 1926.

Ladendorf had started an automobile repair business in the early 1920's, located in a garage in the alley just east of Center Street near Ellinwood in downtown Des Plaines. Prior to then he had worked as a mechanic and a truck salesman for Ford and later a Dodge agency, following his service in World War I with an Army truck transportation company in France.

His large and growing clientele urged him to take on a line of automobiles so they could buy and be serviced locally by him. So it was that he began the long Ladendorf association with Oldsmobile in 1926. In only two years he and his wife, Clara, moved the company into new and larger quarters at 1628 Rand Rd., and were nearly wiped out of business shortly thereafter as the "Great Depression" hit, and then the Rand Road - Des Plaines River bridge collapsed, closing the highway past the dealership for two years.

William J. Ladendorf

Many customers found their way to Ladendorf's for sales and servicing via the back roads, however, and as business again prospered, the facilities on Rand were expanded in 1947 and again in 1953, and during the 60's body shop space was rented from the Petterson family at 1568 Park Place.

Meanwhile, Bill Ladendorf's son, Donald R., joined the company in October, 1945, after his service as a pilot with the Army Air Corps during World War II. He became president of Ladendorf Motors, Inc. in January, 1965, upon the death of his father.

Don's son, David W. Ladendorf, joined the company in December, 1969, after earning a business degree from Iowa State University, making the third generation of Ladendorfs in the dealership.

The firm moved to its present location on Rand Road near Central and Mt. Prospect Roads on January 1, 1969, where approximately nine acres of land offer showroom space, service and body shop facilities, large used car lot, car rental and leasing headquarters, and a car wash next door.

Special events marking the Golden Anniversary are being planned around the Ladendorf theme "50 Years Old" by the firm which is Chicagoland's oldest and largest Oldsmobile dealership.

How to save money on gas

Significant savings on the cost of fuel are in the cards for those who will observe some thoroughly tested suggestions.

As a starter, those who may be buying new cars this year will find that the efficiency of motors has been stepped up substantially by the makers.

However, the driving habits of individual motor vehicle owners can have a profound effect on the miles per gallon they manage to get out of the new cars.

Thus, much of the advice that is to be followed by those who own older cars is equally applicable to driving a new car. For example:

Observing the 55 mile speed limit can yield a 20 per cent gain in fuel economy, say the experts, on faster driving.

A steady soft foot on the accelerator also helps to conserve fuel, while Jack Rabbit starts cause wasteful drain on the fuel supply, extra wear on the drive chain and the tires. Avoid them.

Avoid idling — another caution — idling causes wasteful drain on the fuel supply because it gets you nowhere.

If your new car has been driven 10,000 miles, it would be wise to take it in for a tune-up.

When planning a trip, the wisest thing an automobile owner can do is to take his car to a reliable service center for a complete check.

Keep tires properly inflated. Tire pressure checks cost you nothing. Improperly inflated tires put a wasteful fuel drag on your car.

Finally — wise drivers do their driving "on the top of the tank," which means when the gasoline level reaches the half way mark, they fill up. By doing so, they never get caught short of fuel.

High gear is best

Keep both automatic and manual transmissions in the highest gear possible.

With manual transmission, shift into high gear as soon as you can; with an automatic transmission, use a light foot on the accelerator to encourage the transmission to shift into high gear quickly. These actions will save gasoline.

RUSTPROOFING CHECKLIST

Before you spend one cent to protect your new car, follow this checklist to be sure you're buying real rustproof protection...

☐ Deal only with a professional rustproofer. While many car dealers sell so-called rustproofing service, very few qualify as professionals. Every Ziebart Dealer is factory trained.

☐ Check the guarantee. If the rustproofer only guarantees "those areas treated or rustproofed"— watch out! Go see your Ziebart Dealer.

☐ Ask if your make and model car is covered in the rustproofer's specifications. Your Ziebart Dealer has specifications on more than 450 different makes and models to assure coverage of all critical areas on each car he rustproofs.

☐ Be sure the rustproofer has the specialized tools and equipment required for rustproofing. Some rustproofers try to get by with 3 or 4 spray tools. Your Ziebart Dealer has 9 patented spray tools designed specifically to reach body areas that require rustproofing.

☐ Take your new car directly to your Ziebart Dealer and you don't have to worry about rustproof protection. He's the professional rustproofer with the proven ability and experience.

Avoid distractions, stay on road

Most of us like to think we are careful drivers. And, we are, most of the time. Some accidents happen to drivers who are usually quite careful, but who may have their attention distracted — even for just a moment.

Here is a check list of some of the most frequently encountered distractions:

- Reaching for something in the glove compartment while driving. Cure: Have everything likely to be needed out of glove compartment before starting out, or, pull off the road and stop.
- Trying to read a road map while driving. Cure: If driving on unfamiliar territory, first find out exactly where you are from street names, highway signs, or other landmarks. Then pull off the road, find the location on your map, and plot out your next move.
- Trying to put on or take off a coat or jacket while driving. Cure: Stop the car, out of traffic. How many drivers have been caught with one arm in a coat when a traffic signal turns green?
- Trying to locate an object dropped on the car floor. This hazard is especially dangerous to smokers, who are aware of fire dangers from a fallen cigarette, or aware of damage that can be done to car seat or clothing. Cure: Stop the car, in the case of a cigarette, as quickly as safely possible. Never try to solve this problem while the car is moving.
- Having clutter or garbage on the car floor. Cure: Always carry a garbage collector for pop bottles, soft drink cans, or other items that can so easily roll under a pedal.
- A bug or other insect in the vehicle. This one is prevalent in summer. Cure: Either take the bite, or stop the car at the first opportunity. Sometimes, driving with windows open can encourage insect to leave — he's probably just as happy to be out of your car!
- Items on the dash. Business papers that can blow away, pencils, crayons or pens that can disappear down the defroster vents, portable radios or tape players that can fall, and similar items should never be kept on the dash while driving.
- Storage over the sun visor. Once again, the elastic or whatever secures items can break, causing distractions, or your attention can be momentarily taken while trying to retrieve an item from this position. Cure: For both of these last two items is simple. Just don't do it. There are other places where items can be kept safely.

Ladendorf hits 50th year

The Ladendorf dealership in Des Plaines is marking its 50th year as an Oldsmobile dealer since William J. Ladendorf signed his first selling agreement with Olds in May, 1926.

Ladendorf had started an automobile repair business in the early 1920's, located in a garage in the alley just east of Center Street near Ellinwood in downtown Des Plaines. Prior to then he had worked as a mechanic and a truck salesman for Ford and later a Dodge agency, following his service in World War I with an Army truck transportation company in France.

His large and growing clientele urged him to take on a line of automobiles so they could buy and be serviced locally by him. So it was that he began the long Ladendorf association with Oldsmobile in 1926. In only two years he and his wife, Clara, moved the company into new and larger quarters at 1628 Rand Rd., and were nearly wiped out of business shortly thereafter as the "Great Depression" hit, and then the Rand Road - Des Plaines River bridge collapsed, closing the highway past the dealership for two years.

William J. Ladendorf

Many customers found their way to Ladendorf's for sales and servicing via the back roads, however, and as business again prospered, the facilities on Rand were expanded in 1947 and again in 1953, and during the 60's body shop space was rented from the Petterson family at 1568 Park Place.

Meanwhile, Bill Ladendorf's son, Donald R., joined the company in October, 1945, after his service as a pilot with the Army Air Corps during World War II. He became president of Ladendorf Motors, Inc. in January, 1965, upon the death of his father.

Don's son, David W. Ladendorf, joined the company in December, 1969, after earning a business degree from Iowa State University, making the third generation of Ladendorfs in the dealership.

The firm moved to its present location on Rand Road near Central and Mt. Prospect Roads on January 1, 1969, where approximately nine acres of land offer showroom space, service and body shop facilities, large used car lot, car rental and leasing headquarters, and a car wash next door.

Special events marking the Golden Anniversary are being planned around the Ladendorf theme "50 Years Old" by the firm which is Chicagoland's oldest and largest Oldsmobile dealership.

Points to help start cold motor

1. Transmission: To lessen the load on the starter, release manual shift transmissions by depressing the clutch pedal; place automatic transmission in "neutral" before attempting to start the engine.

2. Electrial accessories: Shut off lights, windshield wipers, defrosters, heater, radio, etc., before attempting to start the engine. This will assure maximum voltage available for both the starter motor and the ignition system.

3. Choking: While complete setting of hand choke is obvious, some drivers don't realize that most automatic chokes must be set "on" by depressing the accelerator before starting. (Many cold weather starting failures are due entirely to this oversight.)

4. Pumping the accelerator: An additional one or two pumps on the accelerator pedal will dump raw gasoline into the intake manifold and help get enough vaporized fuel into the cylinders during very cold weather.

5. Throttle setting: When the starter is energized, the accelerator should be about half way down to get enough air rushing through the manifold to pick up the fuel and carry it into the cylinders.

6. Starter motor: Energize the starter at relatively short intervals. Avoid grinding away or you may overheat the starter motor and cause excessive drain on the battery.

7. Shut-off: Place transmission in "neutral" and run engine at fast idle. When switch is off, depress accelerator to "flood" the engine. This will insure a supply of gasoline in the cylinders for the next start.

Let there be light

If you drive an older car, it's increasingly important to check the alignment of your headlights.

As cars get older, they develop sagging springs which can affect aim of the lights. The Borg-Warner Company suggests getting headlights adjusted every six months.

Volkswagen Bus

- air cooled fuel injection power plant is increased from 1.8 to 2.0 liters. Torque is boosted from 90 foot pounds at 4,200 rpm to 101 foot pounds at 3000.
- 94.5 inch wheelbase
- with rear seats removed, the Bus provides 176.5 cubic feet of interior space
- automatic transmission optional
- four-wheel independent suspension using torsion bars that absorb bumps
- wide sliding door that opens in tight quarters and permits convenient curbside loading
- 12 month, 20,000 mile warranty plan

International Scout II "Spirit"

- four-wheel drive
- features a blue denim "safari" convertible top and a red, white and blue exterior color combination as well as a color-keyed roll bar, sport steering wheel and 10-inch tires
- vinyl transmission cover, shift tower, spare tire cover, vinyl cargo and floor mats, folding rear seat and 1/3-2/3 folding front seat

Cold? Thermostat may be culprit

If you have been putting up with a not-so-hot heater in your car, it may be an indication of damage to more than your disposition.

Your car's heater derives its heat from the water that circulates through the cooling system. When that water is too cool to warm your feet, it probably means your engine is cold, too!

The usual cause of overcooling is an incorrect or defective thermostat. The net effect will be felt in your pocketbook as well as in the car on cold days.

Most immediately, you will find your gasoline bills rising over and above the normal cold weather increase when your choke is working overtime. The longer your choke is on, the greater your gas consumption.

Then there is oil dilution, leading to sludge formation. Sound ominous? It is to an engine.

In a cold engine, fuel doesn't vaporize well, tends to seep in liquid form down into the engine oil, instead of burning in the cylinder. This, plus water formed by condensation in the cold engine, reduces the lubricating qualities of the oil.

The final horror of the cold engine is the fouling of spark plugs, which may ensue. Plugs fire poorly, foul rapidly and compound the problem.

Points to help start cold motor

1. Transmission: To lessen the load on the starter, release manual shift transmissions by depressing the clutch pedal; place automatic transmission in "neutral" before attempting to start the engine.

2. Electrial accessories: Shut off lights, windshield wipers, defrosters, heater, radio, etc., before attempting to start the engine. This will assure maximum voltage available for both the starter motor and the ignition system.

3. Choking: While complete setting of hand choke is obvious, some drivers don't realize that most automatic chokes must be set "on" by depressing the accelerator before starting. (Many cold weather starting failures are due entirely to this oversight.)

4. Pumping the accelerator: An additional one or two pumps on the accelerator pedal will dump raw gasoline into the intake manifold and help get enough vaporized fuel into the cylinders during very cold weather.

5. Throttle setting: When the starter is energized, the accelerator should be about half way down to get enough air rushing through the manifold to pick up the fuel and carry it into the cylinders.

6. Starter motor: Energize the starter at relatively short intervals. Avoid grinding away or you may overheat the starter motor and cause excessive drain on the battery.

7. Shut-off: Place transmission in "neutral" and run engine at fast idle. When switch is off, depress accelerator to "flood" the engine. This will insure a supply of gasoline in the cylinders for the next start.

Let there be light

If you drive an older car, it's increasingly important to check the alignment of your headlights.

As cars get older, they develop sagging springs which can affect aim of the lights. The Borg-Warner Company suggests getting headlights adjusted every six months.

International Scout II "Spirit"

- four-wheel drive
- features a blue denim "safari" convertible top and a red, white and blue exterior color combination as well as a color-keyed roll bar, sport steering wheel and 10-inch tires
- vinyl transmission cover, shift tower, spare tire cover, vinyl cargo and floor mats, folding rear seat and 1/3-2/3 folding front seat

Volkswagen Bus

- air cooled fuel injection power plant is increased from 1.8 to 2.0 liters. Torque is boosted from 90 foot pounds at 4,200 rpm to 101 foot pounds at 3000.
- 94.5 inch wheelbase
- with rear seats removed, the Bus provides 176.5 cubic feet of interior space
- automatic transmission optional
- four-wheel independent suspension using torsion bars that absorb bumps
- wide sliding door that opens in tight quarters and permits convenient curbside loading
- 12 month, 20,000 mile warranty plan

Cold? Thermostat may be culprit

If you have been putting up with a not-so-hot heater in your car, it may be an indication of damage to more than your disposition.

Your car's heater derives its heat from the water that circulates through the cooling system. When that water is too cool to warm your feet, it probably means your engine is cold, too!

The usual cause of overcooling is an incorrect or defective thermostat. The net effect will be felt in your pocketbook as well as in the car on cold days.

Most immediately, you will find your gasoline bills rising over and above the normal cold weather increase when your choke is working overtime. The longer your choke is on, the greater your gas consumption.

Then there is oil dilution, leading to sludge formation. Sound ominous? It is to an engine.

In a cold engine, fuel doesn't vaporize well, tends to seep in liquid form down into the engine oil, instead of burning in the cylinder. This, plus water formed by condensation in the cold engine, reduces the lubricating qualities of the oil.

The final horror of the cold engine is the fouling of spark plugs, which may ensue. Plugs fire poorly, foul rapidly and compound the problem.

But very real

Suburban poverty hidden, vague

by KURT BAER

Poverty in the Northwest suburbs. Too often it's anonymous, hidden and barricaded.

Michael Raimondi, new 28-year-old director of the Northwest Opportunity Center, Arlington Heights, is learning how the suburbs camouflage their poor.

"My first impression was probably a lot like everybody else's from the city — that the suburbs are the fulfillment of the American dream," says Raimondi who has been on the new job a month.

"BUT WHEN I accompanied a case worker on the daily rounds I saw the old barns and converted motel rooms and a lot of people living in a very small space."

MICHAEL RAIMONDI

The Northwest Opportunity Center, located at 8 W. College Dr., Arlington Heights, does not have a high visibility as a social service agency. Like so many of the poor people it serves, the Opportunity Center can get lost in the suburbanites' rush for a life where the livin' is easy.

"Our recognition is low, mostly word-of-mouth. We're not located in an area where a lot of people just drive by and even if we were, I wonder if people would understand what we do," Raimondi says.

He and his staff of counselors provide assistance in housing, food, jobs, health, finance and education for low-income and dislocated people. A total of 2,600 families was helped last year.

"WE ARE THE only poverty agency in seven townships, a geographic area that would cover the majority of the City of Chicago," Raimondi says. Low-income residents of Barrington, Elk Grove, Hanover, Maine, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships rely on the center's services.

"We will make ourselves known when we handle every problem that people bring to us. We have to have high credibility in the community so that people really believe in what's going on here."

Raimondi worked five years with the Model Cities program in Chicago and one year with the Illinois Assn. of Community Action Programs before joining the Northwest Opportunity Center in January.

"During my interview for the job I was asked if I thought there was a special problem in the suburbs because people in poverty are living in the midst of a lot of money.

"I SAID that I thought poverty was pretty much the same anywhere. There is always affluence near by to add to the strain of being poor. It is harder to work for a poverty agency in an area like this one because people don't expect it out here," Raimondi says.

Nearly half of the people helped by the Northwest Opportunity Center are Spanish-speaking. "Problems of translation" are common he says. Clients generally need help with more than just one problem. "We almost never deal with one family for just one thing. If it's an unwed mother, for example, she might need help with day care, a job and food."

Raimondi likes to talk about the human side of the Northwest Opportunity Center and its programs. But a big part of his job centers around financing.

The Northwest Opportunity Center operates with a half million dollar budget.

FEDERAL FUNDS administered through the community and Economic Development Assn. of Cook County, and contributions from Northwest suburban townships are the Center's principal sources of money.

In addition, volunteers donate an estimated $30,000 worth of services each year. Another $58,000 in dental and medical aid is contributed to help center clients.

For bookkeeping purposes, the Northwest Opportunity Center "bills" townships on an hourly basis for the services it gives their residents. But in actuality, Raimondi must depend on voluntary contributions from township government.

"They have revenue sharing funds for this purpose and many times we take cases they cannot handle through general assistance.

"BUT WE'RE still really 'out begging' for their support," he says.

This year Raimondi is worried that Wheeling Township will not contribute to the Opportunity Center because of its plans to spend $650,000 to build a new town hall at 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The Northwest Opportunity Center sees more families from Wheeling Township than any other township it serves, Raimondi says, over 600 families last year. "If we don't get a contribution from Wheeling Township, it'll really hurt."

At Feb. 24 special session

Arlington to discuss police rap

sneaky way out.

"I WOULD WELCOME the opportunity to question Mr. Aldrich. I want to know if it's a sour grapes personality clash type letter, or if there is a lot of truth in it," Bettman said.

Aldrich, 50, retired from the Arlington Heights police force in September after 24 years of service.

His letter and report charged that morale in the police department is "at the lowest ebb in 24 years.

"Decisiveness is not encouraged, rather discouraged; innovativeness is downgraded; and divisiveness is encouraged," Aldrich's letter said.

ALDRICH'S TWO-PAGE report criticized the department's procedures for budgeting, record keeping and its reporting system, as well as the lack of direction and fragmentation within the department.

Trustee David Griffin said the letter should only be considered "hearsay," until after Aldrich is questioned.

"We have to be careful not to become prejudicial. To assume these charges are factual would be a grave error," Griffin said.

Trustee Frank Palmatier suggested a special consultant be hired to investigate the department's operations.

"TO HIRE A consultant couldn't help but improve the operations of the police department and give citizens confidence in the effectiveness and able management of the department," he said.

Other trustees objected, saying the board should meet with Aldrich and others in the department first.

"Hiring a consultant is premature. We should first cross-examine Mr. Aldrich," Bettman said. "He made some real strong statements. No one should be allowed to write a letter and not face some questions about it."

Trustee Robert Miller suggested that the matter be reviewed by the police and fire commission so newspapers "won't play it up for a couple of more issues."

No after-school activity buses in Dist. 23

The Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education has rejected a proposal to schedule activity buses for children who remain at school for extra-curricular activities.

The board received a report last week from James Hendren, business manager, outlining the costs of employing one or more activity buses but rejected the idea primarily because of the high cost. Hendren said no state funding was available for such a bus, and the service was not mandated by the state.

The activity bus issue is not finished, however. The board discussed the idea of surveying parents on their paying for the children to ride an activity bus, and the possibilities will continue to be discussed in the district's planning committee.

In addition, the board appropriated $500 to be used by district students to finance an April 10 Bicentennial Concert at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. The board said it was an excellent way for students and the community to commemorate the Bicentennial.

Seminar on planning scheduled Thursday

The Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area League of Women Voters will sponsor a seminar on comprehensive planning Thursday.

The seminar, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., will cover such topics as the politics of planning, social planning and the new Cook County comprehensive plan.

Taking part in the discussion will be Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner; Leah Cummins, Elk Grove Village plan commissioner; Carl Genrich, chairman of the Buffalo Grove plan commission; Carolyn Krause, chairman of the Mount Prospect zoning board; and Madeline Schroeder, Arlington Heights trustee.

The meeting is open to the public. For more information, contact Kay Muller, 392-9355.

Orchesis students to stage annual show

The Buffalo Grove High School orchesis club will present its third annual orchesis show Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the school, 1101 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

"Life in the Streets" will include a number taken from the musical, "A Chorus Line," a modern toe dance, a Bicentennial number choreographed by orchesis seniors, a tap dance and a variety of modern, jazz and ballet numbers. Karen Beauprie, the orchesis faculty sponsor, will dance in several numbers.

Tickets are $1.50 and will be available at the door.

Correction

A story in Saturday's Suburban Digest incorrectly stated that Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 has joined High School Dist. 214 and two other elementary districts in opposing a unit district in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Dist. 15 board members have asked the administration to study the issue and report back to the board in March.

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 and Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 have voted to oppose the unit district. Three other elementary school boards also are studying whether to oppose the move.

False alarms plague fire officials

by United Press International

In subtle ways the clang of the alarm of a firehouse gears the firemen for the emergency ahead. Their metabolism quickens and the adrenalin flows more freely.

Reflexes, honed to a fine edge by years of training and experience, prepare them for the tasks ahead. They are "up" for any emergency.

The engines, sirens howling, hurtle through the streets often against the flow of traffic and in minutes arrive in the area of the "conflagration" indicated by the alarm.

Then the big let down — no fire and nobody at the scene to provide information.

THIS SCENARIO IS enacted hundreds of thousands of times throughout the country each year and the cost to taxpayers is in the millions of dollars.

In New York City alone, there were more than 200,000 malicious fire alarms (MFAs) in 1975. This figure is more than 50 per cent of all alarms turned in last year.

Victor A. Collymore, assistant fire commissioner in New York, said children are the prime offenders.

Collymore said that from a general discussion with youngsters he and others have concluded that young people turn in MFAs as "an outgrowth of boredom, a challenging of the system, to prove through some sort of machismo, that testing the establishment is the manly thing to do."

The highest rate of false alarms, he said "occur in the underprivileged areas of the city populated maily by Hispanics and blacks."

IN CHICAGO, another city where more than half the alarms turned in are false, the fire department has tried various methods of stopping them.

One unsuccessful attempt was the use of telephone box alarms instead of pull alarms. Fire officials thought voice contact with a dispatcher would reduce the incidence of MFAs but found that alarms from those boxes were 98 per cent false.

A current pilot program significantly reducing the number of false alarms in Chicago, is turning the alarm box toward the street instead of the sidewalk. It will then be in view of motorists, patroling police, and residents of the opposite side of the street, thus increasing the visibility level of the perpetrator.

On the West Coast, San Francisco has an exceptionally high rate of false alarms. During fiscal year 1974-75 the city had 15,069 box alarms of which 10,805 were false for a better than 70 per cent ratio.

Lt. James Mahoney of that city's fire department blamed the high incidence on what called "the complete lack of concern and respect for property. It runs through society. It is evidenced in all types of crime, such as purse snatchings where not only is the purse taken but the victim is beaten up."

ST. LOUIS ALSO suffered a greater than 50 per cent ratio of MFAs blamed for the most part on kids and drunks. A spokesman said enforcement of the law in these cases had a low priority because the police had better things to do.

The picture nationwide is not altogether bleak.

In Baltimore, for instance, there was a slight increase in MFAs but the ratio to total alarms was down.

Capt. John Frazier, head of a two-man fire department team that devotes its entire time investigating false alarms, said he attributed the drop to successful prosecutions and strict attention to alarms.

"Our calls are all tape recorded, and you get very few repeat offenders, because we investigate them all. If we can't get them into court, we're very successful in stopping them," he said.

THE CITY experimented briefly last year with a phone-booth type of alarm box that would lock the person making the call inside. The city solicitor, however, ruled the booths unconstitutional.

Pittsburgh also showed a decrease in false fire alarms, the first since 1965. Fire Chief Thomas J. Kennelly said the problem is still grave because for every genuine alarm the fire department received last year they got one false alarm.

He attributed the decline to pushing of preventive programs especially in grade school.

"High school students have already reached the callous age where they're not impressed by firemen or the dangers which can result from false alarms," he said.

Kennelly also said federal summer employment for teenagers gave the youths "something better to do other than improvise amusing incidents like pulling alarms."

WASHINGTON, D.C. reported only a 34 per cent ratio of MFAs. Battalion Chief Joseph R. Jeffrey said the use of voice alarm boxes has cut the false alarm rate "by 60-70 per cent in high incidence areas."

Jeffrey said that "with the voice alarm boxes, they have to talk into them and many people hesitate to do it. It has a psychological effect."

In Dallas, where false alarms run only at about a 10 per cent rate, a fire department spokesman said officials try to catch offenders by running an immediate phone check when a caller reports a fire. The caller is asked the address and number of the phone he is using.

While the caller is still on the line, a call is placed to the number. If the line is busy, fire officials judge it as genuine. If it rings a false alarm is suspected.

IN PHILADELPHIA, Fire Capt. Charles Lewis of the fire marshal's office, said about 17 per cent of all alarms were false, a surprisingly low number for the city ranked fourth in population for the nation.

Capt. Lewis noted that there was a decrease of 627 in the number of false alarms in 1975 compared to 1974. He attributed this to the distribution of pamphlets in the communities where the alarms were pulled, a program begun in 1973.

"In this way possibly we might be handing a brochure to the one who pulled the box," he said.

In Atlanta, fire officials said false alarms were down about 0.7 per cent attributable to rearrangement of some street fireboxes.

"We have put the boxes in better lighted positions so that anybody tampering with them would be more conspicuous," said Communications Chief M. H. Sullivan.

IN BOSTON, fire department spokesman Capt. John Collins, said false alarms ran about 29 per cent. Collins feels the best way to deal with the problem is not to discuss it so much.

"Back in 1972 we had a concentrated drive calling attention to the problem," he said. "We had public announcements over the radio, donated advertising space and had quite a concerted drive to cut down on false alarms.

"That year we had our greatest amount of false alarms — almost 34 per cent. In 1973 we did just the opposite and showed a decrease. Frankly we haven't done much about it lately," he said.

Who turns in false alarms and why do they do it?2

Accurate assessments are difficult because of the low rate of arrests. But there are certain common threads in opinions given by authorities.

AS PREVIOUSLY mentioned, Collymore in New York attributes the bulk of the false alarms to youngsters doing it out of boredom and to demonstrate their "machismo."

In St. Louis, the spokesman said, "Most of the false alarms are turned in by kids who like to see the fire engines come. Adults who turn in false alarms are either drunk or have something wrong with them."

Capt. Collins of Boston said it was done "probably for kicks. The thing goes pretty deep. I could see it once in a while — someone does it for kicks. But it keeps happening and that's pretty deep. Maybe a psychiatrist could tell."

There are many reasons according to Capt. Lewis of Philadelphia.

"They may be pranksters or kids with mental disturbances or someone who wants to see action, who wants to see fire engines come. Another reason is some people just want to be caught," he said.

LEWIS SAID IN many cases the false alarm puller becomes the arsonist.

"We've found in our experience in a large number of cases when we grab someone for setting a fire, a lot of times we had them before for pulling a false alarm. They have graduated from misdemeanor to felony," he said.

Capt. Frazier of Baltimore advanced the theory that a lot of false alarms are the results of neighborhood feuds.

"A lot of people call them in because they want to get even with somebody. Most of the people involved are people who know each other. It's a form of harassment when the fire truck pulls up in front of someone's house."

Frazier said most of those who called in the false alarms were young people between 12 and 16, although the department had false alarms last year from persons aged four to 83.

IN PITTSBURGH, Chief Kennelly said "everybody is doing it. A lot of irresponsible older people who are usually eccentric in some manner or other, drunks. Teen-agers are probably our greatest contributors but we even get false alarms from small children who don't even go to school yet."

Kennelly perhaps holds a record of sorts for false fire alarm perpetrators. He reported a call was received from a preschooler who pulled the alarm by standing on a tricycle seat with a preschool friend holding the bike steady.

Perhaps the confusion was best summed up by communications Chief Sullivan in Atlanta who said "I was a fire investigator for 17 years and I was never able to get any satisfactory answer as to why they did it."

SPANISH MOSS FRAMES Dorothy Johnson (left), Carmen Polk and Peggy Meyer, who are cleaning and polishing a fire truck in a field near the Micanopy firehouse. The all-woman volunteer fire department of 10 members put out fires and run the rescue unit every Monday through Friday during daylight hours in this north Central Florida town.

Female brigade fights fires in Florida

MICANOPY, Fla. (UPI) — "It's very seldom you see a man roaming around this town between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays," said firewoman Danette Smith.

So in Micanopy, a town of about 500 inhabitants in North Central Florida, the women put out the fires and run the rescue unit every Monday through Friday during the daylight hours.

The idea for the all-woman volunteer fire department, which now has 10 members, was adopted two years ago, after fire totally destroyed a house because the men volunteers were working in nearby Gainesville and couldn't get back in time.

"None of us knew how to drive the fire engine," said Mrs. Smith, "and no one realized there was a fire hydrant right in front of the house. All someone had to do was connect a hose to it."

WHEN THE CITY council approved the all-woman fire brigade, all of its original members were firemen's wives.

They had to use the men's coats and boots until the smaller gear ordered for their petite sizes could arrive.

"We slopped around in some of the awfullest stuff," recalled Mrs. Smith. "We still look like a bunch of G.I.'s. But we're not out to be gorgeous."

Since those first months, when the townsfolk openly laughed at them, the women firefighters have obtained special training at a local community college. All except one can drive the five-gear fire truck.

"WHOEVER GETS there first gets it out," said Mrs. Smith. "The one girl who can't drive it doesn't know how to drive a standard shift on a car either."

The firewomen, mostly housewives, but also a postal clerk, a part-time school teacher and a school bus driver, now know how to handle heavy fire hoses and how to strap 35-pound oxygen tanks on their backs, just like any fireman.

Mrs. Smith said there are few fires during the summer, but in the winter the Micanopy Fire Department averages about four or five calls a week, mostly to put out brush fires.

"I've not come in contact with an instance where we've not been able to handle it," she said. "It would be a bigger problem, though, if we had bigger buildings here."

THE TALLEST building in Micanopy is the three-story center of modern arts, and that hasn't caught fire yet.

"There might be some problems if we had to climb ladders with those heavy air tanks," Mrs. Smith said. "A couple of our girls don't weigh but 100 pounds."

The women are alerted to a fire call through an alarm system hooked up between the fire house and five ladies' homes. The others are called by telephone.

At times the firewomen have been caught with their hair in curlers and one woman was sunning herself in a bikini when an alarm went off. She threw her red canvas coat over the bikini and dashed off to the firehouse.

MRS. SMITH said the women's children "automatically go to the door" when they hear an alarm. One lady drops her two small children off with her mother. Mrs. Smith takes her smallest to a nearby babysitter. Most of the other children are in school during the hours the women are on duty.

The idea of having the women put out the daytime fires has spread to other towns in the area. But none is an all-woman contingent like Micanopy's.

But very real

Suburban poverty hidden, vague

by KURT BAER

Poverty in the Northwest suburbs. Too often it's anonymous, hidden and barricaded.

Michael Raimondi, new 28-year-old director of the Northwest Opportunity Center, Arlington Heights, is learning how the suburbs camouflage their poor.

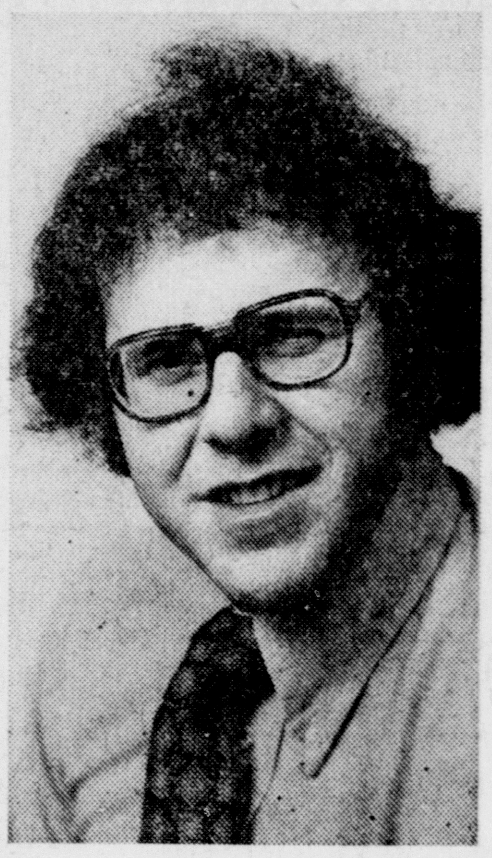
"My first impression was probably a lot like everybody else's from the city — that the suburbs are the fulfillment of the American dream," says Raimondi who has been on the new job a month.

"BUT WHEN I accompanied a case worker on the daily rounds I saw the old barns and converted motel rooms and a lot of people living in a very small space."

The Northwest Opportunity Center, located at 8 W. College Dr., Arlington Heights, does not have a high visibility as a social service agency. Like so many of the poor people it serves, the Opportunity Center can get lost in the suburbanites' rush for a life where the livin' is easy.

"Our recognition is low, mostly word-of-mouth. We're not located in an area where a lot of people just drive by and even if we were, I wonder if people would understand what we do," Raimondi says.

He and his staff of counselors provide assistance in housing, food, jobs, health, finance and education for low-income and dislocated people. A total of 2,600 families was helped last year.



MICHAEL RAIMONDI

"WE ARE THE only poverty agency in seven townships, a geographic area that would cover the majority of the City of Chicago," Raimondi says. Low-income residents of Barrington, Elk Grove, Hanover, Maine, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships rely on the center's services.

"We will make ourselves known when we handle every problem that people bring to us. We have to have high credibility in the community so that people really believe in what's going on here."

Raimondi worked five years with the Model Cities program in Chicago and one year with the Illinois Assn. of Community Action Programs before joining the Northwest Opportunity Center in January.

"During my interview for the job I was asked if I thought there was a special problem in the suburbs because people in poverty are living in the midst of a lot of money.

"I SAID that I thought poverty was pretty much the same anywhere. There is always affluence near by to add to the strain of being poor. It is harder to work for a poverty agency in an area like this one because people don't expect it out here," Raimondi says.

Nearly half of the people helped by the Northwest Opportunity Center are Spanish-speaking. "Problems of translation" are common he says. Clients generally need help with more than just one problem. "We almost never deal with one family for just one thing. If it's an unwed mother, for example, she might need help with day care, a job and food."

Raimondi likes to talk about the human side of the Northwest Opportunity Center and its programs. But a big part of his job centers around financing.

The Northwest Opportunity Center operates with a half million dollar budget.

FEDERAL FUNDS administered through the community and Economic Development Assn. of Cook County, and contributions from Northwest suburban townships are the Center's principal sources of money.

In addition, volunteers donate an estimated $30,000 worth of services each year. Another $58,000 in dental and medical aid is contributed to help center clients.

For bookkeeping purposes, the Northwest Opportunity Center "bills" townships on an hourly basis for the services it gives their residents. But in actuality, Raimondi must depend on voluntary contributions from township government.

"They have revenue sharing funds for this purpose and many times we take cases they cannot handle through general assistance.

"BUT WE'RE still really 'out begging' for their support," he says.

This year Raimondi is worried that Wheeling Township will not contribute to the Opportunity Center because of its plans to spend $650,000 to build a new town hall at 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The Northwest Opportunity Center sees more families from Wheeling Township than any other township it serves, Raimondi says, over 600 families last year. "If we don't get a contribution from Wheeling Township, it'll really hurt."

At Feb. 24 special session

sneaky way out.

"I WOULD WELCOME the opportunity to question Mr. Aldrich. I want to know if it's a sour grapes personality clash type letter, or if there is a lot of truth in it," Bettman said.

Aldrich, 50, retired from the Arlington Heights police force in September after 24 years of service.

His letter and report charged that morale in the police department is "at the lowest ebb in 24 years.

"Decisiveness is not encouraged, rather discouraged; innovativeness is downgraded; and divisiveness is encouraged," Aldrich's letter said.

ALDRICH'S TWO-PAGE report criticized the department's procedures for budgeting, record keeping and its reporting system, as well as the lack of direction and fragmentation within the department.

Trustee David Griffin said the letter should only be considered "hearsay," until after Aldrich is questioned.

"We have to be careful not to become prejudicial. To assume these charges are factual would be a grave error," Griffin said.

Trustee Frank Palmatier suggested a special consultant be hired to investigate the department's operations.

"TO HIRE A consultant couldn't help but improve the operations of the police department and give citizens confidence in the effectiveness and able management of the department," he said.

Other trustees objected, saying the board should meet with Aldrich and others in the department first.

"Hiring a consultant is premature. We should first cross-examine Mr. Aldrich," Bettman said. "He made some real strong statements. No one should be allowed to write a letter and not face some questions about it."

Trustee Robert Miller suggested that the matter be reviewed by the police and fire commission so newspapers "won't play it up for a couple of more issues."

No after-school activity buses in Dist. 23

The Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education has rejected a proposal to schedule activity buses for children who remain at school for extra-curricular activities.

The board received a report last week from James Hendren, business manager, outlining the costs of employing one or more activity buses but rejected the idea primarily because of the high cost. Hendren said no state funding was available for such a bus, and the service was not mandated by the state.

The activity bus issue is not finished, however. The board discussed the idea of surveying parents on their paying for the children to ride an activity bus, and the possibilities will continue to be discussed in the district's planning committee.

In addition, the board appropriated $500 to be used by district students to finance an April 10 Bicentennial Concert at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. The board said it was an excellent way for students and the community to commemorate the Bicentennial.

Seminar on planning scheduled Thursday

The Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area League of Women Voters will sponsor a seminar on comprehensive planning Thursday.

The seminar, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., will cover such topics as the politics of planning, social planning and the new Cook County comprehensive plan.

Taking part in the discussion will be Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner; Leah Cummins, Elk Grove Village plan commissioner; Carl Genrich, chairman of the Buffalo Grove plan commission; Carolyn Krause, chairman of the Mount Prospect zoning board; and Madeline Schroeder, Arlington Heights trustee.

The meeting is open to the public. For more information, contact Kay Muller, 392-9355.

Correction

A story in Saturday's Suburban Digest incorrectly stated that Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 has joined High School Dist. 214 and two other elementary districts in opposing a unit district in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Dist. 15 board members have asked the administration to study the issue and report back to the board in March.

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 and Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 have voted to oppose the unit district. Three other elementary school boards also are studying whether to oppose the move.

No one knows why it's done

False alarms plague fire officials

by United Press International

In subtle ways the clang of the alarm of a firehouse gears the firemen for the emergency ahead. Their metabolism quickens and the adrenalin flows more freely.

Reflexes, honed to a fine edge by years of training and experience, prepare them for the tasks ahead. They are "up" for any emergency.

The engines, sirens howling, hurtle through the streets often against the flow of traffic and in minutes arrive in the area of the "conflagration" indicated by the alarm.

Then the big let down — no fire and nobody at the scene to provide information.

THIS SCENARIO IS enacted hundreds of thousands of times throughout the country each year and the cost to taxpayers is in the millions of dollars.

In New York City alone, there were more than 200,000 malicious fire alarms (MFAs) in 1975. This figure is more than 50 per cent of all alarms turned in last year.

Victor A. Collymore, assistant fire commissioner in New York, said children are the prime offenders.

Collymore said that from a general discussion with youngsters he and others have concluded that young people turn in MFAs as "an outgrowth of boredom, a challenging of the system, to prove through some sort of machismo, that testing the establishment is the manly thing to do."

The highest rate of false alarms, he said "occur in the underprivileged areas of the city populated maily by Hispanics and blacks."

IN CHICAGO, another city where more than half the alarms turned in are false, the fire department has tried various methods of stopping them.

One unsuccessful attempt was the use of telephone box alarms instead of pull alarms. Fire officials thought voice contact with a dispatcher would reduce the incidence of MFAs but found that alarms from those boxes were 98 per cent false.

A current pilot program significantly reducing the number of false alarms in Chicago, is turning the alarm box toward the street instead of the sidewalk. It will then be in view of motorists, patroling police, and residents of the opposite side of the street, thus increasing the visibility level of the perpetrator.

On the West Coast, San Francisco has an exceptionally high rate of false alarms. During fiscal year 1974-75 the city had 15,069 box alarms of which 10,805 were false for a better than 70 per cent ratio.

Lt. James Mahoney of that city's fire department blamed the high incidence on what called "the complete lack of concern and respect for property. It runs through society. It is evidenced in all types of crime, such as purse snatchings where not only is the purse taken but the victim is beaten up."

ST. LOUIS ALSO suffered a greater than 50 per cent ratio of MFAs blamed for the most part on kids and drunks. A spokesman said enforcement of the law in these cases had a low priority because the police had better things to do.

The picture nationwide is not altogether bleak.

In Baltimore, for instance, there was a slight increase in MFAs but the ratio to total alarms was down.

Capt. John Frazier, head of a two-man fire department team that devotes its entire time investigating false alarms, said he attributed the drop to successful prosecutions and strict attention to alarms.

"Our calls are all tape recorded, and you get very few repeat offenders, because we investigate them all. If we can't get them into court, we're very successful in stopping them," he said.

THE CITY experimented briefly last year with a phone-booth type of alarm box that would lock the person making the call inside. The city solicitor, however, ruled the booths unconstitutional.

Pittsburgh also showed a decrease in false fire alarms, the first since 1965. Fire Chief Thomas J. Kennelly said the problem is still grave because for every genuine alarm the fire department received last year they got one false alarm.

He attributed the decline to pushing of preventive programs especially in grade school.

"High school students have already reached the callous age where they're not impressed by firemen or the dangers which can result from false alarms," he said.

Kennelly also said federal summer employment for teenagers gave the youths "something better to do other than improvise amusing incidents like pulling alarms."

WASHINGTON, D.C. reported only a 34 per cent ratio of MFAs. Battalion Chief Joseph R. Jeffrey said the use of voice alarm boxes has cut the false alarm rate "by 60-70 per cent in high incidence areas."

Jeffrey said that "with the voice alarm boxes, they have to talk into them and many people hesitate to do it. It has a psychological effect."

In Dallas, where false alarms run only at about a 10 per cent rate, a fire department spokesman said officials try to catch offenders by running an immediate phone check when a caller reports a fire. The caller is asked the address and number of the phone he is using.

While the caller is still on the line, a call is placed to the number. If the line is busy, fire officials judge it as genuine. If it rings a false alarm is suspected.

IN PHILADELPHIA, Fire Capt. Charles Lewis of the fire marshal's office, said about 17 per cent of all alarms were false, a surprisingly low number for the city ranked fourth in population for the nation.

Capt. Lewis noted that there was a decrease of 627 in the number of false alarms in 1975 compared to 1974. He attributed this to the distribution of pamphlets in the communities where the alarms were pulled, a program begun in 1973.

"In this way possibly we might be handing a brochure to the one who pulled the box," he said.

In Atlanta, fire officials said false alarms were down about 0.7 per cent attributable to rearrangement of some street fireboxes.

"We have put the boxes in better lighted positions so that anybody tampering with them would be more conspicuous," said Communications Chief M. H. Sullivan.

IN BOSTON, fire department spokesman Capt. John Collins, said false alarms ran about 29 per cent. Collins feels the best way to deal with the problem is not to discuss it so much.

"Back in 1972 we had a concentrated drive calling attention to the problem," he said. "We had public announcements over the radio, donated advertising space and had quite a concerted drive to cut down on false alarms.

"That year we had our greatest amount of false alarms — almost 34 per cent. In 1973 we did just the opposite and showed a decrease. Frankly we haven't done much about it lately," he said.

Who turns in false alarms and why do they do it?2

Accurate assessments are difficult because of the low rate of arrests. But there are certain common threads in opinions given by authorities.

AS PREVIOUSLY mentioned, Collymore in New York attributes the bulk of the false alarms to youngsters doing it out of boredom and to demonstrate their "machismo."

In St. Louis, the spokesman said, "Most of the false alarms are turned in by kids who like to see the fire engines come. Adults who turn in false alarms are either drunk or have something wrong with them."

Capt. Collins of Boston said it was done "probably for kicks. The thing goes pretty deep. I could see it once in a while — someone does it for kicks. But it keeps happening and that's pretty deep. Maybe a psychiatrist could tell."

There are many reasons according to Capt. Lewis of Philadelphia.

"They may be pranksters or kids with mental disturbances or someone who wants to see action, who wants to see fire engines come. Another reason is some people just want to be caught," he said.

LEWIS SAID IN many cases the false alarm puller becomes the arsonist.

"We've found in our experience in a large number of cases when we grab someone for setting a fire, a lot of times we had them before for pulling a false alarm. They have graduated from misdemeanor to felony," he said.

Capt. Frazier of Baltimore advanced the theory that a lot of false alarms are the results of neighborhood feuds.

"A lot of people call them in because they want to get even with somebody. Most of the people involved are people who know each other. It's a form of harassment when the fire truck pulls up in front of someone's house."

Frazier said most of those who called in the false alarms were young people between 12 and 16, although the department had false alarms last year from persons aged four to 83.

IN PITTSBURGH, Chief Kennelly said "everybody is doing it. A lot of irresponsible older people who are usually eccentric in some manner or other, drunks. Teen-agers are probably our greatest contributors but we even get false alarms from small children who don't even go to school yet."

Kennelly perhaps holds a record of sorts for false fire alarm perpetrators. He reported a call was received from a preschooler who pulled the alarm by standing on a tricycle seat with a preschool friend holding the bike steady.

Perhaps the confusion was best summed up by communications Chief Sullivan in Atlanta who said "I was a fire investigator for 17 years and I was never able to get any satisfactory answer as to why they did it."

SPANISH MOSS FRAMES Dorothy Johnson (left), Carmen Polk and Peggy Meyer, who are cleaning and polishing a fire truck in a field near the Micanopy firehouse. The all-woman volunteer fire department of 10 members put out fires and run the rescue unit every Monday through Friday during daylight hours in this north Central Florida town.

Female brigade fights fires in Florida

MICANOPY, Fla. (UPI) — "It's very seldom you see a man roaming around this town between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays," said firewoman Danette Smith.

So in Micanopy, a town of about 500 inhabitants in North Central Florida, the women put out the fires and run the rescue unit every Monday through Friday during the daylight hours.

The idea for the all-woman volunteer fire department, which now has 10 members, was adopted two years ago, after fire totally destroyed a house because the men volunteers were working in nearby Gainesville and couldn't get back in time.

"None of us knew how to drive the fire engine," said Mrs. Smith, "and no one realized there was a fire hydrant right in front of the house. All someone had to do was connect a hose to it."

WHEN THE CITY council approved the all-woman fire brigade, all of its original members were firemen's wives.

They had to use the men's coats and boots until the smaller gear ordered for their petite sizes could arrive.

"We slopped around in some of the awfullest stuff," recalled Mrs. Smith. "We still look like a bunch of G.I.'s. But we're not out to be gorgeous."

Since those first months, when the townsfolk openly laughed at them, the women firefighters have obtained special training at a local community college. All except one can drive the five-gear fire truck.

"WHOEVER GETS there first gets it out," said Mrs. Smith. "The one girl who can't drive it doesn't know how to drive a standard shift on a car either."

The firewomen, mostly housewives, but also a postal clerk, a part-time school teacher and a school bus driver, now know how to handle heavy fire hoses and how to strap 35-pound oxygen tanks on their backs, just like any fireman.

Mrs. Smith said there are few fires during the summer, but in the winter the Micanopy Fire Department averages about four or five calls a week, mostly to put out brush fires.

"I've not come in contact with an instance where we've not been able to handle it," she said. "It would be a bigger problem, though, if we had bigger buildings here."

THE TALLEST building in Micanopy is the three-story center of modern arts, and that hasn't caught fire yet.

"There might be some problems if we had to climb ladders with those heavy air tanks," Mrs. Smith said. "A couple of our girls don't weigh but 100 pounds."

The women are alerted to a fire call through an alarm system hooked up between the fire house and five ladies' homes. The others are called by telephone.

At times the firewomen have been caught with their hair in curlers and one woman was sunning herself in a bikini when an alarm went off. She threw her red canvas coat over the bikini and dashed off to the firehouse.

MRS. SMITH said the women's children "automatically go to the door" when they hear an alarm. One lady drops her two small children off with her mother. Mrs. Smith takes her smallest to a nearby babysitter. Most of the other children are in school during the hours the women are on duty.

The idea of having the women put out the daytime fires has spread to other towns in the area. But none is an all-woman contingent like Micanopy's.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS policemen leave a village board meeting after discussion of alleged problems in the department was postponed until a special meeting called for next Tuesday.

At Feb. 24 session

Trustees to hear police complaints

by BILL HILL

The Arlington Heights Village Board will meet in special session Feb. 24 to discuss recent criticism of the police department by former Police Capt. Jack Aldrich.

Aldrich, former Capt. Irvin McDougall and former Trustee Alice Harms will be asked to attend in order to answer questions from board members.

It was not known if all three will be able to attend the meeting. Aldrich is now chief of police in Barrington Hills. McDougall is chief of police in Mendota.

THE SPECIAL meeting was slated Monday night in the wake of Aldrich's letter and two-page report on alleged problems in the police department, which was delivered to the board's finance committee last week by Mrs. Harms.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan criticized Aldrich for having Mrs. Harms, who resigned from the board Jan. 19, deliver the report.

"The manner this came before the board stinks," he said. "It's extraordinary to me that someone would decide to pass a letter to a third party to carry it to the board, and then not even to the full board. With each step in this, sensationalism was the ultimate thought in mind."

Trustee August Bettman said the delivery of the letter was "cowardly and chicken. The least thing he could have done was buy a 13-cent stamp and mail it to the board. This was the

In most countries when the meeting room of government is packed with police, the government is in trouble. In the United States when they come in numbers, it's because they are on the spot.

Police don't like loose ends or continuing sagas, such as the one being played out in the village hall.

Almost half of Arlington Heights' policemen came to see what the village board was going to do about former Capt. Jack Aldrich's accusations of the department.

They were there in uniforms, jeans and combat jackets or casual clothes. There was at least one tape recorder going while the village president said of their former captain's method of operation "It stinks, it's cheap."

THE WIVES WERE there. Their husbands' jobs matter, because if there's a foul-up on the job they could be a widow by the next shift change.

Only one officer spoke. John Saisi simply asked that the matter be resolved quickly.

Chief L. W. Calderwood sat in the last row, silent for the most part, except an occasional whisper to the last captain left on the force, Maurice English.

Calderwood folded his arms and bowed his head. He did not speak out.

Neither did Aldrich. He wasn't there, nor was Alice Harms, the former trustee who delivered his letter.

TRUSTEE AUGUST C. Bettman lashed out at the letter and the way it was delivered.

"It was cowardly, chicken or what ever you want to call it," Bettman said. "It's the sneaky way out."

The cops sat quietly. Court is held in the board room, and they know that there one treads carefully and only when sure.

Weekend maneuverings went unrevealed. Petitions were circulated and emergency meetings had been called. Positions and results would have to wait for better timing, they said.

FOR YEARS Aldrich was on the force and now this. What's behind it? Police and trustees have been asking for a week.

And now they have another week to wait before the special hearing is called to find out what is going on.

Aldrich has remained quiet on the matter. Yes, he has said, that's his signature on the letter and he will attend a special meeting.

The slow motion commotion continues and the dust from the Barrington Hills bombshell isn't going to settle for some time yet to come.

Heffernan for convention delegate

Wheeling GOP endorses Ford

by WANDALYN RICE

The Wheeling Township Republican organization voted to support President Ford for reelection and endorsed a convention delegate candidate pledged to him.

The organization's precinct captains voted 47 to 19 in a preferential vote to support Ford and cast their support by a 57 to 17 margin to William Heffernan, vice chairman of the organization, who is running as a candidate for the GOP national convention pledged to Ford.

Supporters of Ford's March 16 primary opponent Ronald Reagan opposed Heffernan's selection, saying the township organization should also support Eloise Canfield, a member of the organization who is running for alternate delegate on the Reagan slate.

REAGAN BACKERS said the township group should not have endorsed any delegate candidates if it wasn't going to support candidates pledged to both Ford and Reagan.

Last week, the organization's executive committee voted to recommend an endorsement of Heffernan, who is a member of the slate of four delegates and four alternate delegates pledged to Ford.

The endorsement of Heffernan was supported by Republican State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights.

"I'd like to see somebody from Wheeling Township down there at the convention. Bill Heffernan is the kind of guy I'd like to see there," Schlickman said.

Heffernan also was supported by Wheeling Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus, who said, "We've never had a full-fledged delegate from Wheeling Township. I would support Bill whether he was suporting Reagan or Ford."

EDWARD MURNANE, an aide to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th and a Reagan supporter, said he did not oppose Heffernan as an individual but said, "We feel the executive committee has slighted or overlooked Eloise Canfield."

Murnane added, "What we are saying by endorsing Bill Heffernan is that we are saying we are endorsing the Ford ticket. If that's what we want to do, let's be honest about it."

Wheeling Township Assessor Marshall Thoreaux argued against any endorsement by the organization for any delegate candidates. He said, "It occurs to me that if this endorsement (Heffernan) goes through it will be difficult for a precinct captain to morally do anything but support the endorsed candidate."

"I think that endorsing one delegate candidate or more puts the organization in the position of endorsing either the Ford or Reagan candidacy."

An effort to get a vote on an endorsement of Mrs. Canfield failed because her name had not been nominated at least 48 hours before Monday's meeting, a requirement of the organization bylaws.

Dist. 25 offers college credit work

Community residents are now able to earn college credit through workshops offered by the teachers' center in Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

Education workshops are being offered to teachers and residents for credit through the National College of Education, Evanston, as part of a graduate degree in education.

Students must register for the workshops by Monday by filling out a registration card at the teachers' center, Olive School, 303 E. Olive St., Arlington Heights. Tuition is $74 for 28 hours of workshop, equivalent to two credits, and $37 for 15 hours, equivalent to one credit. Applicants who have not previously registered for courses at the National College of Education must send the college an official transcript.

Workshops are now being offered and will be offered throughout the spring as announced in the center's newsletter.

Persons interested in receiving the newsletter or enrolling for workshop credit should contact Suzanne Jacobs, 398-4287.

1975 safest year in auto history: study

On a mileage basis, 1975 was the safest year for motor vehicle travel in U.S. history, the National Safety Council reported.

The council also reported 45,600 traffic fatalities recorded for 1975 made it the safest year in terms of total deaths since 1963.

Preliminary traffic safety statistics for 1975 show the mileage death rate dropped to 3.5 fatalities per 100 million miles traveled. It is the lowest rate the council recorded in the 52 years it has been keeping motor vehicle statistics.

The 1974 mileage death rate was 3.6 fatalities per 100 million miles.

A total of 46,200 traffic deaths were reported in 1974.

Approximately 1.8 million disabling injuries resulted from traffic accidents in 1975, about the same number as recorded in 1974, the council said.

"REDUCED VEHICLE speeds were the single most important factor involved in saving lives," said Vincent Tofany, president of the National Safety Council headquartered in Chicago.

"Other factors that played a lesser part in the fatality reduction were less travel on high-risk rural roads, less night driving, a reduction in the average number of occupants per vehicle and an increase in safety belt usage," he said.

The drop in the death rate is not due to a reduction in driving, Tofany said. U.S. motorists drove an estimated 1,315 billion miles in 1975, 25 billion miles more than in 1974.

The number of vehicles on U.S. highways also increased, the council said. Motor vehicle registrations totaled 139 million in 1975, compared to 134.9 million in 1974.

The total cost of traffic accidents to the nation's economy in 1975 was an estimated $20.8 billion, the council said.

Jaffe pledges law to aid grade schools

State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, says he will introduce to the Illinois General Assembly legislation to help financially troubled elementary school districts. Working recently with three members of the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education — Peggy Golden, Edward Pugliese and Sylvia Lurie — Jaffe said the following ideas for legislation were formulated: equalizing state aid given to elementary schools so high schools don't get the most funds; earmarking state lottery funds for education; giving school districts in the Chicago metropolitan area additional state funds because of the higher cost of living; and raising the state-aid resource equalizer to allow school districts to raise per pupil taxes. Jaffe said he hopes to introduce the legislation this spring.

Arlington to probe police charges

A special meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board will be held next week to investigate charges made by former village police Capt. Jack Aldrich. Village Pres. James T. Ryan Monday night said the special meeting was necessary to remove "a cloud hanging over this fine police department." Aldrich, police chief of Barrington Hills, sent a letter to the village board's finance committee last week delivered by former trustee Alice Harms in which he said the police department is mismanaged and stifles initiative. Ryan said the method in which the letter was delivered " . . . stinks, it's cheap and it's not the way I expect professional law enforcement people to operate." Trustee David Griffin said the special meetings were needed to maintain public confidence in the police department. Trustee August Bettman echoed Ryan's opinion of the delivery of the letter, calling it "cowardly, chicken." Neither Aldrich nor Mrs. Harms attended the meeting.

Des Plaines to cover up nudes

The Des Plaines City Council Monday night passed an ordinance requiring stores in the city to cover-up adult books, magazines, newspapers or other literature that depict nudity. The ordinance was passed as a result of complaints from residents who said the covers of some adult magazines are offensive and should be kept from the view of children. Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, said the cover-up law is not an attempt to censor publications but a regulation of their display.

GOP to back Dist. 54 hopefuls

The Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township will endorse candidates in the April 10 Schaumburg Dist. 54 school board election. Charles Smith, leader of the screening committee, said dissatisfaction with the strength of the teachers' union in school board elections prompted the GOP's decision to endorse. "Right now the most powerful political party in the state of Illinois, the teachers' union, is the only one backing candidates," Smith said. He said candidates will not have to be members of the township GOP group or registered Republicans to receive an endorsement. Arthur Neil, president of the Dist. 54 teachers' union, said his group has "never publically supported" board candidates, but has only campaigned within the union ranks.

Walker to tell plans today

$59 million set for road building

Gov. Daniel Walker will announce plans for a $59 million highway construction program for Chicago and Cook County today.

The program, which will be funded through bonds originally slated for use by the City of Chicago but not used, will include several area projects. A complete list of the projects has not been released.

The program also calls for a large-scale improvement project for Cicero Avenue in Chicago.

THE CICERO AVENUE project may catch the attention of some Chicago City Hall officials because the project calls for the improvement of a street that parallels the route of the controversial Crosstown Expressway.

Mayor Richard J. Daley repeatedly has tried to skirt state officials in an effort to gain approval and federal funds for the Crosstown Expressway, but Walker repeatedly has blocked any move to start construction.

An aide to the governor insisted the Cicero Avenue project "had no connection with the Crosstown controversy."

The massive $1 billion highway plan would link Interstate 57 on Chicago's south side to the Stevenson Expressway. Some city officials have predicted the project could help rejuvenate Midway Airport because the expressway would allow for high-speed travel between Midway and O'Hare International Airport.

WALKER HAS refused to approve the project because of protests from residents who live in the path of the proposed expressway. Walker and his highway officials contend the project is too costly and would force the relocation of too many people.

An official of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation said the funds for the road work have been available since June 1975, but the state has been working on architectural and engineering plans for the project.

The official denied there was any link between the timing of the announcement of the project and the March 16 primary.

Howletts leave Chicago residence

Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett has moved his family from their N. Michigan Avenue apartment to a secret location at the request of the Chicago Police Dept.

Howlett, a Democratic candidate for governor, canceled several campaign appearances Monday to help his wife and family move.

The move came after reports that two men, one of them believed a suspect in a Chicago murder, attempted to gain entrance to his apartment last week.

Aides to Howlett said he canceled several appearances, including an interview with The Herald, so he could aid in the relocation.

They said no new threats have been received against Howlett since the incident last week. Chicago police reportedly have obtained several leads regarding the identify and whereabouts of the two men.

Chicago police have been providing a 24-hour police guard of Howlett's apartment, and an increased contingent of Secretary of State's police has been assigned to accompany Howlett during his campaign appearances.

Chicago police reported the two men posed as Howlett aides last week and asked to pick up his cleaning from a service counter in the lobby of Howlett's apartment building.

An attendant at the counter and other witnesses furnished police a description of the two men. One of the artist's sketches prepared from the descriptions matched that of a man wanted for questioning in connection with a recent south side murder.

Noise, U.S. funds dominate Mikva talk

Questions about aircraft noise and revenue sharing dominated an hour-long question and answer session Sunday between U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Des Plaines residents.

Mikva told about 50 persons that while he supports continuation of the federal revenue sharing programs, renewal of the program may be in jeopardy.

In response to complaints about aircraft noise, Mikva outlined legislation he has introduced to give residents who live in communities around major airports the power to form local boards to prepare noise abatement regulations.

The public meeting in Des Plaines was the seventh the congressman has held since taking office last year.

Reorganization goes to subcommittee

State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, said public hearings on the reorganization of Illinois government now will shift into subcommittee studies on individual agencies.

Totten, a member of the House Republican Task Force on State Reorganization, said the first phase of the study was completed last week in Springfield.

The task force heard from representatives of the Council of State Government and state officials involved with a similar project in Missouri.

Missouri officials said their project has reduced the growth of state spending four per cent in 1974.

Totten noted there has been no significant reorganization of state agencies since 1917.

The event will feature the delegate candidates pledged to Ford in the 12th District.

U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-14th, also will attend the session.

The open house will be from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at 133 W. Prospect Ave., Mount Prospect.

Metropolitan briefs

Walker raps Howlett's funds use

Gov. Daniel Walker Monday charged that Sec. of State Michael Howlett made personal use of $100,000 in campaign contributions he received in 1974.

Although Howlett has said repeatedly the money was used only for campaigns, Walker said he doesn't believe that because Howlett declared the contributions as personal income on his 1974 tax return.

Under federal law, a candidate does not have to declare political contributions as income unless he uses the money for personal items.

Howlett said he paid tax on the $100,000 in contributions anyway because he used it to pay off a personal loan he had taken out in 1972. Although he used the loan proceeds for his campaign, Howlett said, he paid taxes to avoid any controversy.

But Walker said he thinks Howlett's 1974 tax return showing he declared the campaign contributions as income is proof he used it personally.

"Obviously he did because he paid taxes on it," Walker said. "If that is not personal usage I don't know what is."

Walker said Howlett should explain how he used the money, and he said he plans to keep asking the question until the March 16 Democratic gubernatorial primary, in which he and Howlett are competing.

Howlett issued a statement later saying Walker's statement was "another attempt to divert attention from his sorry record as governor."

Independent auditor urged by Larsen

Suburban Cook County Comr. Ronald Larsen has called for the creation of an independent auditor general's office to keep track of Cook County's financial affairs.

Larson, one of six Republicans on the county board, said it is "ridiculous" for the county to audit its own books. The county budget, he said, is prepared by County Board Pres. George Dunne and audited by the county auditor and comptroller, both of whom are appointed by Dunne.

Larsen said the auditor general's office could be patterned after the state office with the same name. The auditor general would be appointed in a bipartisan manner and would work for members of the county board, he said.

Correct forms to aid revenue fund gain

Residents of Wheeling Township can ensure the township will get its fair share of federal revenue-sharing funds by making sure they fill out box "D" on their federal tax returns, Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said recently.

The box asks residents to designate which township they live in and will be used to allocate revenue-sharing funds, Mrs. Kolerus said. In 1975, Wheeling Township received $241,657 from the federal government for revenue sharing.

Wheeling Township includes all the land lying between Wilke Road and the Des Plaines River and Lake-Cook and Central roads.

Plea for lake water by MSD opposed

The Northwest Municipal Conference has gone on record supporting opposition to the Metropolitan Sanitary District's request for additional water from Lake Michigan.

The MSD's request for additional Lake Michigan water is being opposed by DAMP, an organization of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, which has been studying the possibility of getting water from the lake for suburban use.

The MSD wants additional allocations of lake water for use in sewage treatment plants. DAMP officials have argued that use of lake water for domestic consumption should be given priority over the MSD.

Lake water allocation hearings are being held by state officials to determine how to divide up the water the state is allowed to take from the lake.

The Northwest Municipal Conference is made up of Northwest suburban communities.

Strike abandoned at Cook County jail

Union leaders representing some 500 of the 700 correctional officers at the Cook County Jail decided Monday to temporarily abandon plans to strike the institution following a meeting with County Board Chairman George Dunne.

A spokesman for the sheriff's police said Dunne apparently promised leaders of the Combined Counties Police Assn. union members would receive a pay increase next year.

TIGHT SECURITY surrounds Patricia Hearst at apartment building where she testified she was held in a closet by her kidnapers. Patty, the jury in her bank robbery trial, attorneys and U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter also toured another home where Patty was held by the SLA.

Jury tours hideouts, Patty near collapse

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, seemingly terrified and near collapse joined the jury in her bank robbery trial Monday for a tour of two hideouts where she had been held captive in closets by Symbionese Liberation Army terrorists.

The newspaper heiress, under heavy guard of about 25 police and U.S. marshals, had to be half carried at one point as she made her first return visit to the two hideaways where she was concealed from authorities by the SLA after her kidnaping two years ago.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter used the Washington's Birthday court holiday for the defense-requested tour of a house and an apartment where she said she had been hidden. Miss Hearst testified Friday that she was held in closets, blindfolded, threatened and sexually molested.

The security was particularly heavy because of bomb threats from the underground New New World Liberation Front which last week claimed responsibility for a bombing at the Hearst San Simeon estate which caused $1 million damage.

Accompanied by the jury, attorneys, the judge and the swarm of guards, she first visited a tiny third-floor apartment about a mile from the courtroom.

As she left the building, which she said had been the second hideout, her face was almost deathly white, her expression was terrified, and she had to be aided to a car by two marshals with their arms on her shoulders and around her waist.

Miss Hearst was scheduled to continue her testimony when the trial resumes Tuesday. Her attorney said she probably would undergo two more days of direct examination, and he said he probably would call about six more witnesses after she finishes telling her story. The defense expects to rest its case in about a week.

The apartment hideout was discovered by the FBI May 2, 1974, less than a week after the SLA left it and two weeks after the bank robbery. The walls of the apartment, now repainted, then were scrawled with revolutionary slogans. SLA propaganda leaflets lay almost everywhere. The bathtub was filled with acid that apparently had been used to destroy papers and documents.

"When she first went into the apartment closet (where she had said she was kept prisoner), she sobbed and cried," defense attorney Albert Johnson said. "She was reluctant to go. At one point I had to hold her up — thought she was going to faint."

Miss Hearst spent about 35 minutes in the four-story apartment building and another 25 minutes in the house in Daly City, immediately south of San Francisco, where she was first taken after her kidnaping.

The seven women and five men on the jury were shown each of the apartments.

"Each of the jurors was asked to go into the closets and inspect their dimensions," Johnson said. However, U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter turned down a request that each juror individually sit inside the closets.

At the Golden Gate apartment building, someone had left printed circulars in advance of the jury's arrival. The circulars had a picture of Miss Hearst carrying a carbine during the bank robbery, a poem criticizing her for turning her back on the SLA, and signed "Zakariyyiah Babeebullah Shabazz." Authorities were unable to say where the circular came from.

Slayings, kidnapings bring armored cars into Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A street slaying and a wave of kidnapings brought security force armored cars rumbling into uptown Beirut Monday in an effort to save a 27-day-old cease-fire from further deterioration.

Police reported between 30 and 50 persons kidnaped from the Wadie Abu Jamil quarter and the adjacent hotel district of Kantari in tension that resulted from the gangland-style street slaying of a Kurdish municipal worker earlier in the day.

Although still known as the Jewish quarter, the Wadie Abu Jamil area is mainly inhabited by Kurds and connects Moslem-controlled uptown Beirut with the Christian-held downtown sector.

Kurdish militants blamed Christian rightists for the slaying and retaliated by kidnaping a number of Christians, police said. They demanded the arrest of the killers.

The abductions touched off counter-kidnapings and scattered gunfire and by evening security forces in armored cars and personnel carriers had cordoned off the area to prevent the incidents from spreading.

The joint Lebanese-Palestinian-Syrian military committee supervising the cease-fire was negotiating with rival factions to secure the release of the prisoners, police sources said.

The dead Kurd was an employe of Beirut's water department who was machinegunned to death by three gunman in khaki militia uniforms from a speeding car, witnesses said.

President Suleiman Franjieh met Premier Rashid Karami and financial experts in a two-hour session devoted to economic, social and reconstruction items.

Karami lunched with former Premier Saeb Salam who was criticized the political reforms announced at the weekend by Franjieh which gave Moslems equal representation with Christians in parliament for the first time since independence 33 years ago.

Salam, a Moslem, criticized the decision to continue the tradition of electing Lebanon's president, prime minister and house speaker on religious lines.

He won support from the right-wing Christian leader Pierre Gemayel, head of the Phalangist Party. Gemayel said the reforms had "consecrated confessionalism and set us back hundreds of years.

Another Christian leader, Raymond Edde of the National Bloc Party, has also decried the distribution of the leading state posts by religion and attacked Franjieh personally for his role in the civil war in which at least 12,000 persons were killed and more than 25,000 wounded.

Syria's Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, chief architect of the peace agreement between warring Lebanese factions, consulted leftist leaders critical of new political reforms because the measures had not met all their demands.

The most influential leftist leader, Kamal Jumblatt of the Progressive Socialist Party, has yet to make his pronouncement on the reforms.

Tourist bus crashes in Sweden; 15 die

A chartered tourist bus carrying 44 persons, most of them elderly, burst into flames and exploded near the central Swedish city of Joenkoeping Monday night, killing 15 passengers. Police said the victims were burned to death in the flaming wreckage and it was hours before rescue workers were able to get inside the smoldering bus to count the bodies. They said another 27 persons were injured, most of them suffering from smoke inhalation and shock. A police officials said it appeared that the rear emergency exit door was blocked either by bodies or by luggage.

Chicago-bound jet aborts Denver takeoff

A flaming engine forced a Continental Airlines pilot to abort a takeoff at Stapleton International Airport in Denver Monday, airport officials said. One person was injured. All 115 passengers and seven crew members aboard the Chicago-bound Boeing 727, flight 88, were evacuated through two inflatable tubes and the fire was extinguished by the Stapleton Fire Department.

Ford challenges principals: end alienation

President Ford Monday, in an address for the National Association of Secondary School Principals in Washington, challenged the group to help end "alarming trends" in alienation among young people by finding new ways to teach students about law and government. Ford also said he will soon send to Congress proposals to consolidate federal aid to education and to give state and local authorities greater flexibility in its use.

Also during the day Ford, at a House briefing, urged Congress to reconstitute and keep alive the Federal Election Commission as "the chief instrument for achieving clean federal elections" and restoring public confidence in the nation's political processes. The FEC, which has certified more than $7.1 million in federal campaign funds for 12 presidential candidates, will expire in two weeks unless Congress passes legislation meeting Supreme Court objections.

School bus hit by truck in Florida; 4 die

LAKE PLACID, Fla. (UPI) — A school bus loaded with children was struck by a tractor-trailer truck in dense fog only a block away from school Monday morning. Four persons were killed and more than 50 youngsters injured.

The bus driver was killed along with three students in the crash, which sheared off the front end of the 57-passenger bus.

The dead were identified as the driver, Charles Irwin, and students Mark Holmes, Robbie Reynolds, and Avery Cox.

Fifty-five persons were taken to hospitals at Sebring, Avon Park and Winter Haven. Some of the more seriously injured were still in surgery late Monday.

Sebring News photographer Leland Sellers said hospital corridors were jammed with parents looking for their children and attempting to identify the dead.

Quick Angola Red recognition seen

LONDON (UPI) — The swift victory of Soviet and Cuban-backed forces in Angola has alarmed Western and African capitals. Responsible leaders say the victors may turn next against neighboring Zaire, Zambia and Rhodesia.

The frightened leaders were talking of a "blood bath" and a "war of liberation" in the remainder of white governed southern Africa-South Africa, South West Africa and Rhodesia.

Quick recognition of the Communist-backed regime of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola by most remaining African countries as well as by Britain, France and most of Western Europe is considered likely.

President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, widely regarded as a moderate in African politics, has expressed the mounting alarm.

This weekend he predicted "a bloodbath" in Rhodesia.

President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, another moderate, said the only alternative to a quick negotiated settlement in Rhodesia will be armed struggle.

"Should peaceful negotiations fail, there will be no alternative but to fight," he said.

Zaire's Foreign Minister Karl Ibond Nguza warned in London last week, "The MPLA may be tempted to invade us. We have reason to believe our own security is deeply involved."

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan said last Friday that Cuban intervention will have repercussions "that will be felt not only throughout Africa but the rest of the world."

David Ennals, British Foreign Office Minister of State, warned Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith he now has "a last chance to avert an armed struggle."

Diplomatic and press reports from South Africa said the government of Prime Minister John Vorster is giving close attention to the possibility of cutting its losses, pulling its forces out of southern Angola and recognizing the MPLA as the legitimate authority in that country.

All this indicates deepening concern but also general agreement in Western Capitals that there is little they can do to stem the Communist-backed tide now sweeping across southern Africa.

A worried British government has been holding a series of consultations with representatives of friendly African countries like Zaire and Zambia.

It is generally accepted in Western Europe that the United States now is unlikely to intervene after Congress refused President Ford authority to ship more aid to the anti-Communist UNITA and National Liberation Front in Angola before their collapse.

The London Daily Mail said gloomily in an editorial Monday, "As the dust begins to clear, we see more harshly etched than ever before the picture of a besieged and ultimately embattled white minority affronting historical destiny in a black continent."

"British and Western diplomacy can have only one objective: to minimize the killing — whether of blacks or whites," it said.

Bunnies bounce back into profits

The bunny business is flourishing again for Playboy Enterprises Inc.

The company has recorded two consecutive profitable quarters, said Playboy spokesman Lee Gottlieb.

Part of the credit, he said, belongs to another company publication, Oui magazine, which has begun making money after losing more than $1 million in a one-year period ending June 1974.

Gottlieb said Playboy clubs and hotels show good profits because of the big earnings turned in by British clubs, which permit gambling.

THE COMPANY recently removed its "members only" requirement at its clubs in an effort to attract more customers.

Cutbacks in motion picture production and recordings also were cited by Gottlieb. He said there are no films now in production.

Gottlieb said Playboy's production of movies for television have been highly profitable, as has been the Playboy Book Club.

Palyboy's belt-tightening moves 15 months ago, when the firm was losing money, included an announcement that its custom-fitted, all-black DC9 jet, "the Big Bunny," and the Playboy mansion in Chicago were on the block.

A federal narcotics investigation of Playboy magazine publisher Hugh Hefner at a time when the company was reporting operational losses also tarnished the company image.

Hefner overruled his Chicago officers on the mansion and decided to keep the haunt where he frequently entertained visiting dignitaries, friends and the night-life elite. The jet, with a price tag of $6.4 million, remains unsold.

Hefner still stays at the mansion when he visits Chicago, but its staff has been cut to maintenance-only chores. The publisher moved his offices to Los Angeles about two years ago.

Support sought for Alaskan pipeline bill

The Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. is calling for support of a bill, H.R. 11273, to allow construction of a proposed natural gas pipeline from northern Alaska and the Mackenzie Delta area of Canada to U.S. markets.

The Arctic Gas Project spent more than $110 million for environmental and engineering studies for the project, which would supply fuel to Illinois and other states. Among the participants in the gas project is Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, a subsidiary of Peoples Gas Co. in Chicago. The firm is a supplier to Northern Illinois Gas Co.

Known as the Alaskan Natural Gas Pipeline Authorization Act of 1976, H.R. 11273 would approve speedy construction of the proposed pipeline.

Consumers in the U.S. and Canada will benefit from the construction project, the company said. Some 24 trillion cubic feet of proved recoverable reserves of natural gas are in the Prudhoe Bay area on the North Slope of Alaska.

The Illinois Environmental Council and the Illinois Dept. of Conservation are among objectors to the project route through state conservation areas.

New logic, science courses set

Dist. 23 OKs summer classes

A course in thinking skills was one of 29 courses approved recently by Prospect Heights Dist. 23 for this year's summer school program.

The board also is considering the approval of a one-week camping program for fifth, sixth and seventh graders as part of summer school.

Summer school coordinator Phillip Cornwell said two new courses will be offered ths summer. Seeing Is Believing, a science course with student-centered rather than book-centered activities, and Thinking Skills, a logic-building course. Each course will be offered to students presently in Grades 5 to 7.

PHOTOGRAPHY, a course offered last year, will not be offered this year because of the difficulty of finding a teacher and the students' lack of interest.

Home Arts and Woodworking will be open to boys and girls this year. Basketball Clinic will also be offered to both sexes, but the girls' clinic will be separate from the one for boys.

Other courses offered will be Kindergarten Readiness, Art, Arts and Crafts, Body Conditioning, Cadet and Concert Band, Career Awareness, Drama Workshop, First Grade Readiness, Gymnastics, three levels of Language Arts and Mathematics, Little People's Theater, Marching Kadettes, Physical Education and Typeing.

Summer school will begin June 22 and run through July 16. Fees are $5 for books.

The board will decide at its March 10 meeting whether to offer a one-week camp for children in grades five to seven. Tentative plans call for the camp to be held at Augustana or George Williams Camp in Lake Geneva.

ASSISTANT SUPT. Jerry McGovern said costs will have to be checked further, but he estimated the approximate cost of the camp would be $60 per child.

In other action, the board decided to send notes home with Dist. 23 students asking for parent reaction to three proposed calendars for the 1976-77 school year.

Because Labor Day is almost a week later than usual this year, the board is trying to decide whether school should still begin on the traditional day after Labor Day. Supt. Edward Grodsky said he favored the traditional starting point to ensure the maximum number of students entered school on the first day.

The board will approve a calendar at its March 10 meeting.

Solutions sought for area flooding

Solutions to flooding problems in the Ridge Park subdivision caused by Arlington Park Race Track are being developed by Stanley Consultants.

The report will be reviewed Monday by the citizens action committee against flooding.

Water is draining from the northeast section of the race track property and flowing through a culvert to the north side of the Chicago & North Western Rwy. tracks, said Frank Palmatier, chairman of the committee.

"The culvert under the tracks has to be closed off. Another interceptor is needed to keep this water from getting to the Ridge Park area, (east of Wilke and north of Euclid)" Palmatier said.

One alternative suggested at the committee's meeting last week was to construct a storm sewer along Vine Street to carry the water to the main outfall sewer for the proposed Ridge Park-Sherwood project.

"It may be necessary to increase the size of the outfall sewer, and also the downstream sewers in the second Wilke-Kirchoff project, to accommodate the Arlington race track waters," Palmatier said.

Palmatier also suggested the possibility of constructing a detention basin on the vacant property at the west end of Vine Street to reduce the cost of the Vine Street sewer.

Stanley Consultants are expected to submit a revised outline for the combined Ridge Park-Sherwood and second Wilke-Kirchoff flood control projects.

Quincy Pk., homeowners to meet on incorporation

Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. officials tonight will meet with residents of the Quincy Park quadrominiums to discuss the impact of the community's recent incorporation.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Stevenson Elementary School, 1375 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Many Quincy Park residents were opposed to the formation of the City of Prospect Heights, which was approved by a 2-to-1 margin in a referendum Jan. 31.

Residents of Quincy Park and apartment complexes on Willow Road just east of Wolf Road have said they believe they're alienated from the rest of the community, which is comprised of mostly homeowners. They also have complained about not being sufficiently informed of incorporation proceedings.

"The most important thing we are trying to do right now is to unify the new community so that we can all work together toward the formation of a city government that works," said Richard Wolf, PHIA president.

PHIA plans to meet with other residents who also opposed the incorporation "to convince them that they should stay within the city and that we should all work together," Wolf said.

Wolf said a meeting date has not yet been set with George Priester, owner of Pal-Waukee Airport, who says he will seek disannexation of the airport from the city.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Cancer of prostate big killer in men

On a routine examination my doctor found a hardening of my prostate. He sent me to a specialist for a biopsy that turned out to be malignant. He prescribed one gram of diethylstilbesterol for the rest of my life and informed me I may have to have my testicles removed.

I asked him what my life expectancy was and he said 20 years and let him worry about it. I asked my family doctor and he said one to five years.

Any information you would care to give me would be greatly appreciated. I already have enlarged breasts.

Opinions differ on the best treatment for cancer of the prostate so don't be surprised that what I tell you may vary from what you have heard.

There are about 25,000 new cases of cancer of the prostate in American men each year and 17,000 deaths. It is one of the most important cancers in men. About half of these can be identified by a simple rectal examination. That is one of several reasons why such an examination should be part of every physical.

Many men have clinically insignificant forms of cancer of the prostate. A small nest of relatively inactive cancer cells may be found inside the prostate. If a man lives long enough, he will likely have this even though it may never cause him any trouble at all.

What to do about cancer of the prostate depends entirely on how far it has progressed. When the cancer is confined to the prostate as a small nest of cells or even when it is large enough to be felt on rectal examination but is still confined to the gland itself, efforts should be made for a complete cure of the cancer. How is this done? By surgerv on the gland or radiation or both. Hormone therapy or chemotherapy has no place in the treatment of these localized cancers. That means no female hormones and no castration, but rather total removal or destruction of the actual localized cancer.

IF THE CANCER has spread outside the gland to involve the pelvic area or to distant boney sites, then you can consider the use of hormones or castration. The idea is to eliminate the influence of the male hormone which is essential for the maintenance of the cancer cells regardless of where they are located. Sometimes such therapy is successful in reducing spots of bone spread, and particularly in relieving pain. There is no real evidence though that the use of female hormones or castration or the combination actually prolong life.

The United States Veterans Administration Co-operative Urological Research Group reported that deaths from heart and vascular disease actually increased 75 per cent in men taking estrogen for cancer of the prostate, which makes this therapy even more questionable in the minds of many authorities. This being the case, there seems little justification for using either estrogen or performing castration except to provide symptomatic relief.

Obviously, I can't say anything about what your life expectancy is without knowing if your disease had already spread beyond the prostate. Those who want more information on the prostate, including prostate infections and enlargement, can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Enclose a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Several alternatives if food is scorched

Dear Dorothy: That was a good piece on how to help dishes that are oversalted. Now maybe you can help those of us who are unlucky enough to scorch food. Thanks. — Nancy Marion

Often being forgetful, I'm one of you. The instant you realize food has become scorched, you must turn out the unscorched portion into another pan, adding more liquid, if necessary, then finish cooking. People get innovative in situations like this. One reader passed on a hint — use a pinch of mustard. Another saved scorched Stroganoff by adding half a cup of sherry. One hint that has come repeatedly is to put a wooden clothespin (the type without any metal on it) into the portion you are seeking to save. But remember that when a dish is more than just scorched, forget the whole thing and start fresh.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way to get a stain out of a bathroom sink that has come from a long-dripping faucet? I've tried many cleaners with no luck whatever. — Jack Inwood

The only thing I've found that might work is to make a paste of water and the cleanser that contains a little oxalic acid — leave it on the stain for a couple of hours.

Dear Dorothy: I tried the recommended way of getting a candle wax stain off the tablecloth, but the stain didn't come off. I then tried one of the spray laundry cleaners, followed by laundering. It did work. — Jean Barbu

Dear Dorothy: When I'm roasting a chicken and don't want the legs to get too brown, I cover them at the end with foil. — Hester Amey

by ELLIE GROSSMAN

TURBANS ARE back to flatter women of all ages and differing facial shapes. Flowing dual scarf in summer print designed by Jacki.

HEAD-HUGGING draped turban with chignon knot at side is more sophisticated. Designed by Bob Greene for Irene of New York.

Rhoda Morgenstern would call it a schmatte — a piece of cloth she ties around her head to hide the hair she didn't have time to wash.

The Persians called it a "dullband," or sash. And the rest of us call it a turban, the traditional Moslem male headdress that the fashion world has adopted with the enthusiasm of an 8-year-old spotting a Daniel Boone cap.

For example, last fall a milliner named Ernie Pommer brought out a polyester scarf turban called the "Rhoda." Pommer sells to mail order houses and department stores. And in a short time, he says, "one chain sold a couple of thousand dozen," at $3 to $4 per turban.

IN THE NEAR EAST, the turban indicates status, occupation, locale and race according to its shape, color and folds. At least 66 variations of it exist.

Here, where it's simply a hat, there are no folds barred. Anything from a narrow strip of fabric tied around the head just above the forehead and fastened with a clip to an elaborately draped headpiece with flowing streamer is a turban.

A firm called Irene of New York claims to be the only milliner in the country still making hand-draped turbans, which retail at $65 and up in department and specialty stores nationally.

Bob Greene, the designer and owner of the company, produces the original turban, which six copyists then reproduce.

"A GIRL CAN make two a day, sometimes three," says Claire Hahn, Greene's associate. "When you start out it's just a strip of fabric which they fit and shape around a 'doll.' You have to know how to drape, which is quite a skill."

The more draping, the more expensive the turban which, Miss Hahn says, is an all-year hat differing only in fabric and color according to season. And every woman can wear one.

"There is a frame for every face and as long as you deal with proportion and get a hat that fits, anyone can wear it."

A round face can wear just about any style, but a full face requires a turban that has bulk on the sides to draw the cheeks outward, and height on top to elongate the face.

ON THE OTHER hand, height and bulk are to be discouraged on a square or long face. Here, a close fitting cap turban to cut the length of the face, and a smooth, tied-back scarf succeed.

Or an asymmetrical turban whose center part lies off-center and whose draping convenes in a large knot over one ear to break the line of the face.

For day or casual winter wear, turbans in wool and angora are appropriate; for evening, satin and velvet. Summer will see a great number of stripes and solids in polyester or cotton gauze, in lighter colors, of course.

There is one caution. If you're planning a trip to a remote region of Afghanistan or Turkey, keep in mind that at one time at least, the wearing of a turban by a non-Moslem was considered a crime.

"All of my column ideas come from my own experiences — slightly colored by exaggeration."

That's why reading Dorothy Meyer's column is so entertaining.

No subject is taboo with Dorothy. She pokes fun at herself, her family and friends. She's not afraid to say she wears a wig, dyes her hair or even that her kitchen isn't the cleanest place in town. Yes, it's easy to laugh with Dorothy because Dorothy can laugh at herself.

Aside from writing a humor column, Dorothy is also the editorial research and reference librarian. She keeps files on the stories that run in The Herald and answers questions for the public.

In her spare time, Dorothy enjoys knitting and gardening. She bowls with the Paddock mixed league and serves as the group's treasurer.

The way we see it

Oakton delay is inexcusable

Oakton Community College has been waiting more than five years for a campus, and now it appears the Illinois Capital Development Board is going to create one more delay.

The latest delay at this point is unwarranted and will only serve to further deny the residents of Maine and Niles townships the comprehensive community college they need and deserve.

The delay is likely to result because the Capital Development Board has told college officials to cut $1.7 million from their $12.7 million construction budget. The cut may mean construction will be delayed through the summer on the college's permanent campus in Des Plaines.

The budget cut has been ordered even though the college received approval from the Illinois Community College Board and the Illinois Board of Higher Education for the $12.7 million budget a year ago. The funds were appropriated by the General Assembly and approved by Gov. Daniel Walker.

All the college's planning has been based on the $12.7 million budget. The Capital Development Board's sudden action throws months of planning off the track.

Oakton officials said the ICDB apparently based its action on several recent community college construction projects which cost less per square foot than Oakton's building. However, they say none of the projects are as extensive or contain the kinds of specialized facilities Oakton has.

While we support thrift in government, the ICDB's action toward Oakton seems arbitrary and ill-timed. The college has been operating out of warehouses in Morton Grove for years. The permanent campus is long overdue and should not be delayed further.

The ICDB should stand by the approvals that were given Oakton by the community college and higher boards last year. This is not the time to penalize the students and taxpayers of the district with additional delays.

ICC should reconsider rate hike for Ma Bell

The rate increases recently granted Illinois Bell by the Illinois Commerce Commission, in some cases, deserve a second look.

The ICC announced recently it was granting Illinois Bell a $70 million rate hike, the third in recent years for the phone company.

Persons who use pay phones are affected first, for pay phone calls will now cost 20 cents. But it also will cost more in some instances to call directory assistance and to make long distance calls.

Gov. Walker, State's Attorney Bernard Carey and others have called for a rehearing. It's a sensible step, for the simple reason that an increase of such size deserves the closest possible scrutiny.

Bell officials complained bitterly that the hike was only half of what they requested. But that's a matter that the ICC, which is supposed to represent the consumer as well as Bell, should carefully review.

Prospect Heights: it needs role in TV show

Palatine's loss may be Prospect Heights' gain.

Village officials in Palatine last week thought of a great way to promote their town . . . go on national television. One trustee thought the ABC show, "Almost Anything Goes," would be great publicity since it is on Saturday night in prime time and involves the whole town.

There's only one thing blocking Palatine's attempt at stardom. It has too many people living in the village.

But before village officials start disannexing subdivisions so they can get under the 20,000 population figure established for towns to appear on the show, we think we have a better idea.

The Northwest suburbs should get behind its newest member — Prospect Heights — and help promote the newly incorporated city by getting its 13,000 residents a television spot.

The guest shots on the show are booked through the end of the season, but think of the team Prospect Heights could put together by next year. And if the other suburbs would be willing, there could be a test run right here in our own backyard pitting each suburb against the other as they do the towns on the TV show.

Why, maybe we could even get Regis Philbin, the host of the show, to come out and have our local officials and residents role in the mud, get hit with pies, slide down a banister into a pool of water . . .

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 17, the 48th day of 1976 with 318 to go.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

American novelist Dorothy Canfield Fisher was born Feb. 17, 1878.

On this day in history:

- In 1801, the U.S. House of Representatives named Thomas Jefferson as the third president of the United States. Aaron Burr, who tied with Jefferson in the Electoral College, became vice president.
- In 1817, Baltimore became the first American city to have gas-burning street lights.
- In 1972, President Nixon left on his historic trip to Peking.
- In 1973, President Nixon nominated Acting Director Patrick Gray to be permanent director of the FBI.

A thought for the day: American philosopher William James said, "Man lives by habit, indeed, but what he lives for is thrills and excitement."

Rips 'baloney' about police chief

I have been a resident of Arlington Heights for about five years, I like this city and the people who live and work in it. What is all of this baloney I have been reading in your fine paper about lack of initiative or ability on the part of the Arlington Heights Police Department?

I have spent most of my professional life in police or allied work as a state and federal prosecutor and was raised in a police family, my father having been sheriff and chief of police of Wichita, Kansas, some years ago. I therefore consider that I have some experience which qualifies me to judge the capability of our police department here. I base that opinion on the fact that I have been a state's attorney, and an assistant attorney' and chief of the Justice Departments Organized Crime Section in Ohio and Kentuckey, much of my time in the latter position was spent in investigating police and official corruption.

I personally believe we are very fortunate here in Arlington Heights on several counts, the first and foremost being that for over 20 years Chief Calderwood and his officers have run an honest department. This city doesn't have to worry about clout and fix and I believe we should be pleased about that.

I would like to say that as a private citizen I have had conversation and meetings with various police officers from trainees to higher officials including Captain English and Chief Calderwood. On each occasion I was treated fairly and courteously. If I got a ticket here I deserved it. If it was a request for assistance it was efficiently and courteously handled.

I have made many friends on the Arlington Heights department and my personal observations of their degree of intelligence and training lead me to the conclusion that they are well trained and receive continued schooling in police science.

On the whole I believe that compared to similar-sized departments throughout the United States with which I have worked, I believe Arlington Heights has a superior department. I seem to remember a recent federal study which indicated the city of Arlington Heights was one of the country's safest cities.

I believe too much attention is being paid to a disgruntled ex-employe who apparently got tired of waiting for a still very effective and capable chief to step down.

The fact that Jack Aldrich went to Barrington shouldn't be taken as an imminent sign that our police department is headed for a total collapse. I certainly have nothing against him but I would say that he was mighty quiet about this situation for around 20 years.

I say to the readers, let's give our vote of confidence to the men on the street who are doing the job, protecting our lives and property.

This is not New York, Paris or Los Angeles. We have exactly the type of department suited to a city of this size. I for one cast my vote for the continued good service of the Arlington Heights Police Dept. under the capable leadership of those who stayed here, such as Calderwood and English. If we find any possible improvement it will be they who implement it and not those who cut and run and criticize from afar.

'Another fiasco for Des Plaines'

It appears that the administrators of the City of Des Plaines have perpetrated another costly fiasco. Deputy Fire Chief Wolf's dismissal was what the trial judge called "petty." Someone was out head-hunting. They got their bag — we got the bill, $11,000. The aldermen can fault the building commissioner for a $30 luncheon tab but condone the folly of a groundless (quicksand at best) unsupportable dismissal.

Mayor Behrel put a freeze on hiring last October. The exceptions included a deputy fire chief. What stroke of genius prompted the city to employ a replacement deputy fire chief when a court suit was pending challenging the legality of Mr. Wolf's dismissal. Did they feel that two wrongs would make a right?

With the prospect of revenue sharing not being extended by Congress, Mayor Behrel infers the rank and file will be consulted for filling that financial void. Unfortunately a financial plight didn't warrant the use of a referendum to select a method of financing Superblock's parking deck.

The Feb. 5 edition of The Herald inferred that city officials from Des Plaines met with Terry Hansen, project director for Cook County Community Development. Could it be that the "gold-fever" which has prompted the recent rush to accept the "untouchable" federal money (Community Development) has infiltrated Des Plaines too. (Mount Prospect elected to apply Tuesday.)

Police applauded

I would like to thank publicly some fine Wheeling policemen and village workers who helped me out of a trying situation recently. My sister and I and our young children were going shopping the frozen Friday of Jan. 30 when my sister's car got stuck in some deep snow in a parking lot.

We were unable to get the car out. A Wheeling policeman in an animal control warden truck (No. 675) came along and did his best to free us, but with no success. He called for assistance and soon two patrol cars (No. 604 and No. 605) came to help. Even with the three policemen pushing, however, we had no luck. They then flagged down a village salt truck and asked those two men to help, and the five men working together got our car out.

They all were so nice to us. I would just like to thank them once more for their great efforts and for their time and assistance. We didn't get their names or badge numbers, but hopefully they will know who they are.

'Swim schedule difficult'

A recent article in The Herald described the plight of the Prospect High School swimming team. I wish to compliment you for bringing this situation into focus so effectively.

As a parent of one of the swimmers, I've had to accept the rigors of predawn commuting to Kopp Pool. My concern, however, is with the well-being of the young men in the swimming program. The necessity of arising at 5 in the morning and traveling in sub-zero weather for a vigorous workout prior to regularly scheduled class work must certainly exact its price.

All four of my children have at one time or another participated in the park district swim program and have benefited greatly from it. I think it is an outstanding program, but find it extremely difficult to accept the fact that the schedules cannot be adjusted for the three or four months during which the swim team is in competition. It is particularly hard to understand when other park districts are able to accommodate one and in some instances two swim teams and still maintain a program responsive to general community needs.

Once again my compliments and thanks for bringing this situation to the attention of your readers. It would be criminal to see the swimming program at Prospect High falter at a time when it is becoming so effective.

Feline events go purringly at Arlington Park cat show

Holy cats!

Things were purring Saturday and Sunday at Arlington Park for the cat show sponsored by the Lincoln State Cat Club.

Hundreds of the felines, cat owners and just plain cat fanciers turned out for the judging and awards. Not only were fancy breeds honored, but house pets also were recognized in the judging.

When not being groomed and pampered, the contestants occupied their time napping, stretching, washing themselves or just enjoying the attention until the judging. Of course the cats had to allocate the proper amount of time for pacing their cages.

The winning cats tended to recognize their awards by batting, swatting and generally scratching the ribbons hung on their cages.

Proceeds from the admission went toward scholarship funds and for veterinary research into cat diseases.

Cats naughty? No, just a regal demenor.

Clark followers reach mid-point in 180-mile journey

Nursing blisters, a tiny band of marchers Monday left Walnut Hill, Ill., the midpoint of a 13-day trek reenacting the hike of George Rogers Clark and his Long Knives across Southern Illinois 197 years ago.

The Randolph County Long Knives expect to reach Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 23, accomplishing the 180-mile march in 13 days, seven fewer than Clark and his men needed in 1779 when they surprised the British and captured Ft. Sackville.

The modern buckskin brigade is led by Don Wiley, 42, a Sparta carpenter, and some members complained of the spring-like winter weather as the temperature reached 73 degrees Sunday.

"We are on the downhill side of the blisters now," said Wiley.

Clark had some 130 men in his band, but Wiley has only seven, including his son, Kerry, who is driving a camper truck containing supplies. Wiley's wife is driving a car and handling some of the laundry chores.

The number was expected to drop to six Monday night, Wiley said, because Lloyd Rich of Chicago has run out of vacation time. The march began last Tuesday northwest of Chester on the Mississippi River with nine men and boys in the ranks.

Aldermen may keep seats

A judge ruled Monday that five Freeport aldermen who failed to file economic intesest statements last year may retain their city council seats.

Stephenson County Circuit Court Judge Robert Law said the five had just been careless and had not committed a "willful omission" of the state law which requires economic interest statements from public office holders.

Law acted on a suit filed by Stephenson County State's Atty. William Sisler.

Suspect remains in hospital

Sheriff Charles Millikan of Rosiclare said Monday that Clarence Belt, charged with murder in the pistol killing of John Phelan, 52, Elizabethtown, remains in Hardin County General Hospital under 24-hour guard.

Belt, 52, Rosiclare, at whose home the shooting occurred early last Thursday, complained of chest pains Thursday night in county jail at Elizabethtown and was taken to the hospital.

The sheriff said Phelan was shot six times, apparently after an argument over a card game. Two other men in the house were released after questioning. Belt's bond was set at $50,000 on the murder charge.

Dupo teachers strike

All four schools in the Dupo District were closed Monday by a strike of teachers belonging to the Dupo Federation of Teachers Local 1732.

The district has 1,600 students.

A union spokesman said the teachers had been negotiating for a new contract for more than a year before talks broke off earlier this month. They have been working without a contract since Oct. 7.

The spokesman said teachers are seeking a base salary of $9,200 a year and full hospitalization insurance. The school board has offered $9,000 and improved but not full hospitalization insurance.

Senate study shows

Abuse of federal needy health plans 'widespread'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators reported Monday they had found widespread abuse of Medicaid and Medicare programs for the needy among clinical laboratories, including overcharges and kickbacks.

"I think it is time that Congress stepped in and ended this gold rush in the area of health care of the poor and aged," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., of a Senate subcommittee on aging.

Committee investigators estimated at least $45 million of the $213 million paid out by Medicare and Medicaid in the current fiscal year was "either fraudulent or unnecessary."

They told a subcommittee hearing the only way the clinical labs could obtain Medicaid accounts from physicians was to offer kickbacks averaging 30 per cent of the value of the services ordered by the physician and paid for out of state and federal funds.

THE INVESTIGATORS, who concentrated on Illinois and conducted supplementary studies in several other states, reported that laboratories in Illinois charged Medicaid as much as 110 per cent more than they charged private patients.

In one assortment of eight laboratory tests, the hearing was told, the state of Illinois paid $354,000 more in six months last year than private patients would have been charged.

The labs also were said to have made money by performing tests which physicians did not order, and collecting for them from Medicare and Medicaid.

THE INVESTIGATORS, taking a random sample of 20 accounts from Illinois laboratories, said the labs charged a total of $885 for services, or $766 more than the costs of tests actually ordered by doctors.

The doctors had no record of a visit or ordering of tests for 12 of the 20 patients involved. For another seven patients, more tests were charged for than were ordered. Only one patient received and was charged for exactly the tests ordered.

The Senate study found that Medicare and Medicaid payment schedules were out of date and based on the assumption that most of the labor work was performed by hand. Actually, it said, use of computers and other new technology have greatly lowered costs which are not reflected in the fees.

IN ILLINOIS, meantime, Public Aid Director James L. Trainor announced that six more doctors have been suspended from the state's Medicaid program. He denied the department has hushed up the fraud to help Gov. Daniel Walker in the March 16 primary election.

Trainor called a news conference "to respond to allegations that this department has done nothing" on Medicaid fraud. He declined to answer some questions and left in apparent anger with questions still coming.

"We have been doing the job," he said. "We have not been doing it with the kind of fanfare some people think we should. I think in 18 months since he became director this department has probably overcome four years of ineptitude and mismangement."

Trainor estimated Medicaid fraud "in the tens of millions" of dollars in Illinois, not hundreds of millions as some officials have suggested. He said the department spends "in excess of $2 million a year on investigations of all sorts" and has recouped '3.5 million since it began an audit program in April 1975.

Schaumburg, Conant clash tonight in South feature

by ART MUGALIAN

Nobody's trying to kid themselves about tonight's basketball game at Schaumburg between the host Saxons and the Conant Cougars. This game is more than just another friendly neighborhood gathering.

This is a championship game — this one is for all the marble cake.

The two South division teams will take to the court at around 8 p.m. and one of them will come off in first place. The other squad will have three losses.

In other action tonight, Hoffman Estates (3-7) hosts Elk Grove (6-4) and Rolling Meadows (3-7) entertains Forest View (3-7) in a pair of South encounters. Palatine (0-9) welcomes Prospect (4-7) in a crossover game, and Arlington visits Maine West in a nonleague affair in a game that will be broadcast on WMTH-PM (88.5).

At stake in the Conant-Schaumburg match are the South championship and a berth in the Mid-Suburban League's title game at either Buffalo Grove or Hersey Feb. 25.

Schaumburg's Saxons are 9-2 in the South and they own a half-game lead over Conant, which is 8-2. The Saxons were victorious the first time the teams met, back in January when Schaumburg captured a 64-47 win at Conant.

But at that time, the Cougars were without Ed MacDonald, who was ill. And two other starters, Brian O'Donnell and Pete Scaffidi, were playing below par. A fourth Cougar, Mike Frisch, had barely recovered from a broken wrist.

"We're healthy now," said Conant coach Dick Redlinger. "In that last game, we stayed within eight or 10 points of them until the fourth quarter."

Redlinger knows that a victory over Schaumburg would just about guarantee a South title, the Cougars' second in three years. But Conant would still have to beat Forest View on Friday to put away the championship.

"We still have to play them one at a time," Redlinger emphasized, not yet wanting to look ahead to meeting Forest View at their place.

"We've been studying films of Schaumburg all week," Redlinger said. "They don't do anything differently from the beginning of the year. We expect a man-to-man defense and a press. And we'll be changing defenses every time down the court."

The Saxons are aiming for victory No. 20 of the season, quite an accomplishment for a team that won 11 games all last year and had just 23 varsity wins in four seasons of basketball.

A victory for the Saxons tonight in their final league contest would clinch the division title.

"Defense will be the key to this game," said Saxon coach Joe Breault. "The team that plays good defense will win it."

"We haven't given up many points this year," added Breault, pointing to his team's 53-point defensive average. Conant has allowed just 47 points per game, the best mark in the MSL.

"Everybody's been going good lately," continued Breault. "We had a little low point there for awhile — around the Elk Grove game — but I think we're back up."

The Saxons have four scorers in double figures — John Chmiel (15.5), Jon McIlraith (13.9), Ed Chmiel (13.7), and Dan Breen (11.8).

Conant's top scorers are Scaffidi (11.8), Ron Sulaski (11.3), and O'Donnell (10.9).

"I expect Conant will play that zone mostly," Breault predicted, referring to Redlinger's favorite 2-3 setup. "They have the philosophy that if you're going to beat them, you're going to beat them from outside."

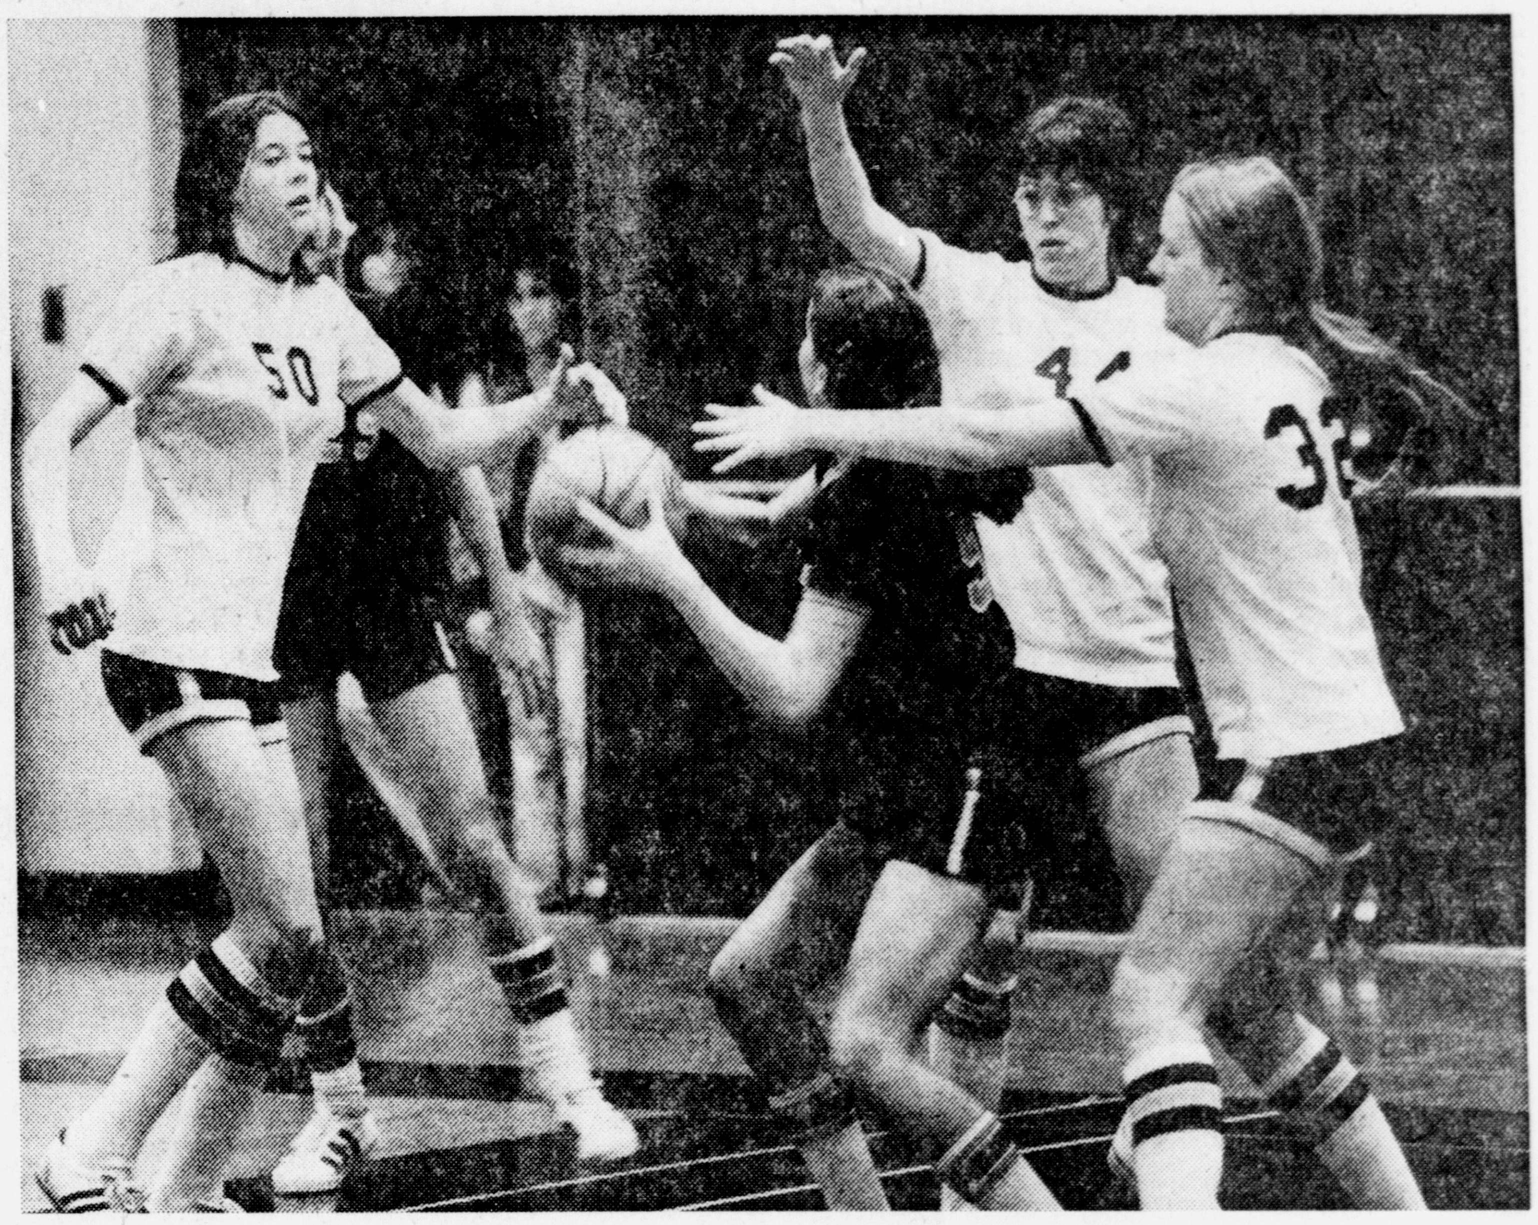
Radio coverage at Schaumburg

The crucial basketball battle tonight between Conant and Schaumburg high schools will be broadcast live tonight from the Schaumburg gymnasium.

Air time is 8 p.m. at 92.7 FM with Bob Houghton of WWMM and Bob Frisk of The Herald at the microphones.

WM radio will not carry its regular Friday night high school broadcast because of this special mid-week game.

Schaumburg stands 9-2 and Conant 8-2 in the battle for the Mid-Suburban South Division championship. Conant plays at Forest View Friday while Schaumburg is idle.



CLAUSTROPHOBIA! Buffalo Grove's Sue Elias experiences that closed in feeling from Elk Grove's Kim Richardson (50), Pam VanDenBussche (44) and Laura Barry (32) in a recent Mid-Suburban League basketball game. Behind Richardson is Joyce Gallagher. The Bison won the game, 48-23.

Cashmore tries - and stars - in many sports

Bob Gallas

Staff Sportswriter

Hersey's Bill Cashmore doesn't think of himself as a heartbreaker.

After all, the high school athlete is the cliched coaches' dream, an All-Conference football linebacker, plus a state finalist in diving.

A quiet, unassuming young man, Cashmore has that quality that makes him naturally likeable.

But through his four years at Hersey, Bill's broken a few hearts those of the coaches who let him get away.

The story of Bill Cashmore is a little unbelievable, even to veteran observers of Northwest suburban sports. It's a story of excellence — period.

For example:

- Cashmore wnt out for the freshman wrestling team. He was 22-0.
- He tried gymnastics as a sophomore. With no previous experience, he made the sophomore team at the school, which won the state gymnastics title. He was a consistent performer on the high bar.
- Feeling he didn't have the proper body to be a standout gymnast, Cashmore again switched sports his junior year and took up diving. No, he didn't just pick it up. He went on to the state finals where he finished 14th.
- Cashmore also a four-year standout in football, an All-Conference and Herald All-Area linebacker this year on a fine Hersey team. And this year, he definitely has a shot at finishing among the top three divers in the state.

"Every sport I could get into, I've always wanted to at least try," said Cashmore. "I always hoped that my senior year I'd be good enough in something to get a college scholarship," he said.

Cashmore comes from a family deeply involved with athletics. His two older brothers were both champion divers. His father, Dick, was an athlete at the University of Illinois. Bill's sister, Kim, a junior at Hersey went downstate as a freshman in the shot put and was All-Conference in volleyball as a sophomore.

Cashmore's forte, diving, is a story all in itself. Right from the start he competed with — and beat — divers who had several more years of experience than he.

Last year, his first year as a diver, Cashmore narrowly beat out senior Jeff Speakman for the Mid-Suburban League Diving Championship. The two went on to the state finals where Cashmore finished 14th, Speakman 12th.

But Cashmore's state meet performance should be footnoted, I think. It's another example of Bill's heart.

The night before state diving competition, both were to practice at the tournament site, New Trier East. On his first practice dive Cashmore hit his head on the pool bottom and spent the evening at the hospital getting six stitches in his head. Meanwhile, Speakman went on practicing.

The next day, forced to endure the unnatural presence of a bathing cap to protect his stitches, Cashmore went out and finished 14th, just behind Speakman.

"Most kids would have said, 'I can't dive,' " said Herb Parsons, Hersey swimming coach. "But Bill doesn't know that word. He's an extremely dedicated athlete."

Indeed Cashmore is dedicated. In addition to his regular five-day-a-week team practices, he puts in four hours each weekend diving on his own. And two nights a week, he gets coaching from his older brother Don, a former diver. You see, on top of it all, Hersey, like most Dist. 214 schools, doesn't have a diving coach.

For all his success, Bill still wonders, occasionally, if it's all worth it. "Sometimes you get down, because there's no one there to tell you what you're doing wrong," he said. "You ask if it's all worth it. In diving, it comes down to just one meet, the state meet. All you can do is cross your fingers and hope you're sharp that one day."

Cashmore's life is usually orderly for that of a 17-year-old. After college, he plans to join his father and brothers in business. But athletics will always be part of his life.

"I always remember being little and going to watch my Dad play handball at the 'Y'," Bill said. "And I remember hearing people say, 'that Dick Cashmore's a pretty good athlete.' " said Bill. "I hope someday, they'll be saying that about me."

They already are, Bill. They already are.

Hawks qualify for state meet

Harper's women's gymnastics team continued to add new honors to their season this weekend as they qualified for the state meet for the first time.

"With this meet and the junior college state meet," said head coach Martha Lynn Bolt, "this is our most successful season ever."

Harper took third to move into the state meet, which will include both two-and four-year schools, March 6 at the University of Illinois - Circle Campus.

With a total of 82.25 the Hawks trailed only Waubonsee (85.60) and Wheaton College (83.35).

Carol Moore and Sue Paster paced the Hawks' performance.

Paster placed third in the all-around with a 7.21 average and took firsts on the uneven parallel bars (7.70) and floor exercise (7.50).

Moore had a 7.30 on vaulting, a 7:30 on floor exercise and won the balance beam with her best score of the year, an 8.05.

Linda Pleckham also picked up a fifth place award on the unevens with a 6.70 score.

Mid-Suburban girl cagers in key games

by PAUL LOGAN

Two of the top scorers in the Mid-Suburban League will matchup tonight when Fremd plays at Buffalo Grove in a girls' basketball game.

Presently ranked 2-3 in scoring average are Heidi Geisler of the Fremd Vikings and Joyce Gallagher of the Buffalo Grove Bison. Giesler is carrying a 16.5 mark with Gallagher at 13.5.

Gallagher scored 50 points while leading her red-hot Bison team to three straight wins last week. Buffalo Grove, a co-leader in the North Division with Fremd and Wheeling with 1-0 marks, will be trying to hand Fremd (7-0) its first loss.

Dropping to fourth was Fremd's Connie Bruns with a 13.4 average. Giesler and Bruns give the North Division co-leaders a deadly 1-2 punch.

Clare Dowling is the pacesetter with a lofty 22.6 total. Dowling enjoyed her high game of the season, scoring 25 in a win over Arlington. She also had 24 against Rolling Meadows, giving her six games with 21 points or more.

Hoffman, sharing the South Division lead with Forest View and Elk Grove at 1-0, will be at Elk Grove tonight. The Hawks are 5-2 overall while Elk Grove is 2-2.

In other action, Schaumburg (0-1, 0-6) will be at Prospect (0-1, 2-3), Conant (0-0, 6-2) will be at Forest View (1-0, 5-3), Arlington (0-1, 2-3) will be at Hersey (0-1, 2-5) and Palatine (0-1, 1-4) will be at Wheeling (1-0, 7-0).

In a non-conference game, Rolling Meadows (0-6) will be at Addison Trail. All games will start at approximately 8 p.m.

On Thursday night, the game that has decided the North Division title the last two years will be played — Wheeling at Fremd. Two years ago, the Wildcats lost to the Vikings by two points; last year it was by only one.

Wheeling received a boost last week with the return of all-conference center Sandy Rainey, who had been sidelined by a leg injury. In four games, Rainey has scored 52 points or a 13.0 average. She helped her team capture the Hersey invitational tourney last weekend, scoring 22 points against powerful Libertyville.

Gina Neri's 12.7 average and LeeAnn Paulsen's 11.5 give Wheeling a 1-2-3 punch. Fremd will counter with Giesler, Bruns and Colleen Cannon, who has broken out of her scoring slump. She just missed the top 15 list with 10.1.

Indiana takes thriller over Purdue, 74-71

Tom Abernathy and Scott May triggered a second half comeback to give top-ranked Indiana a 74-71 victory over arch-rival Purdue Monday night and advance the Hoosiers a giant step toward a second consecutive unbeaten regular season.

Indiana trailed by as many as 11 points in the first half.

May, held to three field goals in the first half, pumped in seven more in the final 20 minutes to lead the scoring with 26 points. Abernethy had 13 points and Kent Benson, held scoreless in the second half, scored 10 points as the Hoosiers ran their regular season winning streak to 52 games.

It was the Hoosiers' 22nd triumph of the season without a loss.

Purdue took charge early in the game on the shooting of sophomores Eugene Parker and Walter Jordan. Parker, who led Purdue with 23 points, had 12 in the first half, while Jordan finished with 14.

Indiana held a 70-68 lead with four minutes to play when the Hoosiers went to a spread offense.

With five seconds left to play, Parker connected from the baseline to close to within, 72-71, but May sank a pair of free throws with two seconds left.

ILLINOIS 91, OHIO STATE 73

Rich Adams scored a career high 29 points and added eight assists to lead Illinois to a 91-73 triumph over Ohio State to guarantee the Illini their first winning season since 1973.

Ohio State kept the game close only in the early portions of the first half and last led at 7-6. Illinois broke the game open in the first half outscoring the Buckeyes 10-2 in a span of three minutes to take a 48-37 halftime lead.

In the second half Ohio State never challenged. Judd Wood and Terry Burris led the Buckeye scoring with 19 points each.

It was the 14th win in 22 games for the Illini and the 15th loss in 21 for Ohio State.

IOWA 81, NORTHWESTERN 68

The Iowa Hawkeyes put down Northwestern's late rally led by Billy McKinney Monday night to win a Big Ten contest 81-68.

The win, Iowa's fourth straight, maintained the Hawkeyes in fourth place in the Big Ten and just about ended any Wildcat opes of a first division finish.

The Hawkeyes led 60-47 with 8:45 left in the game, but in the next 5½ minutes, McKinney made 12 of his game high 29 points. McKinney's spree enabled Northwestern to cut the Iowa margin to four, 68-64.

Iowa rallied for nine straight points in the next two minutes, five by forward Dan Frost, and pulled to a comfortable 77-64 lead.

The Hawkeyes were led by Frost's 25 points. Bruce King added 16 for Iowa, followed by Scott Thompson with 11 and Cal Wulfsberg with 10.

MICHIGAN 94, E. MICHIGAN 76

Junior guard Rickey Green scored 13 points in the final seven minutes to propel 11th ranked Michigan to a 94-76 victory over Eastern Michigan.

The Wolverines, now 17-5 for the season, led by 19 points midway through the second half but Eastern Michigan cut the lead to six before Green got hot.

Green finished with a game high 25 points while freshman center Phil Hubbard added 24.

Forward Bob Riddle led Eastern, now 7-15, with 17 points. Guard Bill Weaver and forward Walt Jones added 16 apiece.

MINNESOTA 98, WISCONSIN 74

Minnesota scored the first 11 points and paced by Mike Thompson's 33 points raced past Wisconsin, 98-74 Monday night.

The seventh-place Gophers led by as much as 26 points in the first half when they outrebounded the last place Badgers 34-18, while building a 51-32 halftime lead.

Ray Williams and Osborne Lockhart each finished with 17 for Minnesota, both breaking loose numerous times for uncontested layups.

Minnesota, 5-8 in the conference and 12-9 overall, led by 36 at 95-59 before coach Jim Dutcher emptied his bench.

Irish breeze past Butler, 92-79

Adrian Dantley scored 27 points, 21 of them in the second half, Monday night to lead 10th-ranked Notre Dame past Butler 92-79.

The Irish led all the way to hang up their 18th victory in 22 games. It was Notre Dame's 13th win in the last 14 games. Butler now is 11-12.

Dantley didn't open up during the first half which ended with Notre Dame leading only 41-37, but he began to find the range after intermission and boosted his career scoring total to 2,027 points.

Five-foot-10 junior guard Wayne Burris led Butler, scoring a career-high 30 points.

Notre Dame, with Dantley hitting, ran up a 17-point lead three times in the second half. The best Butler could do after that was pull within eight. Both teams shot at better than 50 per cent accuracy from the floor in the game.

Number 2 Marquette beats Tulane

Earl Tatum scored 23 points to lead No. 2 ranked Marquette to an easy 75-63 win over Tulane Monday night, the 16th straight for the Warriors, improving their season record to 20-1.

It was Coach Al McGuire's tenth straight season of 20 or more wins. Tulane is now 16-8.

Tatum scored 15 points in the first half when the Warriors outshot the Green Wave 58 per cent to 33 per cent and took a 37-27 halftime lead.

Bo Ellis had 17 points for Marquette and Jerome Whitehead 12, Jeff Cummings led Tulane with 16, 14 of them in the first half. Tulane's leading scorer was Phil Hicks with 15.

Whitehead dropped in 10 points early in the second half as Marquette stretched its lead to 59-37. Marquette enjoyed its largest lead at 69-43 with seven minutes left.

'New York' Vikings no surprise

Two state senators leading the fight for a new stadium near downtown Minneapolis said Monday they are not surprised at reports the Minnesota Vikings are being wooed by New York's renovated Yankee Stadium.

Sens. John Chenoweth and Robert North, both of St. Paul, said they were sure the development was not engineered by the Minnesota Vikings as a means of putting pressure on lawmakers to support the stadium bill.

However, he said, "I think it is a pretty well understood fact that the Vikings will move if a new stadium is not built." Chenoweth said, "We will have to face the fact that there is keen competition to attract the Vikings away from us. I do not believe the Vikings originated this report to help support the measure."

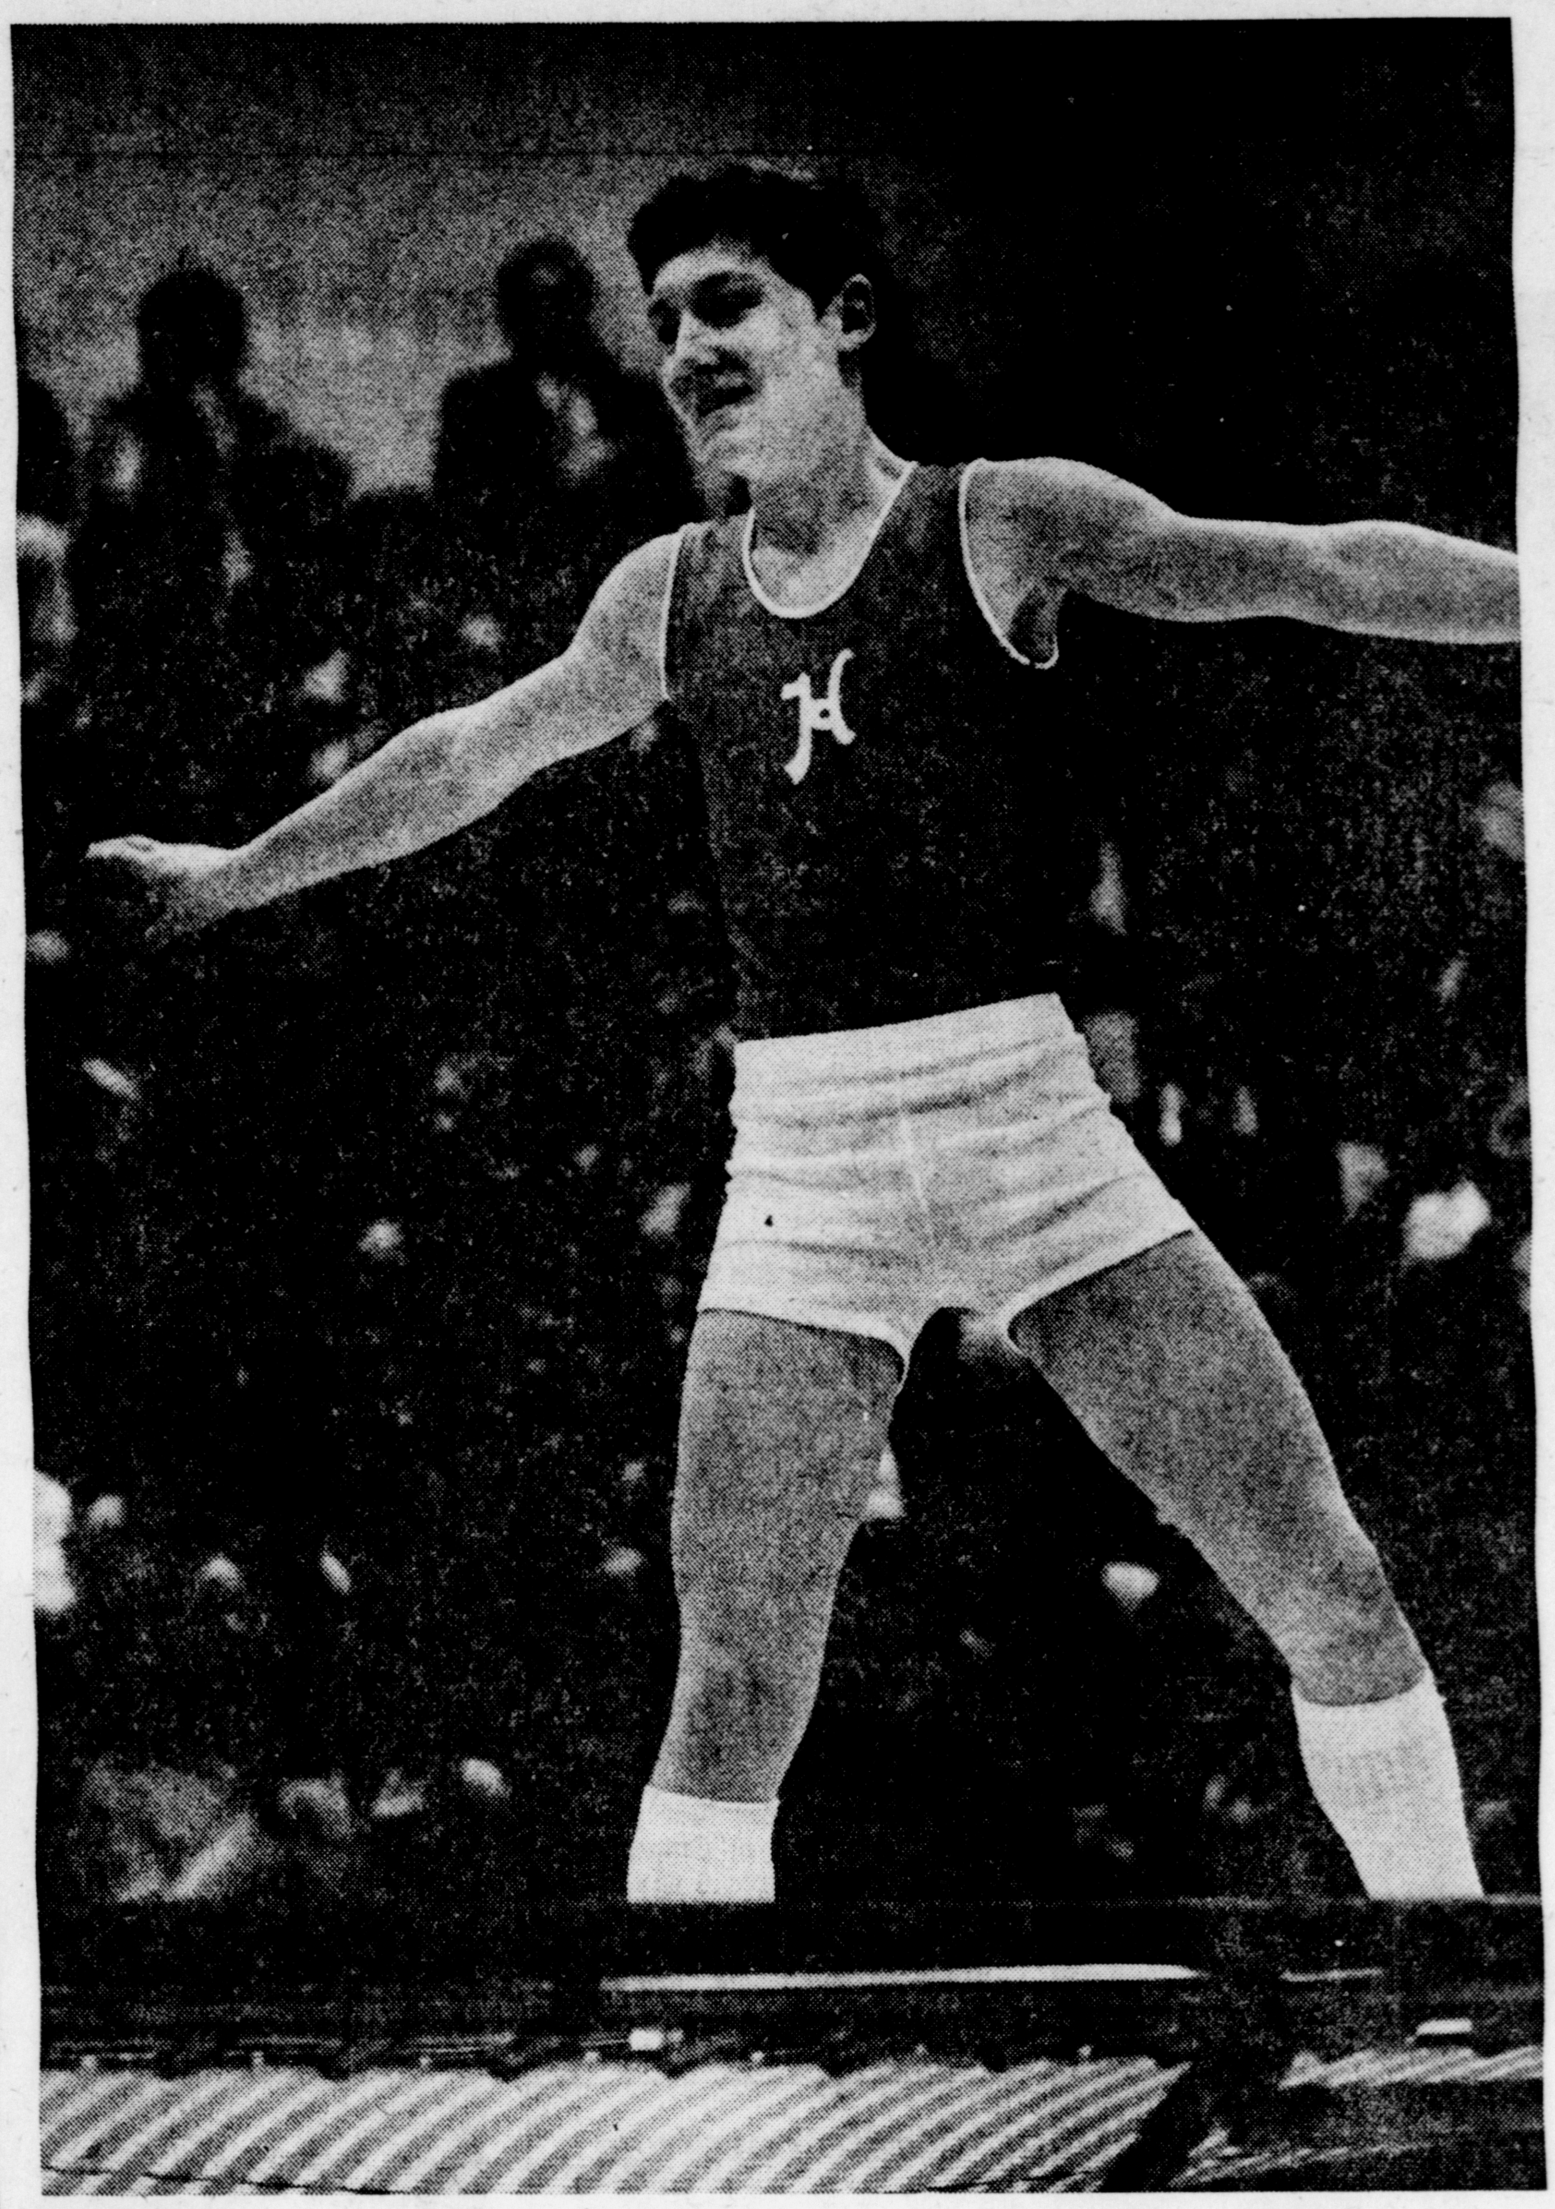
Vikings' Coach Bud Grant and General Manager Mike Lynn have been at the Capitol in recent weeks to talk with lawmakers and to urge support for the new $45 million, 65,000-seat stadium.

Laver highest paid; signs with Friars

Rod Laver, who has won more major championships than any other player in the history of tennis, Monday became the highest paid player in World Team Tennis by signing a multi-year contract with the San Diego Friars.

G. Allan Kingston, president of the Friars, declined to disclose details of the contract in announcing the signing, but said it covered more than 1976 and made Laver the highest paid tennis player in the 3-year-old WTT.

He said Laver, 37, who has earned more than $1.5 million in his 13-year career, signed to play the entire season. The Friars' 44-match season starts in San Diego May 4 against the 1975 WTT Champion Pittsburgh Triangles.



TRAMP CHAMP. Hersey's Bob Barut knows he hit a good trampoline routine as he takes his bows Saturday after finishing with an 8.6. Barut's championship was the only individual title for the Huskies.

Harper qualifies 3 wrestlers

Highlighted by Neal Kendall's blue ribbon performance, three Harper wrestlers battled their way to national competition at the Region IV tournament hosted by Waubonsee.

Joining Kendall in the qualifying ranks were Jim Dugo and Bill Zimmerman. The top three grapplers at each weight advance to the NJCAA National showdown in Worthington, Minn. Feb. 26-28 and Dugo and Zimmerman both finished third.

The Hawks finished sixth among the more than 25 schools represented at Waubonsee, prompting Harper coach Norm Lovelace to observe, "I'm really pleased with the outcome here. . .especially in light of the fact that we finished dead last at the same time a year ago."

Triton rang up 128¼ points to capture top team laurels while Joliet (90¾) was second, Blackhawk (75¾) was third, Waubonsee (72½) fourth and DuPage (66½) fifth ahead of Harper's 41¼-point production.

Kendall opened with a 12-2 win over Pete Barr, trimmed Bob Harwood of McHenry 6-3 and outlasted Darnell Griffin of Joliet in overtime 2-1 to annex the 134-pound crown. Kendall now owns a 24-1-1 slate.

Dugo, at 118, pinned Rod Dunn of McHenry but was then polished off by Dave Jenkins of Triton 7-3. He rallied in the wrestlebacks with a 21-6 verdict over Sauk Valley's Terry Gray and followed up with a 7-2 decision over Jeff Metzger of DuPage to qualify with a 21-3 record.

Zimmerman, at 177, beat Rich Brogan of DuPage 7-2, lost to eventual champ Cliff Thurman of Joliet 8-4, came back with a 9-2 win over Waubonsee's Pete Hoffman and then dumped Dave Vanderlinden of Blackhawk 8-2 in notching his third.

Harper's other wrestlers lost out in early round action. Also failing in his bid for a trip to the Nationals was John Lonergan of Mayfair, a former Palatine standout. He finished fourth.

Arden scores 38, Harper falls to Illinois Valley

Jim Arden fired in a record 38 points Saturday but it wasn't enough to keep the Harper Hawks from losing their 15th game of the season, 91-85 to Illinois Valley.

Arden's 17 buckets and four free throws added up to the most points ever scored by a Harper cager.

"As near as we can tell," said Hawk coach Roger Bechtold, "that's the record. We lost all our records in the fire a few years ago but we're pretty sure that is the most points ever scored."

The Hawks began cutting into a 10-point halftime deficit when they controlled Illinois Valley's fast break in the second half.

"They like to run," Bechtold said, "and we started to control the tempo. We got within one point of them several times but we couldn't push it over the hump."

Wally Butman, who had cooled Thornton's Trevor Banks last week, again took on the big gun as he hooked up with Hollis Vickery.

"Wally worked hard on him," Bechtold said. "But Vickery took him in and out and shot over him for 30 points."

Illinois Valley's other forward, Randy Parker, hurt the Hawks with 27 points.

Bill Kenney did a fine job on IV's Terry Olszewski as he held him to six points. The Apache guard had scored 26 points in their first game.

Butman chipped in 18 points and Scott Green 12 for the Hawks.

Harper will wind up their regular season Thursday at Waubonsee.

"The difference in this game," Bechtold said, "was the free throws. We made only seven and they hit 19."

Ask Andy

Fingerprints differ on each hand

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Tony Elia, 13, of Niagara Falls, Ont., Canada, for his question:

DO BOTH HANDS HAVE THE SAME FINGERPRINTS?

Fingerprints seem to go hand in hand with murder mysteries and whodunit movies. When the use of fingerprints began, however, it was only as a means of identification. Potters, artists, merchants and perhaps even kings used a thumb print as an indisputable signature.

A fingerprint is the impression of the inside of the finger between the tip and the first joint. If you look at your fingertips you can see the tiny ridges that loop, twist and turn every which way. Glands beneath the surface of our skin secrete an oil to keep our skin soft. When you press your fingers against a solid surface, the oil is left behind in the patterns formed by your fingerprints.

Sir William Herschel is given credit for being the first to devise a workable method of fingerprint identification. In the 1850s he was a British government official in Bengal, India. He sought to use the thumb prints of illiterate workers as a means of positive identification. In those days people often pretended to be someone else so they could collect wages they hadn't earned.

In time, the idea of fingerprinting, more properly called dactylography, developed into a scientific system. Sir Francis Galton founded the present system of fingerprint identification in the early 1900s. His system was later refined and perfected by Sir E.R. Henry, a commissioner of Scotland Yard of London. Today, the Henry system is the most commonly used.

Fingerprints can be broken down into three large groups of patterns — the arch, the loop and the whorl. Each large group bears the same general characteristics. The loop and arch groups are broken down further into two smaller groups each, while the whorl group is broken down into four smaller groups. This makes eight groups in all, and from here on it really gets complicated.

You can begin to understand how detailed it gets when you realize that out of the billions of people in the world no two share the same fingerprints. What's more, the prints on your right hand are different from those on your left. Multiply the world population by 10 and you can come pretty close to the total number of different fingerprints that exist.

Besides being useful in catching criminals and other misguided folk, fingerprints are an invaluable aid in identifying amnesia victims, missing persons and unknown deceased persons. Many times the victims of major disasters can be positively identified if their fingerprints are on file.

About three-quarters of the American population have their fingerprints on record. This provides a quick and positive means of identification that can be useful to us. Many times a fingerprint has been instrumental in reuniting separated families, locating missing persons and saving innocent people from prison.

Emcees — TV's smiling Lotharios

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There's a breed of man who sneaks into millions of homes every day, to the delight of American wives whose husbands are at work.

They invade the sanctity of the home from early morning until just before the head of the household returns from a day's toil. Most of these Lotharios remain unknown to the poor husband.

The trespassers are never caught. They break and enter through the television tube.

"They" are the dozen or so game show hosts who beguile, charm and ooze their way into feminine affection by handing out money to contestants and-or matching wits with celebrity panelists.

The electronic enchanters have endless enthusiasm, boundless high spirits and a high tolerance for giggling contestants.

TOM KENNEDY embodies all these magnificent traits, excelling in several. He effervesces daily as emcee of "You Don't Say." It is a tribute to his savoir faire that he also hosts the nighttime "Name That Tune" nugget.

"It's not difficult for me to be cheerful and happy for every show," said Tom, cheerfully enough. "It comes naturally."

It matters not to him that he passes unrecognized by most men while their wives invariably flash him a big, knowing smile — now and then a wink.

"Game show audiences are predominantly female," Tom acknowledged, "but more and more men are watching — especially on holidays or when they are sick.

"ALMOST ALL the letters come from women. Usually they want autographed pictures. But I catch hell if I say or do something unexpected.

"Women don't like change. If my hair gets too long, they complain. If it's too short, they let me know."

One woman quit watching the show when Tom went tieless. She feared his hairy chest would corrupt young girls.

Tom's romance with the nation's women is limited to the tube, a fact of life which clearly pleases him. He is married and the father of four children.

Give one to pick up two

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

It really requires a lot of discipline to stay out of seven when you have 11 tricks in your own hand and your partner has shown you an ace and a king. But South knew that his partner's ace was in the spade suit and pretty sure that his king would be there also. As a matter of fact, South had almost settled for the ultra-safe five hearts.

If West had opened a club there would have been no play for six the way the cards lay, but West made his normal lead of a diamond and South was able to bring his slam home by means of giving up one trick to gain two.

He won the diamond lead and promptly led a low trump toward dummy's seven and six. East won a surprise trick with his eight, but now South had an entry to dummy to be able to discard his two low clubs on the ace and king of spades.

'Romeo and Juliet' director films 'The Life of Jesus'

by PEGGY POIK

Mid-week review

A dusty hill outside the city walls. Bedouin tents, a stall selling clay bowls, pumpkins and carrots. A growling camel pulls against his tether. A boy in ragged clothes sits motionless on a donkey.

Clouds glide across the wintry sun in Sousse, Tunisia.

"Motore, silenzio, action." The scene comes to life. Donkeys, horses, the camel, men and women in Arab dress move up and down the hill in busy procession.

Two black-robed women run breathlessly through the crowd at the foot of an oak scaffold and the boy falls off his donkey.

FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI stamps his feet, blows a gold whistle and the cameras stop.

"There is too much movement. It looks like Wall Street," he says in angry English. "We wait for the clouds for an hour and then that — falls," he complains in Italian.

Zeffirelli is filming "The Life of Jesus" and this is a small but important scene, Mary and Martha coming to find Jesus crucified on Calvary. They are stopped by a Roman soldier. A centurion, Ernest Borgnine, intervenes and lets them through. Mary Magdalen darts from the crowd to join them.

It takes all morning to film the scene but finally everything works and Zeffirelli calls a lunch break.

A DESIGNER and director of opera and theater who made his film reputation with "Romeo and Juliet" nine years ago, Zeffirelli considers the life of Jesus "the greatest story material that ever existed" — and the most mishandled.

"With the possible exception of the film that Julien Duvivier made in Provence in the 1930s, the material has always been used for a cheap, popular fairy tale," he says.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" he dismisses as a "vulgarization."

Zeffirelli has a budget of up to $11 million, some of it from Sir Lew Grade of England's Independent TV and Italy's RAI-TV, and six hours of television time in England, Italy and the United States.

The series is aimed for Easter 1977 and General Motors already has paid $3 million to sponsor it on NBC. There also are plans to release a shortened movie version.

ZEFFIRELLI CHOSE locations in Morocco and Tunisia for their ageless, primitive quality and their people who, although Moslem, "have the same fervor and the same mystic religiousness as the Hebrew people had."

But he wants to film the Passover scene in Jerusalem — "for the faces."

"We are telling a story painted as a giant tapestry about a whole period that revolves around this extraordinary man," Zeffirelli says. "In particular we are focusing on one point which I find of great importance and that is that Jesus was first and foremost a Jew.

"I wish to stress the point that so long as Jesus was living and so long as even his Apostles were living their religion was the Jewish faith.

"IN OTHER WORDS, the drama that I want to tell is the drama of the Jewish people and their long wait for the coming of the Messiah."

Zeffirelli is a compactly built man, almost 52, with fine graying hair and intent blue eyes. His crew says his flashes of anger are mainly for show. They get along with him.

Zeffirelli has cast almost a dozen stars in this production, but most of them, like Borgnine, have small roles. Peter Ustinov is Herod the Great; Christopher Plummer, Herod Antipater; Michael York, John the Baptist; Valentina Cortese, Heriodias; Rod Steiger, Pontius Pilate; Sir Ralph Richardson, Simeon; James Mason, Joseph of Aramathea; Sir Laurence Olivier, Nicodemus; and Claudia Cardinale plays the adulteress.

"Jesus was a very difficult choice," Zeffirelli says. "It is the greatest part ever written: five times Hamlet. Looks are important — you can't have a fat Jesus, and you need a sensitive actor who understands the problems without being stunned by them."

ZEFFIRELLI'S choice was Robert Powell, a 31-year-old Englishman who has starred on English televison, acted in repertory, appeared in Ken Russell's rock musical film "Tommy" and played the composer in Russell's "Mahler."

Zeffirelli is enthusiastic about Powell. "He is tremendous."

Zeffirelli cast another rising English actor, Ian McShane, as Judas, and American James Farentino as Simon Peter. Olivia Hussey, Zeffirelli's Juliet at age 15 in 1967, is the Virgin Mary and Anne Bancroft is Mary Magdalen.

A onetime actor himself, Zeffirelli does not plan to appear in the film aside from a shot of his hands picking up loaves of bread. "I couldn't," he says. "I wouldn't look Jewish enough."

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience.

And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?

Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.

Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

THE SPECTACULAR mountains of the Continental Divide serve as a breathtaking backdrop for the lodge, condominiums, shops and restaurants of Keystone Village. The resort is one of three included in "Ski and Summit," a Colorado winter vacation package.

Colorado skiing

'It's sooo much better...'

Contrary to a belief that seems to persist in the minds of many Midwesterners, you don't have to be an expert to go to Colorado to ski. As a matter of fact, the Rocky Mountains are probably the best place to learn the sport.

For Northwest suburban area skiers who have never ventured further than Wisconsin or Michigan, Colorado will be a surprise. The runs are not more difficult as some tend to think, just longer, smoother and more fun.

Of the three resorts included in Summit County's "Ski the Summit package, Breckenridge isi the best place to learn about the wonders of skiing that famous powder. Take a few lessons here from one of several Norwegian experts such as Olav Pedersen and you'll be able to ski anywhere.

Pedersen, who says he has been skiing for 57 years, has been an instructor at the Breckenridge Ski School since 1964. He has two loves — teaching beginners to adore skiing as much as he does and helping the blind to enjoy a sport they might not otherwise have the chance to try.

Pedersen organized the Summit County "Race for Light" last year that has inspired other skiers and resort owners across the country to develop programs and activities for blind skiers.

Pedersen appears to have infinite patience, coaxing "A" students or beginners who are just learning to stand on skis without falling down, to relax and develop the all-important self-confidence needed to head down the slope for the first time.

"I don't understand why anyone would be afraid to come to Colorado to learn how to ski," Pedersen said. "The snow here is so much better that it actually makes it easier instead of trying to learn on that icy hard stuff in the Midwest. Beginner slopes here aren't steeper, they're just longer and that gives a beginner more time to get the feeling of it before he has to go back up the hill to come down again."

Pedersen said the ski school regularly gets students from all over the country. The majority of them, surprisingly enough, come from Texas, but you're almost as likely to share a chairlift with a fellow Chicagoan, a Hoosier or a salesman from Cleveland.

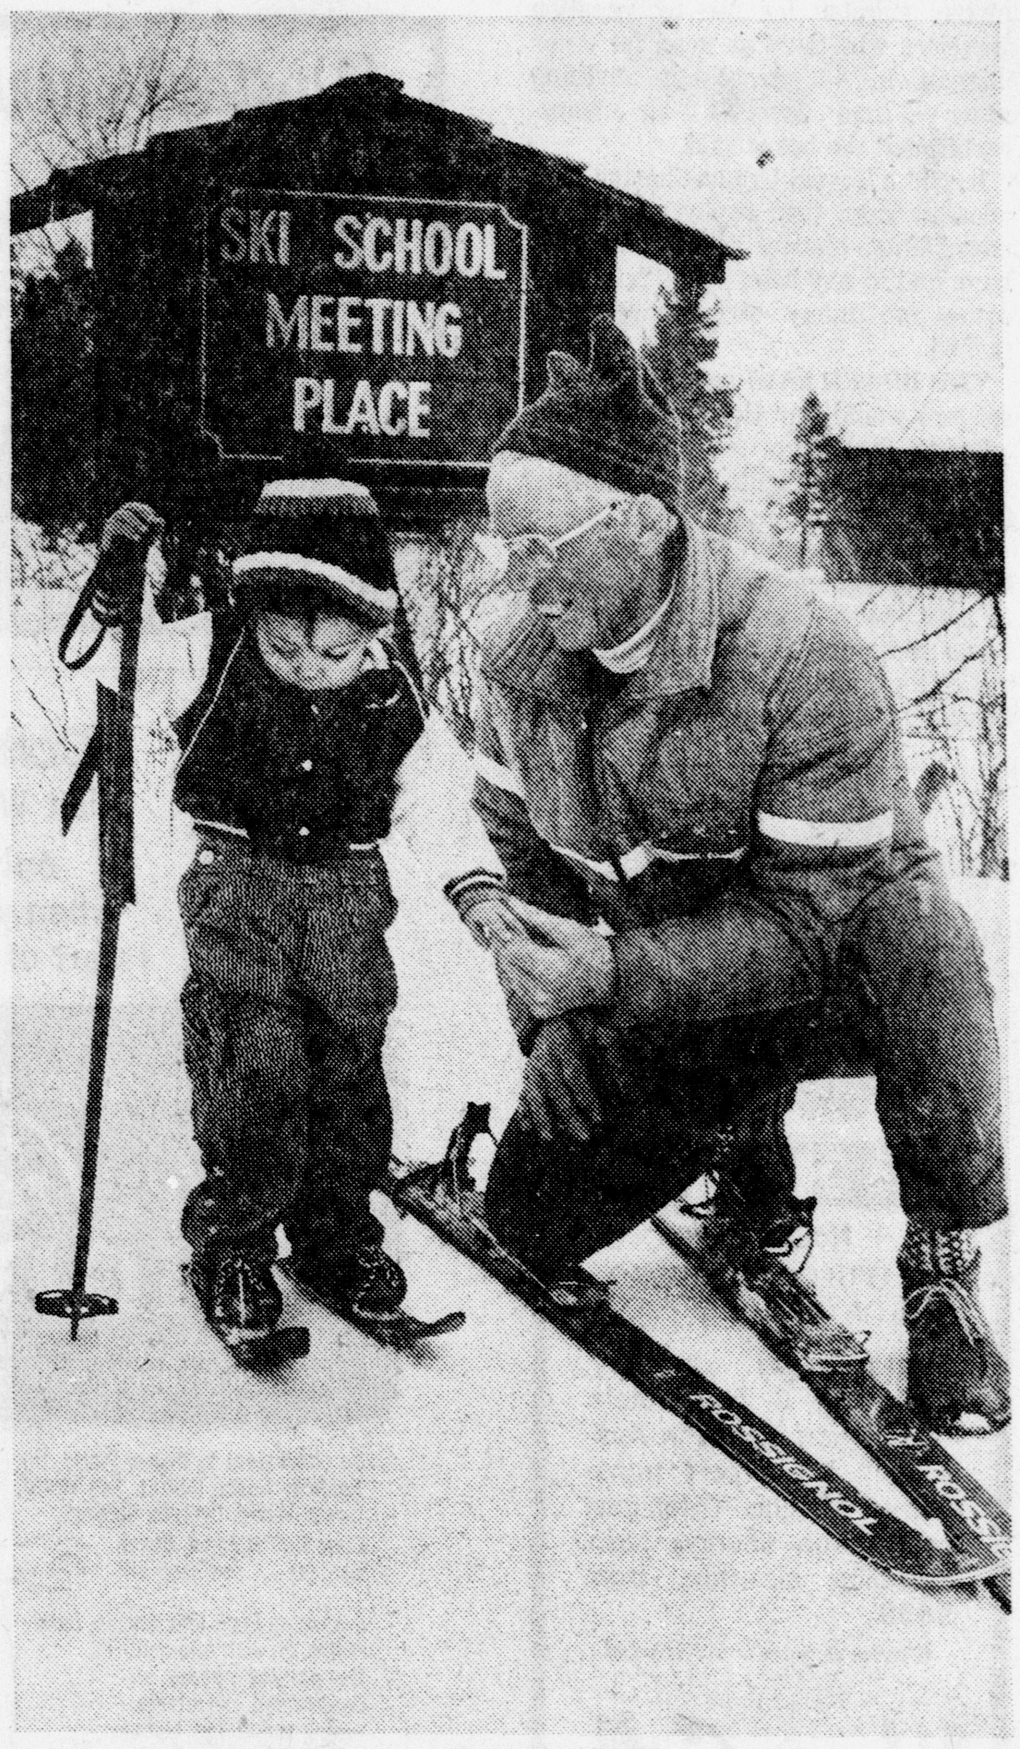
"Many people who have never skied before come out here and just don't think they'll be able to get down the mountain," Pedersen said. "They really surprise themselves, and for me it's so satisfying. If you can help someone learn to enjoy one of the greatest sports in the world, it's a fantastic feeling.

"I like to teach skiing because I love it. If you love something and you can give it away and see those faces light up — wow, there's nothing like it."

The price of learning to ski at some resorts in Colorado can actually be cheaper than taking lessons at some of the nearby ski areas in Wisconsin and Michigan. At Breckenridge, for example, rates are $5 for one 2-hour group lesson of about seven skiers; $7.50 for two 2-hour group lessons (one in the morning, the other in the afternoon); and $12 per hour for private instruction. Daily lift tickets are $7.50, a price very comparable to the average charge at most Midwest ski areas.

Olav said there's just no good reason not to take up skiing by learning to "schuss the big ones" first.

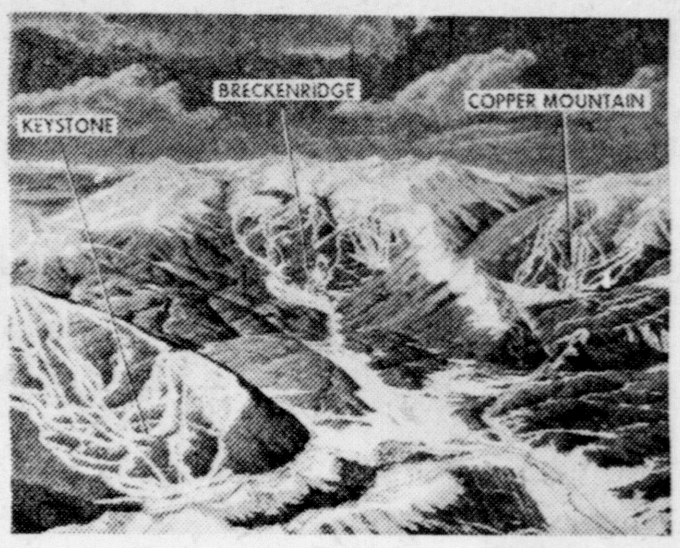
"I wouldn't discourage anybody from coming to Colorado to learn and not just because I work here," he said. "Look at the facts: we have better snow, longer runs and, even if I do say so myself, better instruction because this is where the best instructors want to be. I've never heard of anybody who came out and went home disappointed."



CHRISTOPHER, 2, is one of Olav Pedersen's youngest students at the Breckenridge Ski School. Pedersen said the Rockies are the best place to take up the sport.

Triple threat! Copper, Keystone, Breckenridge

by JILL BETTNER



SUMMIT CO., Colo. — Three resorts here in the heart of the incredible Rocky Mountains are cooperating to offer one of the best winter vacation packages around. It's called "Ski the Summit" and there's something in it for everybody.

The package includes the grandeur of these snow-covered majestic mountains, clear blue skies, miles of exhilarating downhill and cross-country trails and three resorts. All are different, perfect for relaxing, enjoying good food and drink plus a variety of nightlife.

The resorts — Breckenridge, Copper Mountain and Keystone — are located within 15 miles of each other. They are about two hours by train or car from Denver.

Under the "Ski the Summit" plan, vacationers can opt for a rustic condominium in the woods at Breckenridge, a slope-side condo at Copper or a luxurious room at the Keystone Lodge and ski all three fantastic mountains on the same lift ticket.

Any ski enthusiast would glory in the thrills of skiing any one of these mountains. To be able to schuss all three — more than 100 miles of all kinds of trails — for less than the cost of skiing just Keystone, for example, is a good deal. The six-day "Ski the Summit" lift ticket costs $50. A skier staying just at Keystone would pay $54.

Sample package rates for two persons, including lodge or condominium accommodations and the interchangeable lift ticket for seven nights, six days, range from $110 to $170 at Breckenridge; $131 to $225 at Copper Mountain and $83 to $185 at Keystone. Each resort also offers a five-night, four-day package. Rates vary according to the type of unit and proximity to restaurants, shops and other facilities.

As the guests of the resort owners and United Airlines for three days last week, our group of travel and ski writers found Breckenridge, Copper Mountain and Keystone three good alternatives to joining the crowds who flock to Aspen and Vail every season.

Each resort has its own personality. All three, like Colorado's glamour spots, also have the same beautiful mountains and a lot of powder.

With more beginner and intermediate runs than either Copper or Keystone, Breckenridge is perhaps the most ideally suited to novice skiers and families. All accommodations are within walking distance of chairlifts at the base of the mountain and the nearby charming old mining town of Breckenridge.

Like something out of the Old West, Breckenridge could be the Hollywood set for a John Wayne movie. than a wide spot in the road, lined with rows of weathered frame buildings and former saloons reminiscent of a bygone era of gunslinging cowboys and dancehall girls.

There are still several good watering holes in town, some with live entertainment. Eleven different ski shops and other stores that sell everything from Indian turquoise jewelry to T-shirts and souvenirs, round out the business district.

The small town has managed to preserve a comfortable, folksy atmosphere despite the influx of tourists. John Weeks, manager of the Breckenridge Ski Shop, is typical of many young people who like it so much they're willing to work for next to nothing just to live here.

"In Colorado, we all have to put up with the snobbish Aspen-Vail syndrome," Weeks said. "I could have gotten a job there if I'd wanted to, but I like it here. People are friendly, the pace is less hectic and you don't see the dollar signs in everybody's eyes."

The atmosphere at Copper Mountain is equally as pleasant. Although this newer resort caters to freestyle and hot dog skiers, it also might appeal to swinging singles and young marrieds.

Entertainment is lively and varied at Copper. Farley's is a great little bar downstairs in the Snowflake building, center of apres ski activities.

There's also The Brothers where you might see a guitar-strumming country-and-western crooner and Senor McBride's, featuring Mexican food, boogie bands, foosball, pool and pinball. There will be even more entertainment next year after the completion of a 254-room hotel.

The hale and hearty can enjoy a dip in one of those little heated outdoor whirlpools after a long day of skiing. The idea is to don a swimsuit, soak in the steamy pool for several minutes and then jump out and roll in the snow — inv-v-v-igorating!

The whirlpool plus saunas for the more timid are just a few steps away from the clusters of beautifully decorated condominiums. The only disadvantage to Copper is that beginning skiers must take a shuttle bus to a spot several miles away to catch chairlifts to the gentle runs. Upper intermediate and expert skiers can get on a lift to the more difficult runs right outside the door of the Snowflake building.

For those who are used to comfort and want to go first class all the way, the Keystone Lodge is the perfect place to ski without roughing it in the least.

It's "haul-your-own" at Breckenridge and Copper, but at Keystone, bellhops appear magically at the door of the luxurious lodge to whisk luggage, skis and other gear to spacious, elegant rooms.

The center of Keystone Village, an interesting array of expensive little specialty shops and restaurants, the lodge offers facilities to suit any guest. There's a heated indoor-outdoor swimming pool, outdoor whirlpool, saunas and cocktail lounge. The Garden House restaurant offers multi-course Continental cuisine and the less expensive Brasserie has delicious melt-in-your-mouth Belgain waffles as the specialty of the house.

Like Copper, the only drawback to Keystone is that skiing is not available outside your door. Not only beginning skiers, but everyone at Keystone must travel about five miles by free shuttle bus to catch the chairlifts and the base of the mountain.

Although playing tennis at 9,000 feet above sea level could be tough on Midwesterners, it's available at Keystone for those who want to try it. The resort offers two indoor courts and 14 outdoor courts at the John Gardiner Tennis Club, just across the street from the lodge.

The key word to describe all three resorts included in the "Ski the Summit" package only can be variety. The broad range of skiing on all levels, the surprisingly diverse accommodations and kinds of apres ski activities make Summit County's winter wonderland the place to get the most mountains for your money.

MIAMI BEACH COULD be the new Las Vegas of Florida if a petition drive to legalize casino gambling is successful. The gambling proposal is part of a plan to boost declining tourism.

Gambling—will it boost Miami Beach's economy?

MIAMI BEACH — The one-time queen of winter resorts is like an aging hooker, hoping a facelift and some new threads will bring back the good old days.

The facelift is the proposed redevelopment of the South Beach area below once-famous Lincoln Road, the site of some of the world's most luxurious hotels in the 1920s and 1930s but now a decaying boarding house district for the elderly poor.

The new threads are proposals to bring legalized gambling casinos to Miami Beach.

A DRIVE TO obtain at least 210,537 petition signatures calling for a vote on a state constitutional amendment to legalize casino gambling was launched last year. Jay Kashuk, a publicist for the campaign, said the latest tally showed 70,000 signatures have been collected. Deadline for the petition drive is July 1.

Kashuk said the drive gained impetus when the Florida Education Assn. United, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, endorsed casino gambling last fall and began distributing petitions to its 35,000 members. Kashuk said the drive got another boost Dec. 9 when the South Florida Hotel and Motel Assn. endorsed it.

The wild speculation in real estate saddled many hotels with such enormous mortgages that room rates were raised to the point they drove away many tourists. And a rush to build condominium apartments displaced many older hotels and siphoned off thousands of former hotel patrons.

Inflation has turned thousands of once comfortably situated retirees among Miami Beach's 87,000 residents into elderly poor.

THE CITY WHICH saw a new resort hotel open each year for nearly three decades hasn't had a new one built for eight years. South Florida's unemployment rate — 12 per cent compared to the national average of eight per cent — has eroded local purchasing power and tax revenues.

Gambling casino backers, harking back to the golden era of illegal but openly operating casinos here in the 1940s, say casinos will bring back the high rollers who have moved on to Caribbean and Bahama island resorts. They estimate casinos will bring "at least as much tax revenue as Florida received from parimutuel gambling — $83 million last year."

But the biggest hurdle the referendum faces is Gov. Reubin Askew, Florid's most popular governor in at least a generation. Askew is opposed to any extension of gambling — especially casino gambling.

The facelift got a boost early in December when Miami Beach got authorization for funding of the first 250 units of housing for the elderly poor, to move them out of the South Beach boarding houses and clear the way for razing the decrepit structures. City officials say the authorization will enable them to clear everything south of 6th street. But that's only small fraction of the area involved and a minute part of the population to be relocated.

SOME OF MIAMI Beach's problems are of its own making, some the work of nature and some the result of the economic climate.

Beach erosion which has drastically narrowed the sand strips along hotel row is the work of natural forces not fully understood. Pollution of the beaches from ocean sewer outfalls continues.

Jet travel made the Caribbean, Bahamas and other winter resorts more accessible, to Miami Beach's detriment.

Foes of casinos say the legal horse, dog, harness and jai alai parimutuel receipts will suffer, organized crime will come to the state and the moral climate will suffer.

And foes of the South Beach redevelopment say it is nothing more than a move by real estate speculators at the expense of the aged poor, who will be left homeless. The city denies this and says it recognizes its obligation to the poor.

Pro-casino forces say organized crime has been a factor in Florida — even without casinos — for the last 50 years. As for the moral climate, they say an area which has the nation's highest venereal disease rate, has become the nation's cocaine smuggling capital, and is one of the nation's centers of illegal bookmaking could hardly suffer further moral decay.

A new reservation system for outdoor lovers, Space Reserve, will enable campers to reserve space at independent campgrounds throughout the country, free of charge.

The service, although not expected to be fully operational until spring, may be used by campers now to make reservations for late winter, early spring vacations.

To use the service, campers dial a toll-free number and ask for a reservation in the area in which he wishes to stay. He is then given a reservation at a campground subscribing to the service. Campground owners will pay a monthly fee to participate in the program.

For more information on Space Reserve, call toll free 800-237-3213.

THE U.S. TRAVEL Service predicts that more than 12 million foreign visitors will pass through major U.S. gateway cities, including Chicago, during the two-year Bicentennial celebration, 1975-76.

The majority of these visitors — about 4.6 million — are expected to come from Mexico.

AFTER 43 YEARS as a major packager of tropical island vacations, Caribbean Holidays, Inc., is celebrating the nation's 200th birthday by offering a series of deluxe tours called "Explore America with Caribbean Holidays."

The tours, which will begin in May and continue through October, will highlight travel opportunities in the American West from San Diego to Seattle and as far east as the Rockies of New Mexico and Colorado.

During the same period, a series of four "American Rail Tours" will be operated on Amtrak trains out of Chicago to the Grand Canyon, Glacier Park, Yellowstone Park and the Great Southwest.

There are eight separate itineraries in the "Explore America" program. They range from three days and two nights at $72.50 per person plus air fare, to 14 days and 13 nights at $795 per person plus air fare. A number of optional itineraries are also available.

Low-cost flights, minus the frills, urged by CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board last week proposed its most liberal air travel charter rules ever, hoping to give Americans a chance for low-cost international flights without making them buy hotel space or meals in the same package.

The board said its proposal, called the Advance Booking Charter, would be a five-year experiment if approved. The board said it was copying popular plans available to most Europeans and Canadians.

"The ABC passenger would not be required to be a member of any preformed group, and would merely have to purchase his round-trip charter transportation from an independent tour operator or travel agent sufficiently far in advance," a spokesman said.

"THE ABC PROPOSAL would have no requirement that the passenger purchase ground accommodations or any other 'tour package,' and would establish no minimum fare level."

The board said its proposal will be open to public comment through April 5. After that, the CAB said, it will decide whether to put it into effect to run through March 31, 1981.

The CAB said it has tried to make low-cost charter flights available to more Americans, but all of the plans, including the one-stop inclusive tour charter authorized last August, have drawbacks.

The one-stop charter "is not completely suitable for use by vacation travelers who have no need for — or interest in — purchasing anything more than low-cost air transportation," the board said.

It said a Travel Group Charter plan adopted more than two years ago so nonaffiliated charter flights would not have had to buy hotel space failed because too many strings were attached.

THE BOARD SAID under ABC, passengers would buy tickets 60 days in advance for flights to Europe or 30 days ahead for flights to other countries.

All tickets would be round trip. Flights to Europe would have to last at least seven days, but there would be no minimum in other areas.

Tickets would be offered through independent charter operators or travel agents who would purchase blocks of at least 40 seats on an airplane and then sell those seats for whatever price was necessary, the board said.

The board predicted its new proposals would have little or no impact on airline income from scheduled flights because businessmen and many others still would need the flexibility and certainty of travel arrangements offered only by scheduled carriers.

Change filter

Always change the oil filter when replacing the oil if your car is subjected to severe driving conditions such as trailer towing or constant high-speed running.

Many experienced mechanics and fleets change the filter with every oil change to prevent re-circulation of the dirty oil that's caught in an old filter. Keeping oil clean is a major factor in minimizing engine wear.

Plan ahead

Anticipate stops. It is best to plan ahead for all possible traffic conditions. This allows for gradual, rather than abrupt, stops and this smooth driving contributes to better fuel economy.

In addition, gradual braking prolongs the life of brake linings.

GMC Jimmy

- new body design includes a double-walled steel cab with integral drip gutters and internal roll bar

Keep it handy

To solve the "it's never there when you need it" problem, here's a list of items every motorist should keep in his glove compartment.

A flashlight, first aid kit, white cloth to use for emergency signalling, paper towel, "soap-and-towel" packets.

Also, coins taped inside the door for an emergency phone call in case of car trouble.

Change filter

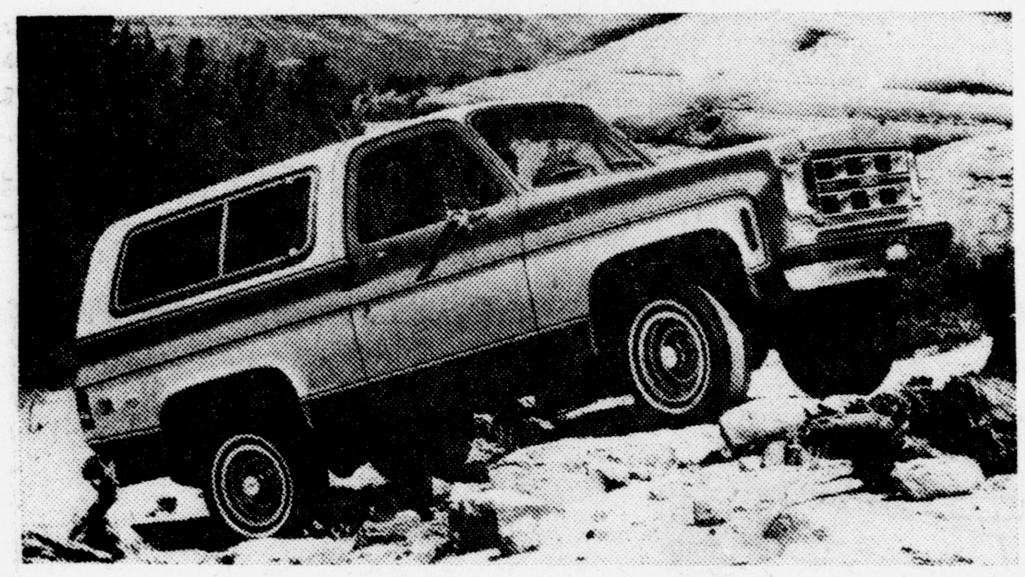
Always change the oil filter when replacing the oil if your car is subjected to severe driving conditions such as trailer towing or constant high-speed running.

Many experienced mechanics and fleets change the filter with every oil change to prevent re-circulation of the dirty oil that's caught in an old filter. Keeping oil clean is a major factor in minimizing engine wear.

Plan ahead

Anticipate stops. It is best to plan ahead for all possible traffic conditions. This allows for gradual, rather than abrupt, stops and this smooth driving contributes to better fuel economy.

In addition, gradual braking prolongs the life of brake linings.



GMC Jimmy

- new body design includes a double-walled steel cab with integral drip gutters and internal roll bar

Keep it handy

To solve the "it's never there when you need it" problem, here's a list of items every motorist should keep in his glove compartment.

A flashlight, first aid kit, white cloth to use for emergency signalling, paper towel, "soap-and-towel" packets.

Also, coins taped inside the door for an emergency phone call in case of car trouble.

For a unique, classic auto, try the Excalibur

If you want the latest in auto technology built into a classic car — and want to be one of only 100 owners — try the Excalibur.

These hand-built classics list for $21,500 for either the Phaeton (four passenger model shown here) or the Roadster (two passenger).

This year marks the first major design change in five years in America's own limited production classic. The 1976 models, known as the Series III, include new sweeping fenders that meet the body of the car to provide easier cleanability of the stainless pipes that jut from the hood.

THE BACK of the Excalibur is also fully enclosed with a full pan at the rear. The twin sidemounts now sport permanent fiberglass covers in place of canvas covers. Two sets of dual air horns cap off the appearance changes.

On the inside, the new leather interior features hides imported from Scotland. In addition to the full gages to monitor its functions, a new warning light system is incorporated to tell the driver of impending problems including a warning light for the air level in the air compressor that drives the air horns.

Only 100 of the Excaliburs have been built each year since its introduction in 1965. The car is modeled on the 1927 Mercedes-Benz SSK.

The Excalibur is powered by a 454 cu. in. Corvette engine and all important running gear is Corvette. The bumpers, exhaust system and all trim are handcrafted from stainless steel. The body is handmade of fiberglass, and is finished in 14 coats of hand-rubbed lacquer.

INCLUDED IN the price of the car is an all-season air conditioning and heating system, four-speaker AM/FM stereo radio and tape system, four-wheel power disc brakes, four-wheel independent suspension power steering, tilt and telescopic steering wheel, three-speed turbo-hydramatic transmission, Borani racing-type wire wheels fitted on all six wheels including the two sidemounts, two tops (convertible and removable hardtop), air horns, Lucas high speed driving lamps, tonneau cover, padded steering wheel and reclinable, contoured bucket seats.

The Excalibur meets all government emission control requirements and safety standards; the 1976 models, for example, are equipped with retractable 5 m.p.h. bumpers.

The auto is on display at Excalibur Motorcars Ltd., 3160 Skokie Valley Rd, Highland Park.

Signs indicate wiper trouble

Here are five visible or audible indicators that will signal need for attention to your windshield wipers. Clear driving vision is especially important during the bad weather season.

Check for the following signs of malfunctioning:

1. Streaking — arcs of unwiped moisture within wiping area.
2. Hazing — a thin, hard-to-see-through film covering most or all of the wiping area even after the blade has just wiped.
3. Chattering — a "stuttering" motion of the blade accompanied by a "chattering" noise as the blade sweeps across the windshield, with some areas left unwiped.
4. Scalloping — a ragged outer edge in the wiping pattern.
5. Rattling — no visible signs of problems, but the wipe blade assembly sounds as if it is very loose. Perdominantly occurs in all-metal construction blades.

Personalize new car with options

Auto manufacturers go to great lengths each year to let the new car buyer tailor his car to personal style and tastes. Any model can be enhanced from a complex list of options.

There are all kinds of trim and paint packages which include special exterior colors and interior improvements like crushed velour seats and lush cut pile carpeting. Most car lines offer the sporty look on some models with different striping, racy engines, spoilers, wheel covers and decals.

Extra insulation, light packages, engine and transmission alternatives, 60/40 split bench seats, special roof treatments and interior materials are all prevalent on the option lists.

IN ADDITION, there are numerous special feature options offered by the manufacturers to make your new car unique and luxurious.

Designers' interiors have been hot options in recent years. In 1976, the Continental Mark IV from Mercury has four new limited edition designer series.

Bill Blass, Cartier, Givenchy and Emilio Pucci have contributed color and trim coordinates. The designer's signature is on the opera windows and on a 22c gold plate in the instrument panel which also carries the owner's name.

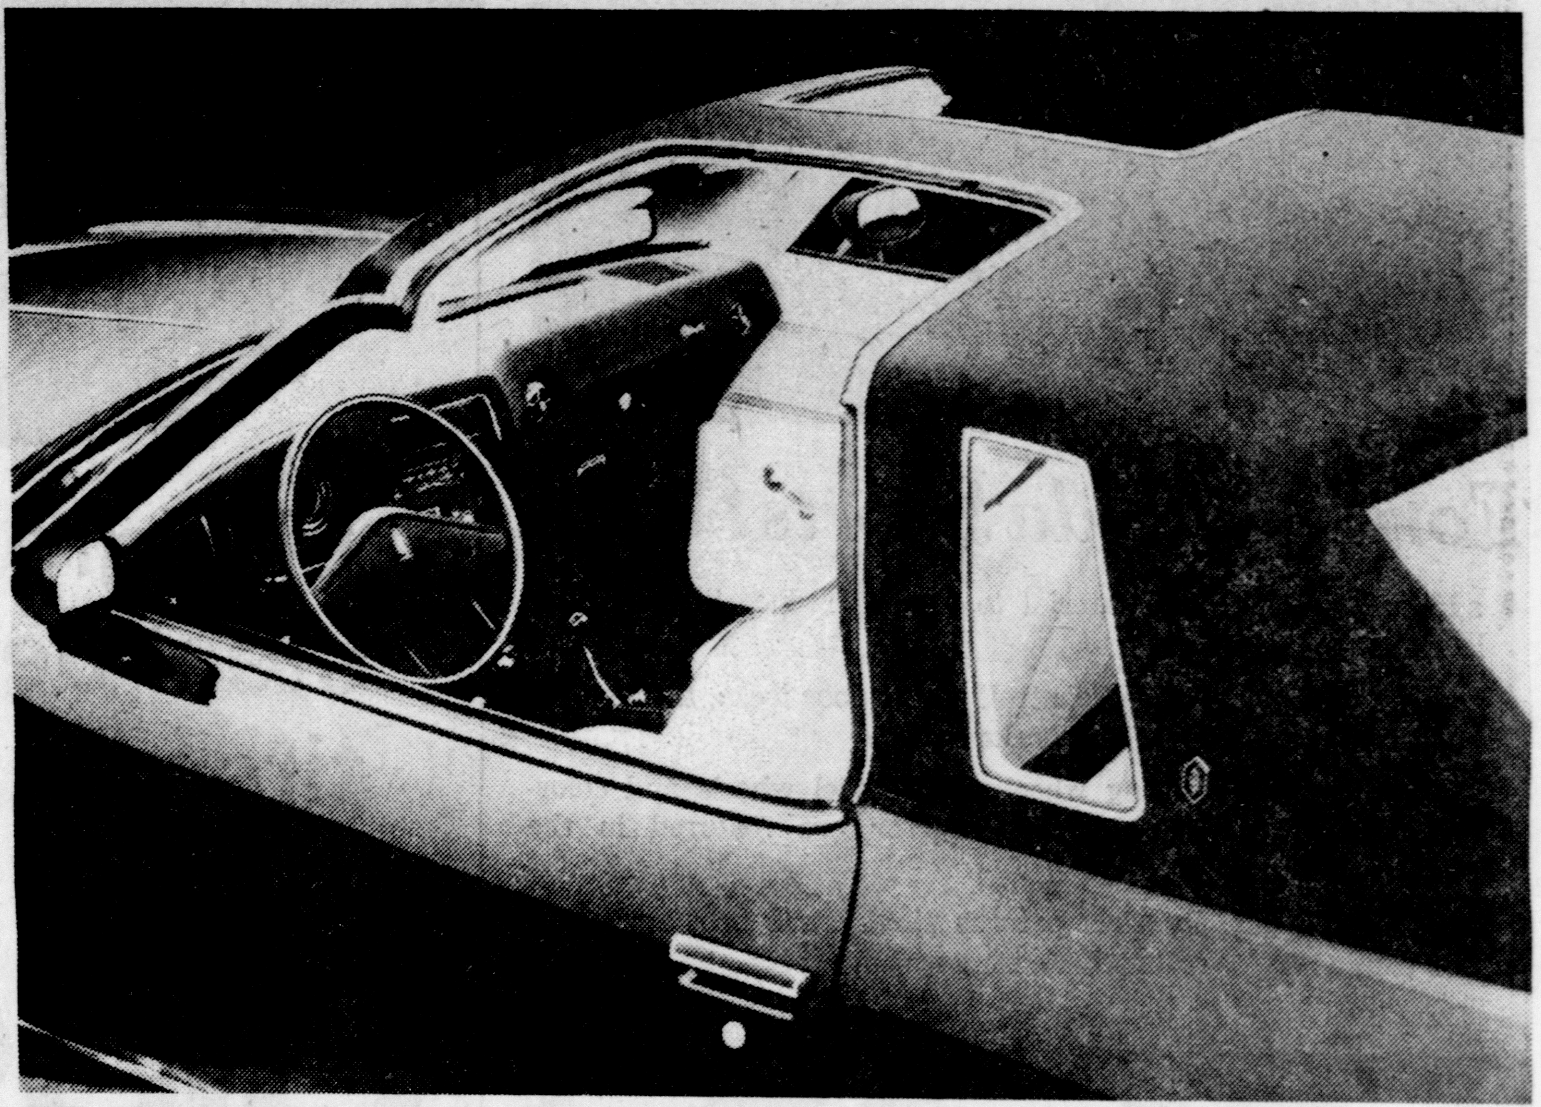
Mercury is also touting the return of two-tone paint jobs on some models.

ONE OPTION for the Lincoln Continental is an AM/FM Multiplex "search and scan" radio or an AM/FM Multiplex stereo radio with Quadrasonic 8-track tape player, complete with a separate sound track for each of four speakers in the car.

Oldsmobile offers intermediate and full size model buyers an optional driver-controlled load leveling system which allows the driver to adjust the level of the car by raising the rear end when carrying a heavy load.

Also optional for intermediate and full size Olds is a Twilight Sentinel that automatically turns on the car's lights at dusk and off at dawn when the car is in operation. With the Sentinel the driver can also set his lights to go off after leaving the car, providing a maximum of three minutes' walking time. The car's lights still can be operated by the regular light switch.

THIS YEAR the convertible lover will have to set his sights on the Cadillac Eldorado which is the only one still produced in the United States. But Buick and Oldsmobile have created roof options to give owners that open air feeling.



THE 1976 OLDS Hurst Hatch roof features two removable tinted glass panels. This convertible-style option is available on the Cutlass Supreme, Cutlass Salon and Cutlass Supreme Brougham coupes.

A new removable Hurst Hatch roof is available on three of the Olds Cutlass coupes. Two tinted glass roof panels can be removed and stored in the trunk.

Buick offers four special roof treatments to coincide with the demise of the convertible — the electric sunroof (with or without vinyl roof), a fixed glass version, and the Hurst Hatch.

The fourth treatment is the Astro Roof — a heavily tinted glass sunroof with a sliding shade. With everything closed, it's a regular solid roof. Sliding back the inner shade provides a glass roof and sliding back the glass opens the car to the fresh air.

AS INDUCEMENTS on the Ford Thunderbird, buyers can now purchase an optional 8-track tape player, stereo search radio, power lumbar seat or automatic headlamp dimmer. Plus there are three new color schemes — Creme and Gold, Bordeaux, and Lipstick — all termed Luxury Groups.

Several Ford models can be ordered with a driver lighted visor vanity mirror, engine block heater or a trailer-towing package.

There's a special decor package called St. Regis for the Chrysler New Yorker Brougham and Newport Custom which includes opera windows and padded canope vinyl roof.

Chrysler can also provide a carpeted trunk on the Cordoba or an automatic vehicle weight control system on full size models.

A SECURITY alarm sytem, sunroof and digital clock are current options on the Dodge Monaco, while you can get a carpeted trunk on the Coronet Brougham sedan.

New car owners can add a lighted vanity visor mirror from Chevrolet, too, while the Pontiac Bonneville can be ordered with adjustable brake and accelerator pedals.

The big story from Plymouth for 1976 is the Volare which they are calling big car comfort in a small package. One big innovation on Volare — and the companion Dodge Aspen — is the isolated front suspension system built around transverse torsion bars and an anti-sway bar.

American Motors Corp. is making it easy for drivers to tell when they're speeding — all speedometer numbers above 55 are printed in red.

So you can take your pick of the options in 1976, and really make your new car personalized.

Timber!

A piece of 4x4x12' lumber could come in handy as a wheel chock should you have to change a flat tire. It will fit snugly behind the spare, too.

Plug misfire can kill 'cat'

Misfiring spark plugs have long been known to cause fuel waste and excessive emissions. They can now contribute to another problem — a nonfunctioning catalytic converter.

When plugs misfire, whether due to fouling, ignition system malfunction, or being just plain worn out, heat in the catalytic converters, designed to change unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide into harmless carbon dioxide and water, normally operate at 900 to 1,500 degrees F. (488 to 816 c).

However, should spark plugs misfire severely, the temperature can be raised as high as 2,200 degrees F., (1,200 C), enough to melt the catalytic agents in the converter and render the unit ineffective.

How to save money on gas

Significant savings on the cost of fuel are in the cards for those who will observe some thoroughly tested suggestions.

As a starter, those who may be buying new cars this year will find that the efficiency of motors has been stepped up substantially by the makers.

However, the driving habits of individual motor vehicle owners can have a profound effect on the miles per gallon they manage to get out of the new cars.

Thus, much of the advice that is to be followed by those who own older cars is equally applicable to driving a new car. For example:

Observing the 55 mile speed limit can yield a 20 per cent gain in fuel economy, say the experts, on faster driving.

A steady soft foot on the accelerator also helps to conserve fuel, while Jack Rabbit starts cause wasteful drain on the fuel supply, extra wear on the drive chain and the tires. Avoid them.

Avoid idling — another caution — idling causes wasteful drain on the fuel supply because it gets you nowhere.

If your new car has been driven 10,000 miles, it would be wise to take it in for a tune-up.

When planning a trip, the wisest thing an automobile owner can do is to take his car to a reliable service center for a complete check.

Keep tires properly inflated. Tire pressure checks cost you nothing. Improperly inflated tires put a wasteful fuel drag on your car.

Finally — wise drivers do their driving "on the top of the tank," which means when the gasoline level reaches the half way mark, they fill up. By doing so, they never get caught short of fuel.

High gear is best

Keep both automatic and manual transmissions in the highest gear possible.

With manual transmission, shift into high gear as soon as you can; with an automatic transmission, use a light foot on the accelerator to encourage the transmission to shift into high gear quickly. These actions will save gasoline.

RUSTPROOFING CHECKLIST

Before you spend one cent to protect your new car, follow this checklist to be sure you're buying real rustproof protection...

☐ Deal only with a professional rustproofer. While many car dealers sell so-called rustproofing service, very few qualify as professionals. Every Ziebart Dealer is factory trained.

☐ Check the guarantee. If the rustproofer only guarantees "those areas treated or rustproofed"—watch out! Go see your Ziebart Dealer.

☐ Ask if your make and model car is covered in the rustproofer's specifications. Your Ziebart Dealer has specifications on more than 450 different makes and models to assure coverage of all critical areas on each car he rustproofs.

☐ Be sure the rustproofer has the specialized tools and equipment required for rustproofing. Some rustproofers try to get by with 3 or 4 spray tools. Your Ziebart Dealer has 9 patented spray tools designed specifically to reach body areas that require rustproofing.

☐ Take your new car directly to your Ziebart Dealer and you don't have to worry about rustproof protection. He's the professional rustproofer with the proven ability and experience.

Avoid distractions, stay on road

Most of us like to think we are careful drivers. And, we are, most of the time. Some accidents happen to drivers who are usually quite careful, but who may have their attention distracted — even for just a moment.

Here is a check list of some of the most frequently encountered distractions:

- Reaching for something in the glove compartment while driving. Cure: Have everything likely to be needed out of glove compartment before starting out, or, pull off the road and stop.
- Trying to read a road map while driving. Cure: If driving on unfamiliar territory, first find out exactly where you are from street names, highway signs, or other landmarks. Then pull off the road, find the location on your map, and plot out your next move.
- Trying to put on or take off a coat or jacket while driving. Cure: Stop the car, out of traffic. How many drivers have been caught with one arm in a coat when a traffic signal turns green?
- Trying to locate an object dropped on the car floor. This hazard is especially dangerous to smokers, who are aware of fire dangers from a fallen cigarette, or aware of damage that can be done to car seat or clothing. Cure: Stop the car, in the case of a cigarette, as quickly as safely possible. Never try to solve this problem while the car is moving.
- Having clutter or garbage on the car floor. Cure: Always carry a garbage collector for pop bottles, soft drink cans, or other items that can so easily roll under a pedal.
- A bug or other insect in the vehicle. This one is prevalent in summer. Cure: Either take the bite, or stop the car at the first opportunity. Sometimes, driving with windows open can encourage insect to leave — he's probably just as happy to be out of your car!
- Items on the dash. Business papers that can blow away, pencils, crayons or pens that can disappear down the defroster vents, portable radios or tape players that can fall, and similar items should never be kept on the dash while driving.
- Storage over the sun visor. Once again, the elastic or whatever secures items can break, causing distractions, or your attention can be momentarily taken while trying to retrieve an item from this position. Cure: For both of these last two items is simple. Just don't do it. There are other places where items can be kept safely.

Ladendorf hits 50th year

The Ladendorf dealership in Des Plaines is marking its 50th year as an Oldsmobile dealer since William J. Ladendorf signed his first selling agreement with Olds in May, 1926.

Ladendorf had started an automobile repair business in the early 1920's, located in a garage in the alley just east of Center Street near Ellinwood in downtown Des Plaines. Prior to then he had worked as a mechanic and a truck salesman for Ford and later a Dodge agency, following his service in World War I with an Army truck transportation company in France.

His large and growing clientele urged him to take on a line of automobiles so they could buy and be serviced locally by him. So it was that he began the long Ladendorf association with Oldsmobile in 1926. In only two years he and his wife, Clara, moved the company into new and larger quarters at 1628 Rand Rd., and were nearly wiped out of business shortly thereafter as the "Great Depression" hit, and then the Rand Road - Des Plaines River bridge collapsed, closing the highway past the dealership for two years.

William J. Ladendorf

Many customers found their way to Ladendorf's for sales and servicing via the back roads, however, and as business again prospered, the facilities on Rand were expanded in 1947 and again in 1953, and during the 60's body shop space was rented from the Petterson family at 1568 Park Place.

Meanwhile, Bill Ladendorf's son, Donald R., joined the company in October, 1945, after his service as a pilot with the Army Air Corps during World War II. He became president of Ladendorf Motors, Inc. in January, 1965, upon the death of his father.

Don's son, David W. Ladendorf, joined the company in December, 1969, after earning a business degree from Iowa State University, making the third generation of Ladendorfs in the dealership.

The firm moved to its present location on Rand Road near Central and Mt. Prospect Roads on January 1, 1969, where approximately nine acres of land offer showroom space, service and body shop facilities, large used car lot, car rental and leasing headquarters, and a car wash next door.

Special events marking the Golden Anniversary are being planned around the Ladendorf theme "50 Years Old" by the firm which is Chicagoland's oldest and largest Oldsmobile dealership.

Points to help start cold motor

1. Transmission: To lessen the load on the starter, release manual shift transmissions by depressing the clutch pedal; place automatic transmission in "neutral" before attempting to start the engine.

2. Electrical accessories: Shut off lights, windshield wipers, defrosters, heater, radio, etc., before attempting to start the engine. This will assure maximum voltage available for both the starter motor and the ignition system.

3. Choking: While complete setting of hand choke is obvious, some drivers don't realize that most automatic chokes must be set "on" by depressing the accelerator before starting. (Many cold weather starting failures are due entirely to this oversight.)

4. Pumping the accelerator: An additional one or two pumps on the accelerator pedal will dump raw gasoline into the intake manifold and help get enough vaporized fuel into the cylinders during very cold weather.

5. Throttle setting: When the starter is energized, the accelerator should be about half way down to get enough air rushing through the manifold to pick up the fuel and carry it into the cylinders.

6. Starter motor: Energize the starter at relatively short intervals. Avoid grinding away or you may overheat the starter motor and cause excessive drain on the battery.

7. Shut-off: Place transmission in "neutral" and run engine at fast idle. When switch is off, depress accelerator to "flood" the engine. This will insure a supply of gasoline in the cylinders for the next start.

Let there be light

If you drive an older car, it's increasingly important to check the alignment of your headlights.

As cars get older, they develop sagging springs which can affect aim of the lights. The Borg-Warner Company suggests getting headlights adjusted every six months.

Volkswagen Bus

- air cooled fuel injection power plant is increased from 1.8 to 2.0 liters. Torque is boosted from 90 foot pounds at 4,200 rpm to 101 foot pounds at 3000.
- 94.5 inch wheelbase
- with rear seats removed, the Bus provides 176.5 cubic feet of interior space
- automatic transmission optional
- four-wheel independent suspension using torsion bars that absorb bumps
- wide sliding door that opens in tight quarters and permits convenient curbside loading
- 12 month, 20,000 mile warranty plan

International Scout II "Spirit"

- four-wheel drive
- features a blue denim "safari" convertible top and a red, white and blue exterior color combination as well as a color-keyed roll bar, sport steering wheel and 10-inch tires
- vinyl transmission cover, shift tower, spare tire cover, vinyl cargo and floor mats, folding rear seat and 1/3-2/3 folding front seat

Cold? Thermostat may be culprit

If you have been putting up with a not-so-hot heater in your car, it may be an indication of damage to more than your disposition.

Your car's heater derives its heat from the water that circulates through the cooling system. When that water is too cool to warm your feet, it probably means your engine is cold, too!

The usual cause of overcooling is an incorrect or defective thermostat. The net effect will be felt in your pocketbook as well as in the car on cold days.

Most immediately, you will find your gasoline bills rising over and above the normal cold weather increase when your choke is working overtime. The longer your choke is on, the greater your gas consumption.

Then there is oil dilution, leading to sludge formation. Sound ominous? It is to an engine.

In a cold engine, fuel doesn't vaporize well, tends to seep in liquid form down into the engine oil, instead of burning in the cylinder. This, plus water formed by condensation in the cold engine, reduces the lubricating qualities of the oil.

The final horror of the cold engine is the fouling of spark plugs, which may ensue. Plugs fire poorly, foul rapidly and compound the problem.

But very real

Suburban poverty hidden, vague

by KURT BAER

Poverty in the Northwest suburbs. Too often it's anonymous, hidden and barricaded.

Michael Raimondi, new 28-year-old director of the Northwest Opportunity Center, Arlington Heights, is learning how the suburbs camouflage their poor.

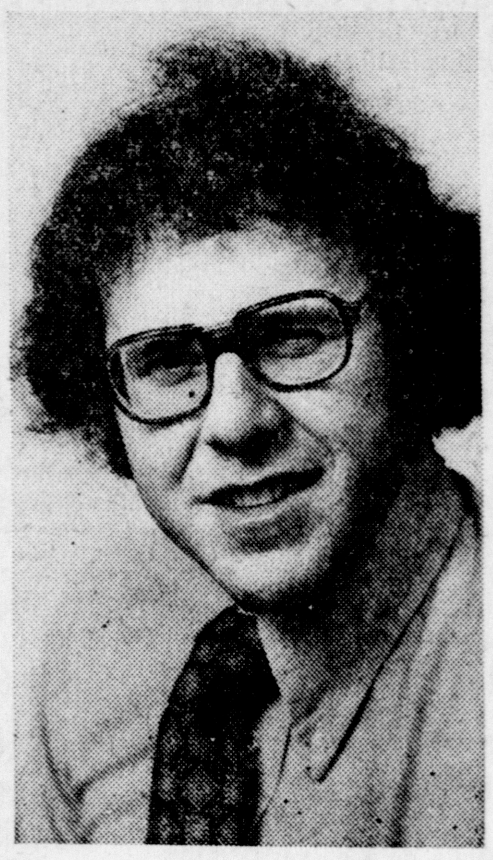
"My first impression was probably a lot like everybody else's from the city — that the suburbs are the fulfillment of the American dream," says Raimondi who has been on the new job a month.

"BUT WHEN I accompanied a case worker on the daily rounds I saw the old barns and converted motel rooms and a lot of people living in a very small space."

The Northwest Opportunity Center, located at 8 W. College Dr., Arlington Heights, does not have a high visibility as a social service agency. Like so many of the poor people it serves, the Opportunity Center can get lost in the suburbanites' rush for a life where the livin' is easy.

"Our recognition is low, mostly word-of-mouth. We're not located in an area where a lot of people just drive by and even if we were, I wonder if people would understand what we do," Raimondi says.

He and his staff of counselors provide assistance in housing, food, jobs, health, finance and education for low-income and dislocated people. A total of 2,600 families was helped last year.



MICHAEL RAIMONDI

"WE ARE THE only poverty agency in seven townships, a geographic area that would cover the majority of the City of Chicago," Raimondi says. Low-income residents of Barrington, Elk Grove, Hanover, Maine, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships rely on the center's services.

"We will make ourselves known when we handle every problem that people bring to us. We have to have high credibility in the community so that people really believe in what's going on here."

Raimondi worked five years with the Model Cities program in Chicago and one year with the Illinois Assn. of Community Action Programs before joining the Northwest Opportunity Center in January.

"During my interview for the job I was asked if I thought there was a special problem in the suburbs because people in poverty are living in the midst of a lot of money.

"I SAID that I thought poverty was pretty much the same anywhere. There is always affluence near by to add to the strain of being poor. It is harder to work for a poverty agency in an area like this one because people don't expect it out here," Raimondi says.

Nearly half of the people helped by the Northwest Opportunity Center are Spanish-speaking. "Problems of translation" are common he says. Clients generally need help with more than just one problem. "We almost never deal with one family for just one thing. If it's an unwed mother, for example, she might need help with day care, a job and food."

Raimondi likes to talk about the human side of the Northwest Opportunity Center and its programs. But a big part of his job centers around financing.

The Northwest Opportunity Center operates with a half million dollar budget.

FEDERAL FUNDS administered through the community and Economic Development Assn. of Cook County, and contributions from Northwest suburban townships are the Center's principal sources of money.

In addition, volunteers donate an estimated $30,000 worth of services each year. Another $58,000 in dental and medical aid is contributed to help center clients.

For bookkeeping purposes, the Northwest Opportunity Center "bills" townships on an hourly basis for the services it gives their residents. But in actuality, Raimondi must depend on voluntary contributions from township government.

"They have revenue sharing funds for this purpose and many times we take cases they cannot handle through general assistance.

"BUT WE'RE still really 'out begging' for their support," he says.

This year Raimondi is worried that Wheeling Township will not contribute to the Opportunity Center because of its plans to spend $650,000 to build a new town hall at 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The Northwest Opportunity Center sees more families from Wheeling Township than any other township it serves, Raimondi says, over 600 families last year. "If we don't get a contribution from Wheeling Township, it'll really hurt."

At Feb. 24 special session

sneaky way out.

"I WOULD WELCOME the opportunity to question Mr. Aldrich. I want to know if it's a sour grapes personality clash type letter, or if there is a lot of truth in it," Bettman said.

Aldrich, 50, retired from the Arlington Heights police force in September after 24 years of service.

His letter and report charged that morale in the police department is "at the lowest ebb in 24 years.

"Decisiveness is not encouraged, rather discouraged; innovativeness is downgraded; and divisiveness is encouraged," Aldrich's letter said.

ALDRICH'S TWO-PAGE report criticized the department's procedures for budgeting, record keeping and its reporting system, as well as the lack of direction and fragmentation within the department.

Trustee David Griffin said the letter should only be considered "hearsay," until after Aldrich is questioned.

"We have to be careful not to become prejudicial. To assume these charges are factual would be a grave error," Griffin said.

Trustee Frank Palmatier suggested a special consultant be hired to investigate the department's operations.

"TO HIRE A consultant couldn't help but improve the operations of the police department and give citizens confidence in the effectiveness and able management of the department," he said.

Other trustees objected, saying the board should meet with Aldrich and others in the department first.

"Hiring a consultant is premature. We should first cross-examine Mr. Aldrich," Bettman said. "He made some real strong statements. No one should be allowed to write a letter and not face some questions about it."

Trustee Robert Miller suggested that the matter be reviewed by the police and fire commission so newspapers "won't play it up for a couple of more issues."

No after-school activity buses in Dist. 23

The Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education has rejected a proposal to schedule activity buses for children who remain at school for extra-curricular activities.

The board received a report last week from James Hendren, business manager, outlining the costs of employing one or more activity buses but rejected the idea primarily because of the high cost. Hendren said no state funding was available for such a bus, and the service was not mandated by the state.

The activity bus issue is not finished, however. The board discussed the idea of surveying parents on their paying for the children to ride an activity bus, and the possibilities will continue to be discussed in the district's planning committee.

In addition, the board appropriated $500 to be used by district students to finance an April 10 Bicentennial Concert at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. The board said it was an excellent way for students and the community to commemorate the Bicentennial.

Seminar on planning scheduled Thursday

The Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area League of Women Voters will sponsor a seminar on comprehensive planning Thursday.

The seminar, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., will cover such topics as the politics of planning, social planning and the new Cook County comprehensive plan.

Taking part in the discussion will be Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner; Leah Cummins, Elk Grove Village plan commissioner; Carl Genrich, chairman of the Buffalo Grove plan commission; Carolyn Krause, chairman of the Mount Prospect zoning board; and Madeline Schroeder, Arlington Heights trustee.

The meeting is open to the public. For more information, contact Kay Muller, 392-9355.

Correction

A story in Saturday's Suburban Digest incorrectly stated that Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 has joined High School Dist. 214 and two other elementary districts in opposing a unit district in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Dist. 15 board members have asked the administration to study the issue and report back to the board in March.

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 and Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 have voted to oppose the unit district. Three other elementary school boards also are studying whether to oppose the move.

False alarms plague fire officials

by United Press International

In subtle ways the clang of the alarm of a firehouse gears the firemen for the emergency ahead. Their metabolism quickens and the adrenalin flows more freely.

Reflexes, honed to a fine edge by years of training and experience, prepare them for the tasks ahead. They are "up" for any emergency.

The engines, sirens howling, hurtle through the streets often against the flow of traffic and in minutes arrive in the area of the "conflagration" indicated by the alarm.

Then the big let down — no fire and nobody at the scene to provide information.

THIS SCENARIO IS enacted hundreds of thousands of times throughout the country each year and the cost to taxpayers is in the millions of dollars.

In New York City alone, there were more than 200,000 malicious fire alarms (MFAs) in 1975. This figure is more than 50 per cent of all alarms turned in last year.

Victor A. Collymore, assistant fire commissioner in New York, said children are the prime offenders.

Collymore said that from a general discussion with youngsters he and others have concluded that young people turn in MFAs as "an outgrowth of boredom, a challenging of the system, to prove through some sort of machismo, that testing the establishment is the manly thing to do."

The highest rate of false alarms, he said "occur in the underprivileged areas of the city populated maily by Hispanics and blacks."

IN CHICAGO, another city where more than half the alarms turned in are false, the fire department has tried various methods of stopping them.

One unsuccessful attempt was the use of telephone box alarms instead of pull alarms. Fire officials thought voice contact with a dispatcher would reduce the incidence of MFAs but found that alarms from those boxes were 98 per cent false.

A current pilot program significantly reducing the number of false alarms in Chicago, is turning the alarm box toward the street instead of the sidewalk. It will then be in view of motorists, patroling police, and residents of the opposite side of the street, thus increasing the visibility level of the perpetrator.

On the West Coast, San Francisco has an exceptionally high rate of false alarms. During fiscal year 1974-75 the city had 15,069 box alarms of which 10,805 were false for a better than 70 per cent ratio.

Lt. James Mahoney of that city's fire department blamed the high incidence on what called "the complete lack of concern and respect for property. It runs through society. It is evidenced in all types of crime, such as purse snatchings where not only is the purse taken but the victim is beaten up."

ST. LOUIS ALSO suffered a greater than 50 per cent ratio of MFAs blamed for the most part on kids and drunks. A spokesman said enforcement of the law in these cases had a low priority because the police had better things to do.

The picture nationwide is not altogether bleak.

In Baltimore, for instance, there was a slight increase in MFAs but the ratio to total alarms was down.

Capt. John Frazier, head of a two-man fire department team that devotes its entire time investigating false alarms, said he attributed the drop to successful prosecutions and strict attention to alarms.

"Our calls are all tape recorded, and you get very few repeat offenders, because we investigate them all. If we can't get them into court, we're very successful in stopping them," he said.

THE CITY experimented briefly last year with a phone-booth type of alarm box that would lock the person making the call inside. The city solicitor, however, ruled the booths unconstitutional.

Pittsburgh also showed a decrease in false fire alarms, the first since 1965. Fire Chief Thomas J. Kennelly said the problem is still grave because for every genuine alarm the fire department received last year they got one false alarm.

He attributed the decline to pushing of preventive programs especially in grade school.

"High school students have already reached the callous age where they're not impressed by firemen or the dangers which can result from false alarms," he said.

Kennelly also said federal summer employment for teenagers gave the youths "something better to do other than improvise amusing incidents like pulling alarms."

WASHINGTON, D.C. reported only a 34 per cent ratio of MFAs. Battalion Chief Joseph R. Jeffrey said the use of voice alarm boxes has cut the false alarm rate "by 60-70 per cent in high incidence areas."

Jeffrey said that "with the voice alarm boxes, they have to talk into them and many people hesitate to do it. It has a psychological effect."

In Dallas, where false alarms run only at about a 10 per cent rate, a fire department spokesman said officials try to catch offenders by running an immediate phone check when a caller reports a fire. The caller is asked the address and number of the phone he is using.

While the caller is still on the line, a call is placed to the number. If the line is busy, fire officials judge it as genuine. If it rings a false alarm is suspected.

IN PHILADELPHIA, Fire Capt. Charles Lewis of the fire marshal's office, said about 17 per cent of all alarms were false, a surprisingly low number for the city ranked fourth in population for the nation.

Capt. Lewis noted that there was a decrease of 627 in the number of false alarms in 1975 compared to 1974. He attributed this to the distribution of pamphlets in the communities where the alarms were pulled, a program begun in 1973.

"In this way possibly we might be handing a brochure to the one who pulled the box," he said.

In Atlanta, fire officials said false alarms were down about 0.7 per cent attributable to rearrangement of some street fireboxes.

"We have put the boxes in better lighted positions so that anybody tampering with them would be more conspicuous," said Communications Chief M. H. Sullivan.

IN BOSTON, fire department spokesman Capt. John Collins, said false alarms ran about 29 per cent. Collins feels the best way to deal with the problem is not to discuss it so much.

"Back in 1972 we had a concentrated drive calling attention to the problem," he said. "We had public announcements over the radio, donated advertising space and had quite a concerted drive to cut down on false alarms.

"That year we had our greatest amount of false alarms — almost 34 per cent. In 1973 we did just the opposite and showed a decrease. Frankly we haven't done much about it lately," he said.

Who turns in false alarms and why do they do it?2

Accurate assessments are difficult because of the low rate of arrests. But there are certain common threads in opinions given by authorities.

AS PREVIOUSLY mentioned, Collymore in New York attributes the bulk of the false alarms to youngsters doing it out of boredom and to demonstrate their "machismo."

In St. Louis, the spokesman said, "Most of the false alarms are turned in by kids who like to see the fire engines come. Adults who turn in false alarms are either drunk or have something wrong with them."

Capt. Collins of Boston said it was done "probably for kicks. The thing goes pretty deep. I could see it once in a while — someone does it for kicks. But it keeps happening and that's pretty deep. Maybe a psychiatrist could tell."

There are many reasons according to Capt. Lewis of Philadelphia.

"They may be pranksters or kids with mental disturbances or someone who wants to see action, who wants to see fire engines come. Another reason is some people just want to be caught," he said.

LEWIS SAID IN many cases the false alarm puller becomes the arsonist.

"We've found in our experience in a large number of cases when we grab someone for setting a fire, a lot of times we had them before for pulling a false alarm. They have graduated from misdemeanor to felony," he said.

Capt. Frazier of Baltimore advanced the theory that a lot of false alarms are the results of neighborhood feuds.

"A lot of people call them in because they want to get even with somebody. Most of the people involved are people who know each other. It's a form of harassment when the fire truck pulls up in front of someone's house."

Frazier said most of those who called in the false alarms were young people between 12 and 16, although the department had false alarms last year from persons aged four to 83.

IN PITTSBURGH, Chief Kennelly said "everybody is doing it. A lot of irresponsible older people who are usually eccentric in some manner or other, drunks. Teen-agers are probably our greatest contributors but we even get false alarms from small children who don't even go to school yet."

Kennelly perhaps holds a record of sorts for false fire alarm perpetrators. He reported a call was received from a preschooler who pulled the alarm by standing on a tricycle seat with a preschool friend holding the bike steady.

Perhaps the confusion was best summed up by communications Chief Sullivan in Atlanta who said "I was a fire investigator for 17 years and I was never able to get any satisfactory answer as to why they did it."

SPANISH MOSS FRAMES Dorothy Johnson (left), Carmen Polk and Peggy Meyer, who are cleaning and polishing a fire truck in a field near the Micanopy firehouse. The all-woman volunteer fire department of 10 members put out fires and run the rescue unit every Monday through Friday during daylight hours in this north Central Florida town.

Female brigade fights fires in Florida

MICANOPY, Fla. (UPI) — "It's very seldom you see a man roaming around this town between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays," said firewoman Danette Smith.

So in Micanopy, a town of about 500 inhabitants in North Central Florida, the women put out the fires and run the rescue unit every Monday through Friday during the daylight hours.

The idea for the all-woman volunteer fire department, which now has 10 members, was adopted two years ago, after fire totally destroyed a house because the men volunteers were working in nearby Gainesville and couldn't get back in time.

"None of us knew how to drive the fire engine," said Mrs. Smith, "and no one realized there was a fire hydrant right in front of the house. All someone had to do was connect a hose to it."

WHEN THE CITY council approved the all-woman fire brigade, all of its original members were firemen's wives.

They had to use the men's coats and boots until the smaller gear ordered for their petite sizes could arrive.

"We slopped around in some of the awfullest stuff," recalled Mrs. Smith. "We still look like a bunch of G.I.'s. But we're not out to be gorgeous."

Since those first months, when the townsfolk openly laughed at them, the women firefighters have obtained special training at a local community college. All except one can drive the five-gear fire truck.

"WHOEVER GETS there first gets it out," said Mrs. Smith. "The one girl who can't drive it doesn't know how to drive a standard shift on a car either."

The firewomen, mostly housewives, but also a postal clerk, a part-time school teacher and a school bus driver, now know how to handle heavy fire hoses and how to strap 35-pound oxygen tanks on their backs, just like any fireman.

Mrs. Smith said there are few fires during the summer, but in the winter the Micanopy Fire Department averages about four or five calls a week, mostly to put out brush fires.

"I've not come in contact with an instance where we've not been able to handle it," she said. "It would be a bigger problem, though, if we had bigger buildings here."

THE TALLEST building in Micanopy is the three-story center of modern arts, and that hasn't caught fire yet.

"There might be some problems if we had to climb ladders with those heavy air tanks," Mrs. Smith said. "A couple of our girls don't weigh but 100 pounds."

The women are alerted to a fire call through an alarm system hooked up between the fire house and five ladies' homes. The others are called by telephone.

At times the firewomen have been caught with their hair in curlers and one woman was sunning herself in a bikini when an alarm went off. She threw her red canvas coat over the bikini and dashed off to the firehouse.

MRS. SMITH said the women's children "automatically go to the door" when they hear an alarm. One lady drops her two small children off with her mother. Mrs. Smith takes her smallest to a nearby babysitter. Most of the other children are in school during the hours the women are on duty.

The idea of having the women put out the daytime fires has spread to other towns in the area. But none is an all-woman contingent like Micanopy's.
